BUILD YOUR NEW CHURCH OR HALL ON VERSATILITY AND UNSHAKABLE STOCKS ECONOMY

Catholic Church of the Assumption, Southampton.

These days a church has to be a great deal more than a church.

It has to be a social centre too.

Even a sports hall.

But who do you go to — a conventional builder, or Stocks?

Stocks will build you a church or hall cheaper than any conventional builder, and can complete the job in half the time.

And the modular Stocks system is infinitely variable.

Founded on economy, versatility and permanence your new church building will be individually designed — modern or traditional style.

What's more the exclusive Stocks package deal takes all the work and worry off your hands — right through from design to decoration.

Remember Stocks — the unshakable one.

Send now for colour brochure featuring actual case histories and details of how Stocks can bring you considerable savings on your new church building.

When it's a case of insurance, today's Priest needs to be something of a sleuth. By the process of deduction he'll examine the services, prices and covers offered by various insurance companies.

On investigation, the Church & General Insurance Company reveals a wide range of policies suitable for Dioceses, Religious Orders, Congregations, Schools, Colleges, Charities and similar bodies.

Further investigation will reveal that the Company has a strong tradition of personal service to its policyholders, perfected by over seventy years experience, which includes a full range of insurances for the individual. All this done, today's Priest reaches a quod erat demonstrandum.

THE CHURCH IN SCOTLAND

THE HIERARCHY OF SCOTLAND

I

FROM THE EXTINCTION OF THE HIERARCHY IN 1603 TILL ITS RESTORATION IN 1878

The ancient hierarchy ended with the death of James Beaton, archbishop of Glasgow, at Paris on 24th April, 1603, aged 86.

Rome showed little interest in Scottish affairs in the years following the reformation. From 1598 to 1621 Scottish Catholics were nominally subject to the English archpriests but there is no evidence that they concerned themselves with their Scottish subjects. The appointment of the first English vicar apostolic, William Bishop (1623-1624), was of a different order since his jurisdiction was episcopal and included Scotland. In a petition to Gregory XV, the few Scottish secular priests still on the Continent appealed to the papal bull, Cum universi, dated 13th March 1592, which declared the Scottish Church subject only to the Roman see; and the point was conceded. Nevertheless, the brief in 1625 appointing the second English vicar apostolic, Richard Smith, again included Scotland but on this occasion the issue of jurisdiction does not appear to have been raised. Smith's stay in England, in the event, was short and he had left by 1631. The work of the Irish Franciscan mission in the Highlands and Islands was the main burden of the missionary effort in Scotland during these years; and it was not until 1650 that a group of Scottish seculars met in Paris under the leadership of William Ballantine to consider what should be done.

Dates of events which occurred in Scotland before 1752 are given in Old Style while those which took place in European countries before 1752 are expressed in New Style. Consecrations qualified by the phrase "in secret" are those for which extraordinary measures were taken to conceal both the event and the news that it had taken place.

Their names should be recorded: William Ballantine, James Crichton, William Leslie, Thomas Lumsden, John Smith and John Walker. They reached two important conclusions: to send William Leslie to Rome as agent for the Scottish secular clergy; and to petition Propaganda for the incorporation of the clergy into a missionary body, adequately subsidised by Rome. This was done by a decree of the Congregation de propaganda fide, dated 13th October, 1653; and it is to Ballantine that the credit for this first step is due.

PREFECTS APOSTOLIC

1. William Ballantine: born 1618, son of Thomas Ballantine (or Bannatine), minister of North Berwick, and Margaret Cockburn; brought up as a Presbyterian in Douglas where his father was incumbent from June 1621; educated University of Edinburgh (matriculated 1635, but left without graduating, presumably in 1636); received into Catholic Church, probably at Paris, date unknown; entered Scots College, Rome, to study for priesthood, 1641, and took the oath, 1st November; "factus ob infirmitatem citius sacerdos," 3rd December 1645; left the College, 15th March 1646; prefect of studies at Scots College, Paris; arrived in Scotland, "immediately before the Hellish Murder of the Best of Kings" [30th January 1649]; returned to Paris, 1650, and arranged meeting of six Scottish priests at which it was agreed that he and John Walker should petition Propaganda for the appointment of a prefect and missionaries with subsidy and that William Leslie should go to Rome as agent for Scottish secular priests; appointed prefect, 13th October 1653; arrested at Rye, Sussex, England, September 1656, imprisoned until July 1658, released on personal order of the Protector, Oliver Cromwell, with a gift of £60 to take him to France; returned to Scotland, 18th May 1660; died at Elgin, 2nd September 1661, and is buried in the Huntly aisle, Elgin Cathedral, Moray; author of A preparation for death or, The practice of dying well (2nd edition, 1715).
2. Alexander Winchester: born at Garmouth, Moray, c. 1625 [parents' names unknown]; studied for four years at Rheims and for four further years under the Jesuits at Dijon; entered Scots College, Rome, to study for priesthood, 27th May 1651; ordained priest, 21st May 1656; left College, 1657 [at a meeting of Propaganda, 3rd September 1657, described as a member of Scots College in Rome who had just finished his studies]; appointed prefect 12th June 1662; school with 60 pupils established on Skye, c. 1663, by Ewen McAllister, schoolmaster, but subsequently driven out and re-established with 24 pupils in Glen Garry, 1665; absent in France, 1668-1672, during which period John Walker substituted as prefect but was not formally appointed as such by Propaganda; apostolic visitation of Scotland by Alexander Leslie, 1677-1680, with report submitted to Propaganda, January 1681; proposed by John Leyburne, vicar apostolic of England, to Propaganda as bishop for Scotland, 19th February 1686; Dean of Chapel Royal, Holyrood, 1687; escaped north to Gordon Castle at the Revolution in 1688; resigned July 1697; died at Banff, 14th January 1708, and is buried in St. Ninian's churchyard, Tynet, Moray. [There is little prospect of discovering Winchester's real name. The parish register for Urquhart in the presbytery of Elgin, which includes Garmouth, has nothing earlier than 1647. During his life he was known under many aliases, especially that of Dunbar; there is a Nicholas Dunbar, a merchant of Moray, included in the list of Catholics in Prefect Ballantine's report to Propaganda in 1660. Clapperton, however, says that his father's name was John Gray and implies that he was born in 1629. "Winchester" is a north-east of Scotland name, pronounced "Winster", and it is in the latter form that his name appears in the Scots College register and in the ordination registers of the Roman vicariate.]

In practice the prefecture apostolic covered only the Scots-speaking parts of the country. From 1612 to 1647 Gaelic-speaking Catholics in the Hebrides and Western Highlands of Scotland were ministered to by priests from the Irish Franciscan mission who were formally commissioned in this work by Urban VIII on 4th September 1623. At first they worked from the Irish Franciscan College of St. Anthony, Leuven, Belgium, but in 1626 they were granted as their headquarters the friary at Bonamargy, County Antrim, Ireland, traditional burial place of the MacDonnells of Antrim, descendants of the Lords of the Isles. The Irish spoken by these missionaries was understood by the people of the Highlands and Islands. The most effective period of their work was during the years 1624-1637. Although Patrick Hegarty worked from Bonamargy as prefect of this mission from 1631 to 1647, he did not visit Scotland during this period and the priest who spent the greatest number of years on the mission was Patrick Brady who laboured, chiefly in Sutherland, from 1619 to 1637. The last priest to leave was Cornelius Ward in the summer of 1637. Although the mission was formally re-established on 22nd January 1647 under Edmund McCann, no details of this new enterprise have come down to us and there is no evidence that any missionaries ever reached the Highlands and Islands.

Further attempts to carry on this mission were made by the Vincenians of whom the best known is Francis White, "a truly Apostolic man," who was sent to Scotland by St. Vincent de Paul in 1654 and who worked in the West Highlands until his death on 28th January 1679. On 20th April 1665 and 20th September 1666 Propaganda in Congregation considered requests from the prefect, Alexander Winchester, that Irish-speaking priests should again be sent to the Highlands. It was eventually decided by Propaganda that a separate prefect apostolic for the Highlands and Islands should be provided and, on 17th September 1669, St. Oliver Plunkett, nominated only two months earlier to the archbishopric of Armagh, Ireland, was appointed additionally to this office and continued in it until his martyrdom in 1681.

THE VICARS APOSTOLIC OF SCOTLAND

I: 1694-1727

The report on the state of the Mission requested in 1677 by Propaganda, prepared by Alexander Leslie and presented by him to the Congregation in January 1681, recommended, inter alia, the appointment of a general superior for Scotland, with authority over both seculars and regulars. At their meeting on 4th March 1681, Propaganda accepted most of Leslie's proposals but took no action on the nomination of a bishop. However, the disarray in which the Church in Scotland found itself after the "Glorious Revolution" of November-December 1688 and the subsequent triumph, by the settlement of 7th June 1690, of presbyterianism over episcopalianism as the form of Church government in Scotland confirmed the need among Catholics for a single episcopal superior towards whom all could look for leadership and support.

On 16th March 1694 Innocent XII approved the establishment of a vicariate apostolic for Scotland under a titular bishop (APF Acta (1694) vol 64 fo 37v) and on 27th July 1694 Thomas Nicolson's name was proposed by Propaganda in Congregation for the appointment ["per tale Ministerio D. Tomaso Nicolson, sacerdote scozzese antico e benemerito Missionario il quale ha qualità, dottrina e costumi ecclesiastici com'è stato rappresentato più particolarmente all'Em. Prefetto "] (APF Acta (1694) vol 64 fo 130v/131r). On 24th August 1694 Innocent XII approved the appointment of Thomas Nicolson as first vicar apostolic.

1. Thomas Nicolson: born at Birkenbog, Banffshire, c. 1645, son of Thomas Nicolson of Pitmedden, Aberdeenshire, and Elizabeth Abercromby of Birkenbog; brought up as an Episcopalian; educated University of Aberdeen (matriculated 1660); regent [i.e. professor], University of Glasgow, 1666-1681; after the Test Act passed by the Parliament of Scotland, 13th August 1681, he "demurred to take the Test appointed by act of Parliament", and was deprived of his regency, presumably in the autumn of 1681, (by inference from an entry in Register of the Privy Council); received into Catholic Church, 1682; visited Scots College, Douai, 3rd July 1682, when he was described in College diary as being 36 years old and formerly professor of Greek, mathematics and philosophy in University of Glasgow; appointed to staff of episcopal seminary at Padua, Italy, and later decided to enter the priesthood; prefect of studies, October 1685 to August 1687; ordained at Padua, 9th March, 1686; returned to Scotland as missionary, December 1687, and stationed at Glasgow where he stayed in the town house of the Baillie family of Castlecary; name proposed by James VII as bishop, July 1688; arrested at the Revolution and imprisoned in Stirling Castle, November, 1688; exiled to France on bond of his brother, Lord Kemnay; chaplain to English Benedictine nuns at Dunkirk, 1689-1694; consecrated titular bishop of Peristasis and first vicar apostolic of Scotland by Jules de Mascaron, Cong. Orat., bishop of Agen, France, assisted by Henri de Barillon, bishop of Luçon, France, and Martin de Ratabon, bishop of Ieper, Belgium, in secret at Paris, 27th February 1695; left Paris for Scotland, 8th April 1695, but for lack of a passport was unable to cross to England and was forced to spend the rest of that year and most of the next in Holland and Germany where, at Würzburg, he received in August 1696 from John Ambrose Cook, O.S.B., abbot of Würzburg, and Thomas Placid Fleming, O.S.B., abbot of Ratisbon, the promise of complete submission to his authority of Benedictine monks while on the mission; arrived in England, November 1696, arrested, and subsequently released, May 1697; arrived in Edinburgh, July 1697, but took up residence at Preshome, Banffshire, which thus became administrative centre of Church in Scotland; divided Scotland into fixed districts to which missionaries were attached and prepared rules for their direction, April 1700, which were approved by Propaganda in 1706 and remained in force until 1780 [Statuta Missionis—see under George Hay ((6) below)]; received from William Aloysius Leslie, S.J., submission of Jesuit missionaries to his authority at Aberdeen, 7th February 1701; undertook extensive visitations of Highlands and Lowlands; ordained Peter Fraser priest, 11th March 1704, probably at Preshome, the first ordination in Scotland [? British Isles] since the reformation; “a very great man, both in learning and piety, under whom the Mission was always free from intestine embroils”; imprisoned at Fochabers after failure of Jacobite rising in 1715 but obtained his release “by the judicious use of money”; died at Preshome, 12th October 1718, and is buried in St. Ninian’s churchyard, Tynet, Moray.

2. James Gordon: born at Glastirum, Enzie, Banffshire, 31st January 1665, son of Patrick Gordon of Glastirum [mother’s name unknown]; entered Scots College, Paris, 1679, sent first to Louvain but returned to Paris, 1683; B.A. (Paris, 1692); ordained at Paris [date unknown]; missionary in the Enzie, 1692-1702; assistant to Scots agent in Rome, 1702-1706; English agent at Rome, 1703-1706; consecrated titular bishop of Nicopolis and coadjutor vicar apostolic of Scotland by Marc’Antonio Barbarigo, cardinal archbishop of Montefiascone, assisted by Giuseppe Cianti, bishop of Sutri, and Onofrio Elisei, bishop of Bagnoregio, in secret at Montefiascone, Italy, 11th April, 1706; arrived in Scotland, July 1706; a great apostolic bishop who during the whole of his long episcopate made heroic visitations of Highlands and Lowlands; founded with seven boys [Hugh MacDonald (see (10) below) being one of them] seminary at Loch Morar, Inverness-shire, 1714; in hiding with rest of clergy during persecutions after failure of Jacobite rising in 1715; re-opened Loch Morar seminary and transferred it to Scalan, Banffshire, 1716; succeeded as vicar apostolic, 12th October 1718; translated on division of vicariate to Lowland District, 23rd July 1727.
3. John Wallace: born at Arbroath, baptised 8th April 1654 [Arbroath Parochial Register in New Register House, Edinburgh], son of Patrick Wallace, merchant [mother's name unknown]; [the Wallace family played a leading part in the affairs of Arbroath in the 17th and 18th centuries, and many with the name of Patrick Wallace were provost; they were, in religion, Episcopalian; politically, after 1688, Jacobites; in trade, tobacco and linen merchants with a taste for smuggling]; brought up as an Episcopalian and licensed to preach and baptise in Episcopalian ministry; tutor to children of Earl of Perth, 1681 "in Lent"; left Scotland for France, 1686, and probably received into Catholic Church there; after Revolution with Jacobite court at St. Germain-en-Laye; private almoner to James VII; retired to live at Scots College, Paris; was persuaded by Bishop James Gordon in July 1706 to return to Scotland and did so in October 1706; ordained at Preshome, 3rd April 1708; missionary at Arbroath; in February 1709 the Presbytery of Arbroath recorded that "popery was prevailing in Arbroath, by the industry of Mr. John Wallace, and by reason of his interest in the place and in the country about" and he was therefore summoned to the justiciary court at Perth, 1709, for apostasy and for trafficking and perverting but, for want of evidence, the diet was deserted; from 1709 lived mainly in Edinburgh where he was chaplain to Duchess of Gordon; consecrated titular bishop of Cyrrhus and coadjutor vicar apostolic by James Gordon, titular bishop of Nicopolis and vicar apostolic of Scotland, assisted by Alexander Drummond, priest, and James Carnegie, priest, in secret at Edinburgh, 21st September 1720; arrested Edinburgh, 1722, and outlawed; died at Edinburgh, 30th June 1733 [place of burial unknown].

II: 1727-1827

On 23rd July 1727 Scotland was divided into two vicariates, the Lowland and Highland Districts. Alexander John Grant was nominated titular bishop of Sura and vicar apostolic, Highland District, 6th August 1727. He was born at Wester Boggs, Enzie, Banffshire, c. 1693, son of Peter Grant and Ann Reid, and elder brother of James Grant (see (5) below); entered Scots College, Rome, 2nd April 1711, aged 17; ordained priest [sub-deacon, 18th December 1717, but dates of diaconate and priesthood not traced]; left the College, 5th June 1719; at Scots College, Paris, July 1719 to July 1721; arrived in Scotland, August 1721; and was superior at Scalan, 1721-1726. In anticipation of his appointment he went to Paris, November 1726, and to Rome, March 1727. Although he was duly elected by Propaganda on 17th December, 1726, there was, for a number of reasons, a delay of some seven months before this was approved by Benedict XIII on 6th August 1727. In the meantime, Grant left Rome in April 1727 for Loreto and eventually reached Genoa in August where he became ill. He was last heard from in a letter dated 28th December 1727, seriously ill and living in great poverty in Genoa. It is presumed that he died there since no further trace of him has been discovered.

A successor was not appointed until 20th January 1731 when Hugh MacDonald was provided to the Highland District. The brief dated 12th February 1731 issued by Clement XII approving this nomination contained a clause empowering Bishops Gordon and MacDonald to define the limits of their respective Districts. This was done at a bishops' meeting in Edinburgh in October 1731 following Bishop MacDonald's consecration and was formally ratified by Propaganda in Congregation on 7th January 1732. The division was made on a basic recognition of the linguistic and cultural differences which separated the two peoples of Scotland at that time. In general terms, the two Districts were divided along a line which may be thought of as running from Dumbarton to Nairn, with the Scots-speaking area to the south and east comprising the Lowland District and the Gaelic-speaking area to the north and west in the Highland District, but with a number of localities where each overlapped the other.

James Gordon, translated 23rd July 1727 but translation not effective until 18th October 1731; died at Thornhill, Perthshire, 18th February 1746, and is buried at Innerpeffer, Perthshire.

FROM THE RESTORATION OF THE HIERARCHY IN 1878 TO THE PRESENT DAY

The Apostolic Letter "Ex Supremo Apostolatus Apice" of Leo XIII, 4th March 1878, divided Scotland into the Province of St. Andrews and Edinburgh (with four Suffragan Sees) and the Archdiocese of Glasgow, which was directly subject to the Holy See. By the Apostolic Constitution "Maxime Interest" of Pius XII, 25th May 1947, and the Apostolic Constitution "Dominici Gregis" of the same date, the Archdiocese of Glasgow was erected into a Province and divided into the Metropolitan See of Glasgow with the Suffragan Sees of Motherwell and Paisley.

A pamphlet entitled Diocesan Map of Scotland, showing maps of each of the dioceses of Scotland, was published by The Mercat Cross in 1953.

THE PROVINCE OF ST. ANDREWS AND EDINBURGH

The Province of St. Andrews and Edinburgh consists of the Archdiocese of St. Andrews and Edinburgh and the four Suffragan Sees of Aberdeen, Argyll and the Isles, Dunkeld, and Galloway.

ARCHDIOCESE OF ST. ANDREWS AND EDINBURGH *

Comprising the Metropolitan Cathedral City of Edinburgh; the entire Lothian and Borders Regions; in Fife Region, the districts of Dunfermline (except the parish of High Valleyfield), Kirkcaldy, and North-East Fife south of the River Eden; in Central Region, Falkirk District and those parts of Stirling District situated in the geographical county of Stirlingshire; and, in Strathclyde Region, the Banton, Kilsyth and Queenzieburn areas of Cumbernauld District, and the Lennoxton, Milton of Campsie and Torrance areas of Strathkelvin District.

The bishops associated with Kinrimumd, St. Andrews, had assumed ecclesiastical primacy in Scotland from Dunkeld by the beginning of the tenth century. The last of the Celtic bishops died in 1093; the line of the medieval bishops began in 1109 but the Church and the bishopric were not securely established until 1144. The independence of the Scottish Church from the metropolitan claims of the archbishops of York was established by Celestine III with the Bull Cum universi, 13th March 1192. St. Andrews was erected a Metropolitan See by Sixtus IV, 14th August 1472. The See was vacant from the execution at Stirling on 6th April 1571 of John Hamilton (1547-1571) until the restoration of the hierarchy in 1878.

This Province was officially adopted by the Archdiocese in 1964. It is part of the Diocese of Jos. The population is about two and a quarter million. There are at present about four thousand Catholics and about ten thousand catechumens. The Archdiocese is now responsible for the staffing and financing of the Church in this area. It is as big as, if not a little bigger than, the whole of Scotland. At present, there are four parishes, which are staffed by priests of the Archdiocese.

OBITUARIES — 1980

Very Rev. Vincent Canon O'Sullivan — 3rd November, 1979

Canon Vincent O'Sullivan was born in 1903 into a large and highly respected family in the picturesque town of Killarney, in the kingdom of Kerry. He went to the local primary school and from there to St. Brendan's College, Killarney, where he received his secondary education. His choice of college for the years of his priestly formation was St. Patrick's, Carlow. He was ordained priest there for the Archdiocese of Glasgow by Bishop Mathew Cullen of Kildare and Leighlin on 10th June, 1928.

His first appointment was to last for many years. All his time as a curate—twenty years—was spent in the old and revered parish of the Sacred Heart, Bridgeton. A long time, you may say, to remain in one parish and the possibility of enthusiasm blighted for that very reason. But not so with Father Vincent. His love and affection for the good people of Sacred Heart and Bridgeton was real and tangible. At the drop of a hat he could launch into a long session of anecdotes and happy memories of those early days. How proud he was to be a member of a team which included stalwarts like Monsignor Anthony Mullins and Father James Butler who later founded the parish of the Sacred Heart, Bellshill. To the people Father O'Sullivan was known and remembered as “the tall, handsome and charming priest”.

In 1948 a new parish was created in the Tollcross area adjacent to Dalbeth cemetery. It was dedicated to the Good Shepherd and Father O'Sullivan was asked to take charge of it. He moved into the buildings, formerly the Convent of the Good Shepherd Sisters and for the next seven years he devoted his full time and energy to this task. Sadly, today this parish is no longer in existence. This is due to the fact that Glasgow city has undergone a massive re-development transferring thousands of its citizens to new satellite towns and suburban housing projects.

In 1955 with the death of Canon John Lyons, the parish of St. Charles', Kelvinside in the north-west of the city became vacant. Archbishop Campbell chose Father O'Sullivan as the new parish priest. A new church for the parish was badly needed since the number of parishioners had more than doubled what it had been originally. Within a week of his arrival he had the architect on the site to discuss the building of the new church. A mammoth task lay ahead of him since the site was a big problem. Father O'Sullivan spoke to the people of his problems and worries and asked for a combined and sustained effort from priests and people. Later, engineers declared that a church could be built. Four years and four months, to be exact, of hard work, prayer and perseverance bore fruit. On the 31st January, 1960, to the great joy and happiness of all concerned, the new church was officially opened with Solemn High Mass celebrated by Archbishop Campbell and former priests of the parish.

In a personal letter of congratulations to Father O'Sullivan, priests and parishioners His Grace said "Today sees you and your people enjoying the reward of your labours in the shape of a church which is outstanding in beauty, and as far as human hands can make it, worthy of its sacred purpose." Besides the all-consuming work of church building and the administering of the parish, Father O'Sullivan found time to represent the Church authority on one of the education boards.

In 1967 he was made a canon and a member of the Archdiocesan Chapter. In June 1978 he celebrated the golden jubilee of his ordination surrounded by his many relatives and friends. It was a joyous occasion and a time for reflection on many years of achievement. Alas, however, his health which for some time now had given cause for concern, continued to deteriorate. He died peacefully on 3rd November, 1979 and his mortal remains were laid to rest in St. Kentigern's Cemetery, Lambhill.

So in death, Father O'Sullivan joined the few priests of the Archdiocese, if any, who had spent all the years of their priestly lives within the inner confines of the city. A journey of ten miles would link the three parishes where he lived and worked.

In his panegyric Archbishop Thomas Winning praised the life and work of Father O'Sullivan stating that the beautiful church of St. Charles' would stand as a monument to his strong faith and endeavours. We pray that those sentiments will be re-echoed in the heavenly welcome for him "Well done good and faithful servant. Enter thou into the joy of the Lord." May he rest in peace.

Very Reverend James Canon Galbraith — 20th November, 1979

James Galbraith was born in Castlebay, Isle of Barra, on 16th November, 1896, and died in Biggart Hospital in Prestwick on 20th November, 1979, at the age of eighty-three, and having completed fifty-eight years in the priesthood.

He was the youngest of six children. His father, who died young, was the skipper of one of the most modern fishing boats in the Barra fleet—the Stella Maris—at a time when the fishing industry was prosperous in Barra. Having received elementary education in Castlebay school, he went to Blairs College in 1911 and thence to the seminary known as "Les Carmes" in Rue Vaugirard in Paris in 1916. He loved Paris, and often talked of the difficulties of life in war-time Paris, and of the cosmopolitan nature of the Institut Catholique where he attended lectures. Unable to return home for holidays, and having no money, he advertised for work during the four-month vacation of 1917, and was engaged by a nobleman, the Marquis de Mortemar, as a tutor in English to his eleven-year-old son. Thereafter the medieval chateau near Bourges in Central France became a home-from-home for him, and he spent part of every vacation there. In other years he spent his vacation in similar occupation, and in the summer of 1919 he and a French priest rented a house, advertised for pupils, and gathered twenty-six in all.

He was ordained priest by the Right Rev. Benjamin O. Roland-Gosselin in the chapel of the Institut Catholique on Holy Saturday, 26th March 1921, and returned to Scotland in July of that year. After two months in Laggan on "supply" he was appointed for two years to the parish of St. Luke in Glasgow as curate. It was not uncommon for Highland priests to be sent for an apprenticeship in city parishes.

His first appointment as parish priest came in 1923 when he went to Laggan in the wilds of Badenoch. It was one of the most isolated parishes on the Scottish mainland. There were about eighty parishioners, of whom about thirty lived within a few miles of the church. The priest could expect to be completely snow-bound for several weeks in the winter, and there was the obvious difficulty of persuading a woman to work as a priest's housekeeper in such conditions. There was a servant in St. Luke's presbytery called Mary Woods. She had taken the job temporarily to oblige the housekeeper. She now agreed to go with Father Galbraith temporarily to Laggan until he could settle down and make other arrangements. Little did she imagine that she was destined to be with him until his death fifty-six years later! She kept house for him for the two years in Laggan, eleven in South Uist, ten in Moidart, eleven in Corpach and four in Morar, by which time she was obliged to retire, crippled no doubt from the effects of so many years of hard work in cold and dampness. When the Canon himself retired in 1968 he and Miss Woods lived with her sister in Cumnock until both were admitted about the same time to the same hospital in which he died.

Father Galbraith was appointed to St. Michael's, Ardkenneth, South Uist, in 1925, and the conditions of life in Uist at that time are described in the obituary notice of Mgr. Duncan MacLean in the Catholic Directory for Scotland of 1970. On the one hand there was poverty and hard physical work, but on the other the consolation of living among and praying with people to whom their religion was all-important. Conditions in Mingarry in Moidart, to which he was appointed in 1941, were less harsh, but this ancient Catholic mission had begun to dwindle in numbers as the people moved into the towns for work and more convenient livelihood. It was a happy parish, in which Catholics and Protestants lived in a harmony that was unusual in those days. Attached to Mingarry is the little township of Glenuig, and once a month the priest would spend the weekend there, where he said Mass in the lovely little church of St. Agnes.

It meant a five-mile journey over a rough road by cart or lorry to Kinlochmoidart, and then a five-mile trek over the hill on foot.

In 1951 the new parish of St. Anne was opened in Corpach near Fort William, and Father Galbraith was appointed first parish priest. For the first two years he lived in a house in Fort William until the priest's house was built in Corpach in 1953. Then in 1962 he took up his last appointment, in Morar. He retired to Cumnock in Ayrshire in 1968. He had been appointed to the Cathedral Chapter as a canon in 1960.

Canon Galbraith was well known throughout the West Highlands, and well loved for his wit, his humour, his interest in every single person he met. Perhaps his most edifying characteristic was his scrupulous attention to every detail of his duties, and especially to his prayer-life. A young priest today would find it difficult to understand—he might even be inclined to disdain—the absolute regularity with which a priest like Canon Galbraith fulfilled the obligation of reciting the divine office. The "Little Hours" (all four, of course) were recited in the morning; vespers and compline (night prayers) before lunch; tomorrow's matins and lauds were recited in the early afternoon. That was the daily pattern of this "official" prayer of the Church, and it would be a very important event that would cause him to change it. Having fulfilled this obligation of the law digne, attente ac devote, he arranged the times of his personal priestly prayers with similar regularity: his private morning prayers, thanksgiving after Mass, visit to the Blessed Sacrament, meditation, night prayers. And of course the Rosary! Anyone who ever spent a night as his guest will remember how when the time came for the Rosary he and Miss Woods would stop everything and invite the guest to join them in the Rosary, followed by what they called "all the trimmings"—litany of Loreto, prayers for the missions, for the Apostleship of Prayer, and various other devotions. There was nothing pharisaical about this, nor was it very intense. It was calm and relaxed, as we sat by the fireside for these prayers. The Canon seemed to take it for granted that this was the normal happening in any Catholic household. And the same regularity attended all his priestly work. He was so easily approached because he was so interested in everybody. He was especially interested in priests and had a truly amazing memory for names and dates. He seemed to be able to give some information about any Scottish priest whose name was mentioned. His Scottish Directory was almost as well-thumbed as his breviary. (How he would have chuckled to read this obituary notice about himself!)

He suffered much pain during the last years of his life. When eventually he had to go to hospital about a year before his death he was happy to be in a big ward in a busy hospital—there were so many people coming and going in whom he could take an interest. Even when he could no longer speak clearly he still recited his prayers, and always made visitors welcome and chuckled quietly at any nonsense they might speak.

At his own request he was buried in Morar. Requiem Mass was celebrated by His Lordship Bishop Colin MacPherson, and Canon Archie MacMaster spoke the words of respect and affection in which he was held by all who knew him.

Rev. Francis Goodfellow — 31st December, 1979

Born in St. Stephen's parish, Dalmuir on the 17th March, 1932, the Feast of St. Patrick, Francis Goodfellow's earliest years were spent in a community of Clydeside people who suffered much during the trade depression of the 'thirties. His own family's lot was not made any easier by the death of his father when Francis was only two years old. The constant teaching of devoted priests and teachers and, above all, the good example of parents and families who drew spiritual strength from Holy Mass and the Sacraments, while sharing what little they had with neighbours in need was to bear fruit in a steady flow of vocations. Among those called to the priestly life was Francis Goodfellow. Beneath his quiet, reserved demeanour, he was, no doubt, inspired by the missionary zeal of the saint on whose feast he was born and by the determination and gentleness of the saint whose name he bore.

Bombed out in the blitz of March, 1941, the Goodfellow family, after much travelling about, settled in St. Mary's parish, Glasgow and for his secondary education Francis went to St. Mungo's Academy. Having left school in 1947, he worked with a firm of auctioneers and valuers. To those who knew him, it came as no great surprise when he applied to train as a missionary priest for Africa. He joined the Verona Fathers in 1948 and began his studies at Sunningdale. From there he eagerly set off for Milan in Italy to study philosophy. Then, in 1953, he received the shattering news that his superiors did not think his health strong enough to allow him to go to the African missions. He then applied to become a student for the diocesan priesthood in Glasgow and entered St. Peter's College, Cardross, to study theology. He was ordained to the priesthood in St. Andrew's Cathedral on the 29th June, 1957, by Archbishop Donald A. Campbell.

His first appointment as a curate was to St. Brigid's, Toryglen, where, by coincidence, the parish priest was Father Patrick Sheary, who had been curate in St. Stephen's, Dalmuir at the time of the blitz. In 1958, Father Frank was transferred to St. Joseph's, Tollcross. While he worked away quietly and steadily there till 1963, none the less, the yearning to go to the African missions had never left him and at last, in that same year, he was to obtain his wish. He was seconded to the Kiltegan Fathers and, after some preliminary training, went out to Nigeria, where he took up an appointment at Izi in the Ogoja (now Abaliki) diocese. He worked there with Father Jackie Boylan and soon won his way into the hearts of his fellow missionaries. His happy smile and easy disposition made him a favourite with the African people, who loved him. Nigeria, having won its independence from Britain in 1960, was at that time going through a phase of new political awareness, with various groups striving for power.

After a visit home to Scotland at the end of 1963, Father Frank returned to Nigeria in the spring of 1964 and took up a new post under Father Mike Gallagher at Obudu, a vast scattered parish (now divided into three parishes). When Father Gallagher was called home, Father Frank became priest in charge. He worked with a will and was especially delighted at completing the work, begun by his predecessor, of roofing the church of St. Charles there.

Disaster struck in 1967 with the outbreak of the Nigerian civil war and Obudu was right in the middle of the Biafran war zone. Father Frank evidently showed great courage in face of many dangers and difficulties, but eventually his work there was rendered impossible because of the military ban on all movement. Saddened by the death and destruction caused to his parish and frustrated by prolonged enforced inactivity, he felt he would be of more use in his home country for the time being. He had to leave all his belongings behind and, still dressed in tropical attire, made his way home via the Cameroons, where a good priest lent him a suit.

The needs of his home Archdiocese of Glasgow and the fact that his health had been undermined forced him to abandon his plan to go back to Africa again. He was to suffer from severe back trouble and other ailments till the end of his days. After helping at Buchlyvie for a short time he was sent as curate to the parish of Christ the King, King's Park, where he served until 1976. Quietly, he went about his duties, even when he was in great pain, and only when he was rendered immobile would he reluctantly take to his bed. Hospitalised quite a lot during these years, he would try to do too much too soon and so maybe undid whatever good had been done in hospital. In spite of his quiet way, he was very popular among the parishioners as the large number of visitors to him in hospital and the huge turnout to his farewell presentation showed. He also acted as chaplain to the R.N.V.R. for a few years and seemed to have a very fine relationship with the men, joining in all their activities as far as his health would allow.

A parishioner who knew him well said of him, "He was a good wee priest. He was as straight as a die, and he never traded on his collar! He made no fuss about his work, but people often spoke of how he had helped them." One young woman said of him, "This was a gentleman who hated injustice!"

Moved to St. Joseph's, Helensburgh in 1976, he was finally transferred to St. Roch's in 1977. He died on 31st December, 1979, aged forty-seven and nine months. The vast throng of people at his funeral gave testimony that the actions of this quiet little priest spoke louder than his words. May he rest in peace.

Reverend Walter Glancy — 27th February, 1980

Father Walter Glancy was born on 22nd August, 1914, in New Jersey, U.S.A., and studied for the priesthood at Blairs and Oscott. He was ordained in Edinburgh on 29th June, 1938, after which he studied for a degree in Economics at Cambridge. On his return he was sent as curate to Granton in 1941 and in the following year to Bathgate. He was appointed chaplain to St. Raphael's Hospital in 1945, parish priest in Ravelston in 1950 and parish priest of St. Peter's, Morningside, in 1956.

He served also in the diocese as secretary to Archbishop McDonald, secretary to the diocesan Finance Committee and was Church representative on Edinburgh Education Committee for over thirty years. He died on 27th February, 1980. At the Requiem Mass in St. Peter's on 1st March, prior to the interment at Mount Vernon Cemetery, the following panegyric was delivered by Rev. Henry Reid:

On Wednesday evening as Father Walter Glancy prepared to celebrate Mass, God called him to himself. As his body was taken from the house that had been his home for the past twenty-four years some of you his people were standing by and one of those present was later to remark that "Father looked so small—to be such a big man." It was not unusual physical size that prompted this comment, but rather the moral stature, the width of interests, the depth of insight, the scope of his vision and outstanding intellect that made Father Walter a big man to all who knew him well.

For over fifty of his sixty-five years he offered this formidable battery of his talent to the service of Jesus Christ, his fellow man and the Church with unstinting energy; undefeated, if sometimes battered, enthusiasm, and persistent and well tried loyalty. As is our common lot, he did so carrying the burden of human weakness that shows its oppressive weight in sin and failure. To dwell on Father Walter's faults would simply be to examine our own consciences. It is much more fitting to recall now some of the achievements and qualities in his life that give us cause for thanksgiving even as we mourn his death and pray for his eternal happiness.

The true starting point in Father Walter's life was Jesus Christ. Because he did not wear his piety on his sleeve it was not immediately obvious that the most important dimension of his life was a deep faith in Our Lord and a profound conviction that the purpose of his life was to bring the message of his Saviour to others. It was this commitment to Christ that sustained him in his involvement in areas of work that had the superficial appearance of worldliness.

Thus it was that in the early days of his priesthood in West Lothian and Edinburgh he directed his energies to teaching Christian social principles and ethics to workers, and trying to motivate them to take a more active part in the trade unions and politics. This he did not in the furtherance of any political cause but to try to ensure that the justice of Christ would be present in the new industrial age he saw emerging; and in doing so to suffer the accusation of being tainted with Communism. Despite this his interest in the Christianisation of our industrial life persisted to the present time through his presence in groups of people from both sides of the industrial divide seeking a Christian way of bridging that chasm.

For much of his life he was involved in the temporal affairs of the diocese as a member of the finance committee. The determination and astuteness he brought to this task did not arise from some venal desire to conclude a sharp deal but from the firm conviction that the people should have the best possible churches in which to worship God. Though there are many congregations throughout the diocese who have reason to be grateful for his efforts in this field, I'm sure that none are more grateful than the people of St. Peter's for the way in which Father Walter adapted this church to meet the demands of the liturgical changes introduced by the Vatican Council. I know that it was the "bricks and mortar" venture that afforded him most satisfaction. If any witness is needed to the tastefulness and effectiveness of his work in St. Peter's there can be none better than the way the setting has enhanced today's liturgy.

It is, however, in the field of education that Father Walter's contribution to the well-being of the Church is most obvious, both nationally and here in Edinburgh. Even to give an outline of all he has done would take too long. It must suffice to mention one instance of his impact nationally, namely the part he played as one of those who inspired the setting up of the Catholic Education Commission and as a member of that body at its inception.

The role he played in the development of Catholic schooling in Edinburgh is difficult to summarise without underestimating its importance, but I think that most would agree that, without minimising the contributions of others, Father Walter more than any other single person deserves the credit for the fine system of Catholic schools in Edinburgh. His work in education consumed more than thirty years of his life, what it cost him in nervous strain, anxiety and hurt over those years can only be guessed at.

The area of local politics was not a welcoming place for a Catholic priest forty years ago. The much changed atmosphere that now prevails is due in some part to Father Walter's genuine charm and sense of fair play that was appreciated by all, even if they disagreed with what he stood for and fought for. When he departed the educational scene he left behind many friends, some of whom by their presence here today indicate the respect in which he was held as a man, a priest and an educationalist.

Throughout the years of his priesthood these and other different and exacting tasks were faced by Father Walter against the backdrop of his work as a parish priest, and it is in that context that most of you came to know him. No matter how busy he was with those other aspects of the Lord's work he never lost sight of the fact that the priest's first work was with and for his people.

Towards this end he strove always to ensure that the liturgy of the Church was celebrated with dignity and concern for the needs of the congregation. He abhorred anything that sought to emphasise the person of the priest and thereby distract from the importance of the Mass or other sacraments. To the very end of his time he gave careful preparation to his sermons which provoked and challenged those who heard them to rethink Christian truths and appreciate their relevance in today's world. And even he, on occasion commented on their lengthiness!

But for most people it will not be the memory of the public Father Walter that will prevail in our lives, not because it is unimpressive, but simply because it will be overshadowed by the other memories of the man that are personal and private to each of us. And in them we will recall a kindly man and a considerate one. Humorous but never a buffoon. Open minded and welcoming. To many a man and woman in this congregation he was a good friend and a wise counselor when it mattered most.

Despite an innate shyness and reserve that could be mistaken for aloofness he was a warm and emotional man who could truly empathise with others with a gentleness and frankness that didn't compromise his honesty. Likewise the impression that he didn't suffer fools gladly was a true one only if he thought that the folly stemmed from the blunders of those who would not see! Otherwise he was truly patient, understanding and persevering in support of those in need of help. He was a loyal friend, generous to a fault and forgiving, and always a stimulating and convivial companion.

It is natural that we respond with sadness as the realisation seeps into our own hearts that we have lost the richness of mind and bigness of heart of Father Walter, but there is also a sense of growing gratitude that all of us share in differing degrees. The gratitude of having known him, learned from him and having been part of his life. As time passes, though we may forget many things about him, we may also come to appreciate more and more how profound his influence has been. And if we find that through that influence we are closer to our Lord Jesus Christ, then Father Walter will have achieved what he set out to do.

Not very long ago many of us heard him speak on the occasion of a priest's ordination. He spoke of the special relationship that exists, between priest and people, of how the young priest is accorded trust, friendship and love, unearned, by his people, and that the priest must never betray this trust.

Father Walter Glancy received that trust and love and friendship as a young man. He did not betray it. All of you are here today as witnesses that he returned the same trust, friendship and love to his people and earned yours.

For this may God give him eternal rest and joy everlasting.

Rev. John Branagan — 2nd March, 1980

After a long illness, Father John Branagan died a few weeks before his sixty-ninth birthday. For the last nine years of his life, he had lived in retirement, cared for by his devoted sisters; but in spite of this withdrawal from active parish life, an astonishing number of priests and people assembled in St. Patrick's Church, Coatbridge, with Archbishop Winning, to celebrate the Requiem Mass. A certain nobility of spirit, a transparent honesty of character, and an exceptional ability to lighten the weight of others' problems had won him during the years many friends. They had not forgotten.

John was born in Coatbridge, and his parents were of that most admirable generation, which, at great sacrifice, encouraged its sons and daughters to serve God in the religious life or in the teaching profession. He was educated in his early years at St. Patrick's Primary, St. Mary's Higher Grade and at Blairs College, Aberdeen. Later, at St. Peter's College, Bearsden, his innocent idealism became apparent. Most students seemed to accept seminary life as a discipline to be undergone, a cross to be carried with more or less resignation, but John Branagan positively rejoiced in the austerities of his preparation for the priesthood.

He was ordained by Archbishop Donald Mackintosh on 29th June, 1938, and was appointed to the parish of St. Joseph's, Clarkston, which at that time also served East Kilbride, Eaglesham and Newton Mearns. St. Joseph's looked after the hospitals of Hairmyres and Mearnskirck, where many of the shattered victims of the Clydebank blitz had been taken. It also attended the camps which had been set up in the area for Italian prisoners-of-war. The young priest helped to comfort all these lonely sufferers, and perhaps wondered to what extent suffering and loneliness might touch his own life.

After six years in St. Joseph's, there followed appointments to St. Francis Xavier's, Carfin; St. Michael's, Parkhead; St. Simon's, Partick and St. Aloysius', Springburn, where he ministered for nine years. Finally, in 1962, he was appointed parish priest of St. Nicholas', David Street, where he laboured until failing health forced him to retire in 1971.

Most of John Branagan's assignments demanded heroic self-sacrifice, and it gives rise to the thought that some few priests can spend a lifetime in situations of extreme difficulty and hardship without ever the relief of a more benign apostolate.

After his retirement, the symptoms of a gradual paralysis were becoming more evident. He had suffered all his life from severe bouts of asthma, and ultimately he could find some ease—day and night—only in a chair. Walking became impossible, reading also, and latterly, even conversation was difficult.

On the occasion of the golden jubilee in religion of his sister, Margaret, he insisted on being carried to St. Vincent's Convent, Toll-cross, in order to take part in the celebrations. It was a happy day for him, a day which his sisters, relatives and friends will always remember. Three months later, he died.

What can be said of the ill-health, the difficult assignments, the long isolation of retirement? In the following of Jesus Christ, we have heard of the dark night of the soul, of the taking up of one's cross, and in our pusillanimous way we have submitted and have sipped his cup of suffering. Some chosen souls have drunk it to the dregs. Such a one was John Branagan. May he rest in peace.

Rev. Thomas Healy — 24th May, 1980

In college the spiritual director taught his students to look forward to a "priestly death". That meant, and he adduced new instances as they occurred, a sudden summons, like the snap of friendly fingers. Father Tom Healy had such a death, which was also an apt summing up of his life—in God's service and at his disposal.

Thomas Healy was born in Pollokshields on 21st November, 1913, of a notable Glasgow merchant family generous in giving to the Church. His first three years at school were with the Franciscan Sisters at Charlotte Street, then with St. Aloysius' College, primary and secondary, until 1927 when he went to Blairs. Due to a peculiar system of allocating seniority, he was already nearly twenty years old when he was sent to St. Peter's College, Bearsden. His seven years training there were crowned with the priesthood in June, 1939.

A few examples of those earlier days, from the many recalled by his friends, will have to suggest the calibre of the priest in the making.

Those of a "Post-Vat II" generation or even earlier may have difficulty in picturing college life in the 'twenties and 'thirties, as they strove to breed acceptance and dedication. Insofar as they did so, it was largely due to "Tim" and a few kindred souls. Since Christmas and Easter were spent in the College and classes ceased, the usual sports were organised and by long tradition strange card games shared by all, understood by few if any. The highlights, though, were the extempore concerts and the more regulated plays, operettas and such. In this area his acting ability and stage-craft allied to a good tenor voice were given unstinted and entertaining rein.

Less obvious, until the need for it arose, was another accomplishment, as a powerful swimmer. One unforgettable day in June, 1930, with three others, all priests today, he rescued two students from drowning in the treacherous under-currents of the Dee. (Two other fine students, sadly unnoticed, died that day).

At Bearsden his questing interest ranged beyond lectures and textbooks, his absent mind absorbed in some inner excitement. It was the peak of the Chester-Belloc era and the Catholic Social Guild and he steeped himself in their spirit. In the students' typescript magazine, Stepping Stones he wrote of the joy and wonder of the faith, in the vein and the very accents of G.K.C. himself. Belloc's Europe is the Faith, translated to his ideal, Scotland is the Faith. Later, as a priest, he demonstrated the permanence of his ideal in his well-researched booklets on the parish of the Immaculate Conception, Maryhill, and much later on the statue of Our Lady of Aberdeen. We recall that he was born on the feast of the Presentation of Our Lady.

After ordination he went first to St. Anthony's, Govan, next to Our Holy Redeemer's, Clydebank, then in yet another dock area, St. John's, Port Glasgow. As a result of the hard 'twenties and the hungry 'thirties Red Clydeside was still a boast. Father Healy set himself the task of imparting his clear vision of Papal teachings on social justice. His parish priest in O.H.R. told with glee of Healy returning home well after midnight (10 p.m. was a sacrosanct time limit), explaining simply that "I had a discussion with a Commie parishioner".

The next phase took him inland to St. Joseph's, Clarkston. The Immaculate Conception, Maryhill, which came next, was perhaps for him more equal than the others, as he dug deeper into its history, in local sources and as far away as the British Museum files in London for evidence of its origins. He returned again to Govan, this time to St. Constantine's. His final curacy was in Good Shepherd Parish, Dalbeth, after which he was appointed parish priest of St. John of the Cross, Twechar, during which time he was confessor to the Carmelite Nuns, Kirkintilloch. His final posting in Glasgow was to St. Barnabas' Shettleston.

The bare catalogue of appointments gives only a hint of the influence of his devoted, unworldly service on young, old, sick, the sinner who came to him or whom he sought out in the streets and byways. He ploughed his furrow without deviating, without looking back. To save souls, as he had saved bodies, he plunged boldly in at the danger point, strong in faith and seeming unaware of the rocks and snags in the seething waters. He would not allow that anyone was "abandoned": Like Belloc's Grizzlebeard "he was always sincere, and never allowed enough for the follies and vices of men".

His extreme thoroughness seemed never to abate. The detailed compilations of parishioners, for example, were not mere lists but a respectful record of care for each one. His flair for dramatic presentation found scope in the successful direction of the grand parochial occasion. He is remembered as a warm-hearted friend and host, a generous, kindly, gentle man.

Undeflected by criticism, from the right as he saw it, he was yet highly sensitive, and eventually the strain of concentrated work told. In October, 1975, he felt compelled to give up his parish. By agreement between Archbishop Winning and Bishop Foylan, he went to Aberdeen as a temporary supply. Slowly he relaxed and the old pawky humour and shrewd wit returned. He pitched into the work of careful visitation of the Royal Infirmary, of the sick and housebound. He produced his pamphlet on Our Lady of Aberdeen, with a foreword by Bishop Foylan. Father Tom was in fact the last priest to speak with the Bishop, on Ascension Thursday, 1976. The Bishop died suddenly in the night.

"Father Tom left the Cathedral and after some supply work settled in St. Duthac's, Dornie, from where he attended Kishorn where an oil platform was being built by a large group of 'immigrant' workers whom he served. In 1978 he retired to a council flat in Inverness, from where he served Eskadale at week ends." (Father Charles McGregor).

Even in retirement he remained consistent, still at call as required. So for Pentecost, 1980, he was called on to return to St. Duthac's; his successor, Father Murphy having been recalled to Argyll. Father Healy left at once for Dornie, and within minutes of his arrival in the chapel house he was dead.

In his new life of pure knowledge he surely relished an ironic pattern, that his alacrity ended up as extra anxiety for the V.G. This time it had to be attributed to the action of the Holy Spirit, who pleased to call him in an instant to a more perfect celebration of Pentecost.

After a Requiem Mass in St. Mary's, Inverness, concelebrated by Bishop Conti of Aberdeen and clergy of the diocese, on Wednesday, 28th May, the Funeral Mass was celebrated the following day by the Archbishop of Glasgow and many priests of the archdiocese in St. Barnabas', Shettleston, prior to interment in St. Peter's Cemetery, Dalbeth. May he rest in peace.

Reverend John MacCormick — 6th June, 1980

News of the death of Father John MacCormick in the Bon Secours Hospital in Glasgow on 6th June 1980, was received with great sadness throughout the Western Highlands and Islands, and not by any means only among the Catholic community. The sadness, however, was tempered by a certain amount of relief, because the last six years of his life had been spent in a state of semi-paralysis, partial blindness, and total dependence on others. For a man of his robust and independent character these had been extremely painful years. He was sixty-nine years of age and in the forty-first year of his priesthood.

John MacCormick was born in South Boisdale in the parish of Daliburgh in South Uist on 9th February, 1911. He attended the little primary school at Garrynamonie, and then for two years or so the secondary school at Daliburgh. The long walk to and from Daliburgh every day gave him the opportunity of meeting people, and indulging in one of his favourite pastimes—listening to stories in various dialects of Gaelic, and taking an interest in the subtle meaning of words. There were always some "travelling folk" camped by the roadside, and with his warm and friendly disposition he was welcome to sit with them, to read their letters for them, and translate them into Gaelic. His knowledge of the Gaelic language became profound, and in later years he was consulted by scholars of the language and folklore of the Gaelic people both in Scotland and in Ireland.

He entered Blairs College in 1927, St. Peter's College, Bearsden, in 1932, and St. Cuthbert's College, Ushaw, in 1936. In Ushaw he was ordained to the priesthood on 23rd July, 1939, along with another priest of the diocese of Argyll and the Isles, Father Alex. MacKellaig, who was a refugee from the Spanish Civil War.

After a very short time in Bornish, and two years as curate in Dunoon, he was appointed to his first charge as parish priest in the parish of the Small Isles. There is no resident priest in that parish today, but for well over a century there had been a priest living in the island of Eigg, serving the Catholics in the other islands of Canna, Rhum and Muck. There was the church of St. Donan in Eigg, and the architectural gem of St. Edward's in Canna. But there were not many people—about eighty Catholics altogether. He had a small croft, and during those war years he had to dig for victory. He spent about five days of the month in Canna—about twenty sea-miles away. It was a tough, solitary life, and he loved it. In 1946 he was promoted to the all-Catholic island of Eriskay, and in 1951 to the island of Benbecula. In 1956 he was appointed to Castlebay, in the Isle of Barra, where he worked for ten years. So for twenty-five years he was a priest in the Catholic islands, constantly travelling by sea to work for his people.

His appointment to St. Margaret's, Lochgilphead, was a completely new experience for him. In Argyll, and especially in a small parish, the Catholic priest is not automatically accepted ex-officio as the divinely-appointed leader of the community. By the sheer warmth of his personality Father MacCormick made many friends for the Church all over Argyll during the three years that he spent there. In 1969 he was appointed to St. Mary's, Fort William, and less than three years later he suffered the stroke which left him helpless for the rest of his life. For one who had been blessed with robust health, who loved the sea and had spent so much of his time in sailing, both for work and for pleasure, to be confined to a wheelchair for six years, was purgatory. But in that time of purgatory, he showed more than ever before the depth of his spiritual life, and it may be that although he felt frustrated, embarrassed and helpless, it was the most fruitful period of his whole apostolate.

The huge crowd who attended his funeral Mass in Fort William gave witness to the respect and affection in which he was held by those who had known him for such a short time. His Lordship Bishop MacPherson celebrated the Mass along with the priests of the diocese, and Father MacCormick was laid to rest in the ancient cemetery of Cilliechurrill (St. Cyril's) in Lochaber.

May he rest in peace.

Reverend Michael McGovern — 4th July, 1980

Father Michael McGovern, parish priest of St. Michael's, Linlithgow, died in Edinburgh on 4th July, 1980, in the seventy-first year of his age and the forty-sixth of his priesthood. At the Requiem Mass in St. Michael's, on 8th July following, prior to the interment at Linlithgow, the following panegyric was delivered by Rev. Gerard McGarry:

"We believe that Jesus died and rose again; so we believe that God will bring with Jesus those who have died, believing in him." 1 Thess. IV. 14.

In the little Irish village of Drumlish, in the county of Longford, Michael Joseph McGovern was born seventy years ago. Born into a family, steeped in the Catholic faith, he learned the truths of his faith from his earliest years. His father, the village schoolmaster, trained the children of the parish, while his mother, a woman of deep piety, trained her children in the ways of God and His Church. The McGovern house was liberal in its hospitality, especially to priests and students; and one seldom visited that house without finding there some of the priests who enjoyed its hospitality. No wonder, therefore, that one of the two boys should want to try his vocation to the priesthood. After his secondary education he set off for St. John's, Waterford, to begin his studies of philosophy and theology. Early in his student years he began to show the direction of his thinking which would in future years, direct and inspire much of his priestly work. During the holidays, when many students were thinking of football matches, or other forms of recreation, Michael McGovern could be found with the young people of the parish, rehearsing a play or chairing a discussion on some subject of topical interest.

On arriving in Edinburgh, after his ordination in 1935, his first appointment was to the parish of St. Francis Xavier in Falkirk. But, in a matter of two months, he found his permanent appointment in the parish of St. Patrick's, in Edinburgh. In this populous and in many places, slum parish, in the heart of Edinburgh, problems for Catholics were not hard to find. Besides his district of the parish, where he had the care of over two thousand souls, he had to organise youth clubs, minister to the Sacred Heart Confraternity, and take his share of the numberless duties of a very busy parish. As if that were not enough to daunt the strongest, he took on the Irish Club, known in Edinburgh as the Margaret Sinclair Club, as its premises were in the shadow of the house where Venerable Margaret Sinclair was born and lived. Though much of his time was devoted to the training of youth he never neglected his other duties. Train the child of today and you have the citizen of tomorrow. He had a wonderful gift which he exercised to the full; he could draw young people to him like iron to a magnet. His club members, like himself, were full of enthusiasm for the many and varied activities that he always seemed to have in hand.

My familiarity with his work at this time was gleaned from the very institutions that he founded and inspired. For, in 1938, when he was transferred to Lochore, in Fife, I inherited with trepidation, the task of succeeding him, in all his city activities. But, he was not completely lost to St. Pat's. The friendly atmosphere of St. Patrick's presbytery, under the kindly guidance of the late Canon Birnie, brought Father McGovern to his old parish, whenever he had a free day. When he was present the conversation would inevitably turn to "youth work", in the diocese. It was about this time that he got some information about a particular form of youth work that was taking hold on the Continent. Having once got the first idea he never ceased to probe till he was quite familiar with all aspects of The Young Christian Worker. Attempts to put some of these ideas into practice were sometimes looked upon as novelties to be avoided. Indeed, good holy parish priests thought it their duty to keep their assistants on the right lines. So it was that the Y.C.W. movement, as yet unnamed in Scotland, was beginning its work "under cover". In any case, at this time he had to convince himself that this movement would work in Scotland. To make sure that he was on the right lines he went to the very source—Canon Cardijn himself. His transfer to Broxburn in 1940 with the subsequent move to Linlithgow in the same year provided him with the testing ground he needed. Yes; he had the full backing of the late Archbishop MacDonald. Since youth work was such a priority on the archbishop's programme we might even surmise that it was for this reason he chose Father McGovern for Linlithgow. Having convinced himself of the value of the Y.C.W. apostolate his next hurdle was to convince his fellow priests. It was not long before his bubbling enthusiasm had converted many to his own way of thinking, and in a miraculously short time the Y.C.W. movement was spread throughout the diocese. Headquarters were soon set up in the heart of Edinburgh—Frederick Street; young workers were so convinced that some even gave up their usual work to volunteer as "full-timers". The success of the Y.C.W. in the archdiocese inevitably led to other parts of Scotland; and this in turn led to contacts with London, Paris and further afield. The intercommunication not only of ideas but of personnel opened for Father McGovern another aspect of the apostolate, viz., the hostel. The one in Linlithgow—Laetare—the name synonymous with Father McGovern, and will always remain so.

It would be presumptuous of me to try to even outline the work done by Father McGovern through hostelling. His ideas were as wide as the Church itself; Catholic in his approach he received every nationality, class or creed.

Having committed himself, not just by the extent of his own ideas, but by the great (at that time) expenditure of his layout in Linlithgow, he established here the centre of his life's work. Throughout the last forty years he continued the same work; physical effort, through years and declining health, slackened off, his mind and heart were still echoing the words: "Suffer the little ones to come unto me." In his death the country no less than the archdiocese has lost a great priest to whom both owe a debt of gratitude. The country acknowledged that debt when the Queen's Jubilee Medal was conferred on him in Jubilee Year. We will acknowledge our debt when we offer our Masses, rosaries and prayers for the repose of his soul. To his family, known to me personally, I offer sincere sympathy, not only on my own behalf, but on behalf of the Archdiocese of Edinburgh, and particularly for the parish of St. Michael, Linlithgow where he served for forty years. May he rest in peace.

Very Reverend Lawrence Canon Walls Fischer — 10th October, 1980

The death occurred in Ballochmyle Hospital, Ayrshire on 10th October, 1980, of Canon Fischer, for twenty-six years parish priest of St. Peter in Chains, Ardrossan. His Requiem Mass was celebrated by most of the clergy of the diocese, and the homily was given by Monsignor Francis Duffy, Vicar-General, in the absence abroad of the bishop. He was laid to rest in Ardrossan cemetery.

Lawrence Fischer was a native of Dumfries where he received his primary education. He studied in Blairs College, Aberdeen, before going to the Scots College, Rome, for philosophy and theology. He was ordained in Rome in 1930. His first year on the mission was spent, not in his own Diocese of Galloway but at St. Ninian's, Edinburgh, where he was "on loan" for one year. Most of his years as an assistant were spent in St. Joseph's, Kilmarnock, when that was the only parish in the town. He lived long enough to rejoice at the expansion of Catholic population that today merits four churches in the town.

He was parish priest in Maybole during the war years, and then in Waterside till 1953, when he was appointed to St. Peter-in-Chains, Ardrossan. It is not given to many men to celebrate both the Silver and the Golden Jubilee of their priesthood in the same parish. But it happened to the canon.

His last years were darkened by illness, tedious and prolonged, and it was a matter of supreme regret to him that he was very limited in what he could do for his people. Until the days of his illness, his priesthood was characterised by this salient feature; he wanted the best out of people because the Lord he led them in serving deserves nothing but the best. There was no place in Lawrence Fischer's plan for the sloppy and the half-hearted. He urged his people, in season and out of season, to be wholehearted in their pursuit of Christ; and if people might find him impatient at times, they were witnessing an impatience born of his hurt that Christ and his Church might have been better served. His love for the liturgy—and a well-prepared liturgy always—was proverbial through the diocese, and the people of St. Peter's gave him their full support in his zeal for God's house. For a number of years he was the diocesan Master of Ceremonies, a task he carried out with meticulous care and reverence. His preaching was clear and forthright; a man concerned for his flock and sure in his own faith can preach in no other way.

He loved his parish and his church and was never really happy away from home. Indeed, his final sadness was that his request to be allowed home from hospital had to be sidestepped because by then he was too ill.

Apart from his work for his immediate flock, his many years of service to the missions as diocesan treasurer for the Propagation of the Faith gave him great personal satisfaction. What in others might just have been a job—sending out cold receipts, acknowledging contributions, was for him an apostolate; and the little comments as he acknowledged parish contributions from the diocese were always noted with satisfaction. There was always a friendly and personal comment.

Canon Fischer never sought the limelight; it was sufficient that he was running his parish to the best of his very fine ability. Early in 1980, he had made it quite clear that his golden jubilee of priesthood should be marked only by the prayers of his friends, and nothing could shake him in that resolve. And in his will he directed that his Requiem Mass and funeral should be performed very simply. The emphasis was to be on prayers for the repose of his soul.

In the absence of Bishop McGee who was abroad, Monsignor Duffy, the Vicar-General was the principal concelebrant at the Requiem Mass shared by over fifty priests and attended by a very packed congregation. Eternal rest grant unto him, O Lord.

Rev. Denis Reen — 10th October, 1980

On the evening of Friday, 10th October, 1980, God called Father Denis Reen very suddenly at the age of 54. Death had seemed so far away, or so we all thought, yet it struck like a thief in the night. He had been home in Ireland to visit his aged mother the week before, having just previously celebrated the centenary of his parish, St. Joseph's, Clarkston.

A native of Knocknagree, Mallow, Co. Cork, Father Reen was educated in the Capuchin-Franciscan College, Rochestown, Co. Cork, and studied for the priesthood in St. Kieran's College, Kilkenny, where he was ordained for the Diocese of Paisley in June 1950.

He spent the first fifteen years of his priesthood as assistant at St. Fergus', Paisley, where he played an important part in the development of the parish, then in its infancy. His work there was zealous and untiring, especially in his concern for the boys of the area, many of whom remember, with affection and gratitude, the guidance they received from him in their formative years.

In 1965 he was transferred to the old established parish of St. Margaret's, Johnstone. Here again people with an instinct of the faith saw him as a sincere and true priest with a deep understanding of human nature, that brought much consolation to many.

In 1968 he moved to the Holy Family parish, Port Glasgow. That he endeared himself to the people there was evidenced by the coach load of former parishioners who attended his Requiem Mass. While in Port Glasgow he was instrumental in securing the services of several teachers, from Ireland, to help alleviate the acute shortage of Catholic teachers in Renfrewshire. Along with Father Patrick Burke, he visited several convents in Ireland and England and it was due to their persuasiveness that the Loreto Sisters, Sacred Heart of Mary Sisters and the Ursuline Sisters established houses in the Diocese of Paisley.

In 1973 Father Reen was appointed parish priest to St. Joseph's, Clarkston, where he became considerably involved in the campaign for a Catholic secondary school in the area. Having recently cleared the debt on the new church, he had turned his attention to providing the parish with a hall. The people of Clarkston found him a very attentive and devoted pastor. The pride he took in his little garden there and the efforts he put in to cultivate it, were only a poor reflection of the esteem in which he held his people and the energy he spent on their behalf.

The Funeral Mass for Father Reen was concelebrated before a packed congregation in St. Joseph's, Clarkston, on 15th October. In his homily Mgr. Kinsella said Father Reen had given "his all" for thirty years to the diocese. Wherever he laboured, he gave "his all" to the people there, to the youth, to the schools, to education and to the various committees on which he served. He liked a challenge and always rose to it when it came his way.

Father Denis Reen was a very sincere man, quiet and unassuming. He loved to be in the parish working as a priest. In every parish where he served, he came to be respected as a dedicated priest who helped all with faithfulness and affection. He loved God, and because he loved God—he loved God's people. Those former parishioners of St. Fergus', St. Margaret's and Holy Family, who attended his Requiem in St. Joseph's, were a living testimony to the truth expressed in Wisdom 4.

"Length of days is not what makes a man honourable, nor number of years the measure of life. Understanding, this is man's grey hairs—untarnished life, this is ripe old age."

Father Reen was interred in his native Knocknagree. In all his thirty years in Scotland, he had never missed an opportunity to go back home, where he had received his faith and his vocation. The sod of his native parish now lies on all that is mortal of Father Denis.

In the language so dear to his own people, we pray, Súnas síorrai dá anam l'bfocair na maideana muire agus na naomh uile. Eternal peace to his soul in the company of the Virgin Mary and all the saints.

Reverend James Manning — 15th October, 1980

The clergy of the Diocese of Galloway had hardly returned to their parishes from the Requiem Mass for Canon Fischer in Ardrossan when they were shocked to hear of the death of Father James Manning, parish priest of the Ayrshire town of Galston. He had returned from Lourdes only days before, rather unwell but still smiling, and at the worst it was thought that the journey or the foreign food had upset him. But his condition deteriorated and he was admitted to Ballochmyle Hospital where he died in the early hours of the Feast of St. Teresa of Avila. The suddenness of it quite stunned the good people of St. Sophia's, Galston, and his many friends in the clergy.

James Manning was born in Lispole, County Kerry, on 29th November, 1919. After his early education in the local school, he pursued his studies for the priesthood in St. Brendan's College, Kilkenny. He was ordained a priest on 10th June, 1945 by Doctor Collier, Bishop of Ossory. We thank God that he had decided to be a priest in Scotland, in the Diocese of Galloway. Thus he joined the ranks of dedicated and well-beloved priests who were to leave their native land as Patrick had done, to serve God in another country. Scotland can never be sufficiently grateful to Ireland for the steady flow of good men who came over to help restore the faith in our land. The sheer immensity of their contribution emerges in a recently published book, Irish priests in Scotland and among the many proud names of Irish apostles is that of James Manning.

He gave sterling service as assistant priest in Kilmarnock, Irvine and Auchinleck. At the age of thirty-three he was given his first parish, Newton Stewart. He administered that parish for five years then was transferred to St. John's Castle Douglas. He was appointed to St. Sophia's, Galston in 1965, and for fifteen years he quietly and efficiently ministered to the good people of that parish.

Perhaps the two words just used to describe him best sum up the man we write about. He was quiet by nature, humble and modest; and we came to love him for it. He was good company on the occasions when the clergy come together, but he did not set much store on excessive fraternising. He seemed to prefer to be in his parish, working, reading and visiting. His people always knew he would never be far away. He was efficient, and when a priest is truly efficient, it is because he can draw on the resources of his own deep life of prayer. Father Manning was at home in prayer; he loved his daily Mass; it was there that he derived the grace to be so priestly at all times. And if he always looked so neat and tidy, this was merely a reflection, an outward expression, of his well-ordered mind and soul.

His deep and undiminished love for Our Blessed Lady was a source of spiritual strength to him, and the recitation of the Rosary was an essential part of his daily prayer. This same love for Our Holy Mother took him to Lourdes several times and his last pilgrimage tells us a lot. He cannot have been feeling well when he set off. Maybe he knew more than others dared to guess. Perhaps he went to the Grotto of Lourdes to say goodbye. In effect it was to be only a very brief au revoir.

In his homily at the Mass, Monsignor Duffy, V.G., spoke of the conflict that Christians feel in trying to reconcile the sadness of personal loss with the joyful knowledge that the one we mourn is at rest with God. He reminded the congregation that what Father Manning would ask from them would be prayers for his immortal soul—not only that day but in the years ahead. He should be remembered in two ways; firstly in our prayers; secondly by carrying with us for the rest of our lives the memory of this man's good ministry; by our continued loyalty to the Catholic faith he taught so tirelessly, and by closely following the example he always gave of smiling goodness and serenity of soul. In that way, the priesthood of James Manning would continue to live and thrive and be effective among the people he loved and served. May he rest in peace.

DIARY OF EVENTS

1979 - 1980

Golden Jubilee of the Ordination of Bishop McGee to the Priesthood — Tuesday, 29th May

On the morning of 25th May, 1929, Joseph Michael McGee, a deacon of the Diocese of Dunkeld, was ordained priest in the Cathedral at Valladolid in Spain.

This evening, fifty years on, Bishop Joseph McGee of Galloway came to his own Cathedral in Ayr to celebrate with his priests and people the anniversary of his ordination.

A setting of Ecce Sacerdos Magnus, written especially for the episcopal ordination of Bishop McGee over twenty-five years ago by the present administrator of the Cathedral and Vicar-General, Mgr. Francis Duffy, greeted the bishop as he entered the Cathedral. The choir, a combined choir from the Cathedral and Queen Margaret Academy, Ayr, was under the direction of Mr. Harry McFarlane, Director of Music at the Good Shepherd Cathedral.

It was "standing room only" in the church as the procession made its way to the sanctuary. Bishop McGee was preceded by Provost Moriarty and the Cathedral Chapter and by well nigh every priest of the Galloway diocese—many of whom had received their priesthood at the hands of Bishop McGee.

Arriving at the altar the bishop was greeted by Provost Moriarty speaking on behalf of the whole diocese. Mgr. Stephen Kennedy, for thirteen years until his recent retirement, Vicar-General to the bishop, read a telegram of congratulations from Archbishop Agostino Casaroli, Deputy Secretary of State, on behalf of Pope John Paul II.

Mgr. Canon Duffy, V.G. preached the homily. Bishop McGee had requested that the sermon be about the priesthood and not about himself. Mgr. Duffy was equal to the task. No sermon on the priesthood preached in this diocese on this night could fail to mention Bishop McGee and his years of faithful service to Dunkeld and Galloway.

The entire celebration had a note of great joy. Bishop, priests and people united to sing God's praises and give him thanks for the priesthood of Joseph McGee.

After Mass the bishop met the congregation in the Cathedral hall and received their congratulations. Later in the evening Bishop McGee, his housekeeper Miss E. Daily, and members of his family were entertained to dinner by the clergy of the diocese. M. McM.

Greenock Honours Foundress — Wednesday, 29th August

An estimated congregation of 400 attended a special Mass at the home of the Little Sisters of the Poor, Greenock, to mark the centenary of the death of the Venerable Jeanne Jugan—Sister Mary of the Cross—foundress of the Little Sisters of the Poor. Six priests representing past and present chaplains and those with particular association with the Greenock home concelebrated the Mass with Bishop Stephen McGill of Paisley. About 30 priests attended. The choir was composed of pupils of St. Patrick's School, Greenock, under the direction of Sister Mary Anthony, head teacher.

The congregation was made up of friends and benefactors of the home, relatives of the Little Sisters from Inverclyde district and representatives of local bodies associated with the home. After Mass many of the guests, besides seeing an exhibition within the home, visited the lodge cottage recently transformed to resemble the birthplace of Jeanne Jugan, aptly called "Cancale" after the small fishing port where she was born in Brittany in 1792.

In his homily Bishop McGill gave a biographical sketch of Jeanne Jugan covering the three phases of her life—her early years 1792-1839; the establishment of the work of caring for the aged 1839-1852; and her hidden life of 27 years, 1852-1879. Recalling that Jeanne Jugan was the sixth child of her lowly but sound Christian family, he asked: "How many families today have a sixth child?"

When she was three and a half years old, continued Bishop McGill, her father, a fisherman, was lost at sea. Her mother, a good Christian, not only faced the demanding situation of bringing up her children, but in spite of the turbulent period of the French Revolution, she gave her children a sound grounding in the truths of religion and saw to it that they were able to read and write, a not too common thing in those days even in Scotland.

Following a mission preached in 1816 in her native parish of Cancale, Jeanne Jugan declined a proposal of marriage saying "God wants me for himself. He is keeping me for a work which is not yet known, for a work which is not yet founded." That work evolved some 23 years later in 1839 when she received into her own lodging an elderly blind and infirm woman. When Jeanne Jugan died 40 years later on 29th August, 1879 there were 2,400 Little Sisters continuing her work. In August 1979 there were about 5,000 Little Sisters of the Poor throughout the world.

Bishop McGill thanked the Little Sisters for continuing the spirit of their holy foundress in the Greenock area for the last 95 years. He also thanked their many friends for their generosity that made that work possible.

A commemorative Mass booklet besides giving the text and prayers of the Mass gave several illustrations and sayings of Jeanne Jugan and recalled the four foundations of the Little Sisters in Scotland—three in the lifetime of the foundress—Glasgow in 1862, Edinburgh 1863 and Dundee also in 1863 and Greenock in 1884. #### Lease of Life for Newton Church — Sunday, 13th January

The fifty-year-old church of St. Charles', Newton, is to be completely renovated. Until recently it seemed probable that the dwindling of the local population, which had caused the parish to be joined to that of St. Bride's, Cambuslang, would make it expedient to demolish the church and set up a Mass-centre at Westburn. Projected new building reprieved St. Charles', and the last pre-conversion Mass was celebrated in the church by Father John Breslin this Sunday.

Opening of St. John Bosco's Church, Erskine — Thursday, 31st January

"It is a truly Christian instinct to build a church", declared Bishop Stephen McGill preaching at the formal opening of St. John Bosco's Church, Erskine. He said the Catholic community had achieved a worthy ambition of having God's House in the midst of their homes and they adhered to the tradition which maintained that a town is not a town unless there is a church.

Bishop McGill proceeded to speak of the facilities the new church would offer through the sacramental system established by Christ affecting all aspects of their lives from birth to death. He also stressed the devotional role of the church and the need to promote one's spiritual life through such things as daily Mass and frequent visits to the Blessed Sacrament.

The third part of the homily dealt with the example of St. John Bosco in the sphere of education and how parents in particular should strive to imitate him in fulfilling their grave responsibility as educators of their children.

Bishop McGill concelebrated Mass with parish priest, Father Patrick J. Crean and priests who served in Bishopton and Renfrew and were associated with Erskine before the establishment of the parish in 1974. About forty priests were in attendance together with representatives of the Church of Scotland, Scottish Episcopal Church, the Baptist Union and other local bodies. The choir was comprised of pupils of Trinity High School, Renfrew, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Stevenson with Mrs. Barbara Banks at the organ.

The new church will serve an estimated Catholic population of 2,000 in the new town of Erskine. Designed by Glasgow architects Wagner and Associates and built by Sir Robert McAlpine & Sons Ltd., it is located in Barwood Road. The building is simple but dignified in character with seating accommodation for 400. There is an adjoining presbytery. The nave is fan-shaped with the sanctuary at the focus and the floor stepped to give good visibility. The construction of the church is traditional with a separate ramped entrance for the physically handicapped. The marble altar was donated by Holy Family parish, Port Glasgow, and after some adaptation is a fitting high quality focal point.

The walls are of brick and concrete block. Externally the base course of the building is of facing brick and white Norwegian quartz chippings in cement covering the walls.

The roof, considered the most prominent feature of the building, is an arrangement of geometric planes covered by man-made grey slates. Internally the roof structure is three inch thick timber decking supported by laminated timber beams, all exposed to view. An area next to the sanctuary has been set aside for a choir of about twenty. Lighting in the church is by suspended tungsten fittings and additional lighting from fluorescent fittings behind a continuous timber pelmet round the walls.

Gourock School Oratory — Saturday, 2nd February

Bishop Stephen McGill formally opened an oratory at St. Columba's High School, Gourock and concelebrated Mass with priests from the parishes of Greenock and Gourock served by the school. Also present was Mgr. Matthew Provost Kinsella, V.G. of Paisley. Speaking of the function of the oratory Bishop McGill complimented the rector, Mr. James P. Power, and all concerned with its construction. He said he was overwhelmed at the response the project had received. It was bringing God among pupils and staff. It would be, above all, a place of prayer bringing many blessings on the school and all associated with the school.

Mr. Power traced the development of the project. It was long felt at the school that it was desirable to have a special location for community and individual prayer, for celebration of Mass and other services. Local architect, Mr. C. C. M. Buntain, produced plans designed for enclosing a covered area connecting the school's two inner quadrangles. Strathclyde Regional Council willingly agreed to permit the project to proceed provided that the school could raise the sum of money required, originally estimated at £10,000.

A generous response to an appeal from the school, together with fund-raising efforts by a hard-working parent-teacher association and by the pupils, allowed the building to start in the Spring of 1979. Local skilled craftsmen from among the parents and friends of the school were recruited by school chaplain, Father Gerard Brennan, St. Joseph's, Greenock, and their selfless work at weekends and evenings completed the building in January 1980. A statue of Our Lady of the Immaculate Conception placed in the oratory has an interesting history of its own. It was originally bought for £300 by the dockers of Dublin from a film studio which had used it in the film "Rooney" starring John Gregson and Barry Fitzgerald. It was placed on Dublin quayside near the berth of the Dublin-Glasgow Burns Laird boat. With the discontinuance of the Dublin-Glasgow service in the late 1960s the dockers agreed to donate the statue to a worthy cause. Sixty applications were considered, among them one submitted on behalf of St. Columba's High School by a St. Patrick's parishioner who was a steward on the Irish boats. The statue was eventually put on the boat for Scotland and arrived in Greenock in Spring of 1970.

Other furnishings of the new oratory include an unusually designed altar, lectern and credence table made in the school's technical department from the pulpit of the now closed Finnart Church of Scotland, Greenock; a tabernacle donated by St. Joseph's Church, Greenock; Stations of the Cross given by St. Andrew's parish, Larkfield; pews generously provided by Archbishop Thomas J. Winning from the recently closed St. Nicholas' Church, Glasgow; an altar stone and sanctuary lamp from Notre Dame College of Education, Dowanhill.

Legal Abortion Examined

Facts, figures and graphs for the United Kingdom and Europe

Legal Abortion Examined is a "must" for anybody seriously interested in the subject. It consists of twenty pages of facts, figures and graphs for the United Kingdom and Europe, covering back-street abortion, battered children, children in care, illegitimacy and legal abortion analysed according to age of mother, marital status, statutory grounds, etc. Here are the answers to abortionist slogans and lies: "legal abortion stops back-street abortion" . . . "abortion stops unwanted children" . . . "abortion brings down illegitimacy".
