THE CHURCH IN SCOTLAND

THE HIERARCHY OF SCOTLAND

I

FROM THE EXTINCTION OF THE HIERARCHY IN 1603 TILL ITS RESTORATION IN 1878

The ancient hierarchy ended with the death of James Beaton, archbishop of Glasgow, at Paris on 24th April, 1603, aged 86.

Rome showed little interest in Scottish affairs in the years following the reformation. From 1598 to 1621 Scottish Catholics were nominally subject to the English archpriests but there is no evidence that they concerned themselves with their Scottish subjects. The appointment of the first English vicar apostolic, William Bishop (1623-1624), was of a different order since his jurisdiction was episcopal and included Scotland. In a petition to Gregory XV, the few Scottish secular priests still on the Continent appealed to the papal bull, Cum universi, dated 13th March 1192, which declared the Scottish Church subject only to the Roman see; and the point was conceded. Nevertheless, the brief in 1625 appointing the second English vicar apostolic, Richard Smith, again included Scotland but on this occasion the issue of jurisdiction does not appear to have been raised. Smith's stay in England, in the event, was short and he had left by 1631. The work of the Irish Franciscan mission in the Highlands and Islands was the main burden of the missionary effort in Scotland during these years; and it was not until 1650 that a group of Scottish seculars met in Paris under the leadership of William Ballantine to consider what should be done.

Dates of events which occurred in Scotland before 1752 are given in Old Style while those which took place in European countries before 1752 are expressed in New Style. Consecrations qualified by the phrase "in secret" are those for which extraordinary measures were taken to conceal both the event and the news that it had taken place. The form of the names of titular sees used follows that adopted by the editors of Conrad Eubel: Hierarchia Catholica, v-viii (Padua: 1952-1979). The abbreviation APF indicates the Archives of the Congregation de propaganda fide.

Their names should be recorded: William Ballantine, James Crichton, William Leslie, Thomas Lumsden, John Smith and John Walker. They reached two important conclusions: to send William Leslie to Rome as agent for the Scottish secular clergy; and to petition Propaganda for the incorporation of the clergy into a missionary body, adequately subsidised by Rome. This was done by a decree of the Congregation de propaganda fide, dated 13th October, 1653; and it is to Ballantine that the credit for this first step is due [APF Acta (1653), 13th October 1653, ff 120v-121r, n17].

PREFECTS APOSTOLIC

1. William Ballantine: born 1618, son of Thomas Ballantine (or Bannatine), minister of North Berwick, and Margaret Cockburn; brought up as a Presbyterian in Douglas where his father was incumbent from June 1621; educated University of Edinburgh (matriculated 1635, but left without graduating, presumably in 1636); received into Catholic Church, probably at Paris, date unknown; entered Scots College, Rome, to study for priesthood, 1641, and took the oath, 1st November; "factus ob infirmitatem citius sacerdos," 3rd December 1645; left the College, 15th March 1646; prefect of studies at Scots College, Paris; arrived in Scotland, "immediately before the late King's unhappy murder" [30th January 1649]; returned to Paris, 1650, and arranged meeting of six Scottish priests at which it was agreed that he and John Walker should petition Propaganda for the appointment of a prefect and missionaries with subsidy and that William Leslie should go to Rome as agent for Scottish secular priests; appointed prefect, 13th October 1653; resided at Gordon Castle, Moray; arrested at Rye, Sussex, England, September 1656, imprisoned until July 1658, released on personal order of the Protector, Oliver Cromwell, with a gift of £60 to take him to France; returned to Scotland, 18th May 1660; died at Elgin, 2nd September 1661, and is buried in the Huntly aisle, Elgin Cathedral, Moray; author of A preparation for death or, The practice of dying well (1672; 2nd edn., 1715).
2. Alexander Winchester: born at Garmouth, Moray, c. 1625 [parents' names unknown]; studied for four years at Rheims and for four further years under the Jesuits at Dijon; entered Scots College, Rome, to study for priesthood, 27th May 1651; ordained priest, 21st May 1656; left College, 1657 [at a meeting of Propaganda, 3rd September 1657, described as a member of Scots College in Rome who had just finished his studies]; returned to Scotland, 1658; resided principally at Gordon Castle, Moray; appointed prefect, 12th June 1662; school with 60 pupils established on Skye, c. 1663, by Ewen McAllister, schoolmaster, but subsequently driven out and re-established with 24 pupils in Glen Garry, 1665; absent in France, 1668-1672, during which period John Walker substituted as prefect but was not formally appointed as such by Propaganda; apostolic visitation of Scotland by Alexander Leslie, 1677-1680, with report submitted to Propaganda, January 1681; proposed by John Leyburne, vicar apostolic of England, to Propaganda as bishop for Scotland, 19th February 1686; Dean of Chapel Royal, Holyrood, 1687; escaped north to Gordon Castle at the Revolution in 1688; resigned July 1697; died at Banff, 14th January 1708, and is buried in St. Ninian's churchyard, Tynet, Moray. [There is little prospect of discovering Winchester's real name. The parish register for Urquhart in the presbytery of Elgin, which includes Garmouth, has nothing earlier than 1647. During his life he was known under many aliases, especially that of Dunbar; there is a Nicholas Dunbar, a merchant of Moray, included in the list of Catholics in Prefect Ballantine's report to Propaganda in 1660. Clapperton, however, says that his father's name was John Gray and implies that he was born in 1629. "Winchester" is a north-east of Scotland name, pronounced "Winster", and it is in the latter form that his name appears in the Scots College register and in the ordination registers of the Roman Vicariate]. [APF Acta (1662), 12th June 1662, f 134 rv, n 21].

In practice the prefecture apostolic covered only the Scots-speaking parts of the country. From 1612 to 1647 Gaelic-speaking Catholics in the Hebrides and Western Highlands of Scotland were ministered to by priests from the Irish Franciscan mission who were formally commissioned in this work by Urban VIII on 4th September 1623. At first they worked from the Irish Franciscan College of St. Anthony, Leuven, Belgium, but in 1626 they were granted as their headquarters the friary at Bonamargy, County Antrim, Ireland, traditional burial place of the MacDonnells of Antrim, descendants of the Lords of the Isles. The Irish spoken by these missionaries was understood by the people of the Highlands and Islands. The most effective period of their work was during the years 1624-1637. Although Patrick Hegarty worked from Bonamargy as prefect of this mission from 1631 to 1647, he did not visit Scotland during this period and the priest who spent the greatest number of years on the mission was Patrick Brady who laboured, chiefly in Sutherland, from 1619 to 1637. The last priest to leave was Cornelius Ward in the summer of 1637. Although the mission was formally re-established on 22nd January 1647 under Edmund McCann, no details of this new enterprise have come down to us and there is no evidence that any missionaries ever reached the Highlands and Islands.

Further attempts to carry on this mission were made by the Vincentians of whom the best known is Francis White, "a truly Apostolic man," who was sent to Scotland by St. Vincent de Paul in 1654 and who worked in the West Highlands until his death on 28th January 1679. On 20th April 1665 and 20th September 1666 Propaganda in Congregation considered requests from the prefect, Alexander Winchester, that Irish-speaking priests should again be sent to the Highlands. It was eventually decided by Propaganda that a separate prefect apostolic for the Highlands and Islands should be provided and, on 17th September 1669, St. Oliver Plunkett, nominated only two months earlier to the archbishopric of Armagh, Ireland, was appointed additionally to this office and continued in it until his martyrdom in 1681. [APF Acta, (1669), 17th September 1669, pp. 462-463, n. 14].

THE VICARS APOSTOLIC OF SCOTLAND

The report on the state of the Mission requested in 1677 by Propaganda, prepared by Alexander Leslie and presented by him to the Congregation in January 1681, recommended, inter alia, the appointment of a general superior for Scotland, with authority over both seculars and regulars. [For text of apostolic visitation report cf Alphons Bellesheim: History of the Catholic Church of Scotland, iv (1890) 356-364] At their meeting on 4th March 1681, Propaganda accepted most of Leslie's proposals but took no action on the nomination of a bishop. However, the disarray in which the Church in Scotland found itself after the "Glorious Revolution" of November-December 1688 and the subsequent triumph, by the settlement of 7th June 1690, of presbyterianism over episcopalianism as the form of Church government in Scotland confirmed the need among Catholics for a single episcopal superior towards whom all could look for leadership and support.

On 16th March 1694 Innocent XII approved the establishment of a vicariate apostolic for Scotland under a titular bishop [APF Acta (1694) vol 64 fo 37v] and on 27th July 1694 Thomas Nicolson's name was proposed by Propaganda in Congregation for the appointment ["per tale Ministerio D. Tomaso Nicolson, sacerdote scozzese antico e benemerito Missionario il quale ha qualità, dottrina e costumi ecclesiastici com'è stato rappresentato più particolarmente all'Em. Prefetto"] [APF Acta (1694) vol 64 fo 130v/131r] and confirmed by decree of Propaganda, 17th August, 1694. On 5th September 1694 Innocent XII approved the appointment of Thomas Nicolson as first vicar apostolic.

1. Thomas Nicolson: born at Birkenbog, Banffshire, c. 1645, son of Thomas Nicolson of Pitmedden, Aberdeenshire, and Elizabeth Abercromby of Birkenbog; brought up as an Episcopalian; educated University of Aberdeen (matriculated 1660); regent [i.e. professor], University of Glasgow, 1666-1681; after the Test Act passed by the Parliament of Scotland, 13th August 1681, he "demurred to take the Test appointed by act of Parliament", and was deprived of his regency, presumably in the autumn of 1681 (by inference from an entry in Register of the Privy Council); received into Catholic Church, 1682; visited Scots College, Douai, 3rd July 1682, when he was described in College diary as being 36 years old and formerly professor of Greek, mathematics and philosophy in University of Glasgow; appointed to staff of episcopal seminary at Padua, Italy, and later decided to enter the priesthood; prefect of studies, October 1685 to August 1687; ordained at Padua, 9th March 1686; returned to Scotland as missionary, December 1687, and stationed at Glasgow where he stayed in the town house of the Baillie family of Castlecary; name proposed by James VII as bishop, July 1688; arrested at the Revolution and imprisoned in Stirling Castle, November 1688; exiled to France on bond of his brother, Lord Kemnay; chaplain to English Benedictine nuns at Dunkirk, 1689-1694; nominated titular bishop of Peristasis and first vicar apostolic of Scotland, 7th September 1694, and consecrated by Jules de Mascaron, Cong. Orat., Bishop of Agen, France, assisted by Jules de Barillon, bishop of Luçon, France, and Martin de Ratabon, bishop of Leper, Belgium, in secret at Paris, 27th February 1695; left Paris for Scotland, 8th April 1695, but for lack of a passport was unable to cross to England and was forced to spend the rest of that year and most of the next in Holland and Germany where, at Würzburg, he received in August 1696 from John Ambrose Cook, O.S.B., abbot of Würzburg, and Thomas Placid Fleming, O.S.B., abbot of Ratisbon, the promise of complete submission to his authority of Benedictine monks while on the mission; arrived in England, November 1696, arrested, and subsequently released, May 1697; arrived in Edinburgh, July 1697, but took up residence at Preshome, Banffshire, which thus became administrative centre of Church in Scotland; divided Scotland into fixed districts to which missionaries were attached and prepared rules for their direction, April 1700, which were approved by Propaganda in 1706 and remained in force until 1780 [Statuta Missionis—see under George Hay (6) below]; received from William Aloysius Leslie, S.J., submission of Jesuit missionaries to his authority at Aberdeen, 7th February 1701; undertook extensive visitations of Highlands and Lowlands; ordained Peter Fraser priest, 11th March 1704, probably at Preshome, the first ordination in Scotland [? British Isles] since the reformation; “a very great man, both in learning and piety, under whom the Mission was always free from intestine embroils”; imprisoned at Fochabers after failure of Jacobite rising in 1715 but obtained his release “by the judicious use of money”; died at Preshome, 12th October 1718, and is buried in St. Ninian’s churchyard, Tynet, Moray.

2. James Gordon: born at Glastirum, Enzie, Banffshire, 31st January 1665, son of Patrick Gordon of Glastirum and Margaret Seton; entered Scots College, Paris 1679, sent first to Louvain but returned to Paris, 1683; B.A. (Paris, 1692); ordained at Paris [date unknown]; returned to Scotland, August 1692; missionary in the Enzie, 1692-1702; assistant to Scots agent in Rome, 1702-1706; English agent at Rome, 1703-1706; nominated titular bishop of Nicopolis and coadjutor vicar apostolic, 21st August 1705, and consecrated by Marc’Antonio Barbarigo, cardinal archbishop-bishop of Montefiascone, assisted by Giuseppe Cianti, bishop of Sutri, and Onofrio Elisei, bishop of Bagnoregio, in secret at Montefiascone, Italy, 11th April 1706; arrived in Scotland, July 1706; a great apostolic bishop who during the whole of his long episcopate made heroic visitations of Highlands and Lowlands; founded with seven boys [Hugh MacDonald (see (10) below) being one of them] seminary at Loch Morar, Inverness-shire, 1714; in hiding with rest of clergy during persecutions after failure of Jacobite rising in 1715; re-opened Loch Morar seminary and transferred it to Scalan, Banffshire, 1716; succeeded as vicar apostolic, 12th October 1718; translated on division of vicariate to Lowland District, 23rd July 1727.
3. John Wallace: born at Arbroath, baptised 8th April 1654 [Arbroath Parochial Register in New Register House, Edinburgh], son of Patrick Wallace, merchant [mother’s name unknown]; [the Wallace family played a leading part in the affairs of Arbroath in the 17th and 18th centuries, and many with the name of Patrick Wallace were provost;

they were, in religion, Episcopalian; politically, after 1688, Jacobites; in trade, tobacco and linen merchants with a taste for smuggling]; brought up as an Episcopalian and licensed to preach and baptise in Episcopalian ministry; tutor to children of Earl of Perth, "in Lent" 1681; left Scotland for France, 1686, and probably received into Catholic Church there; after Revolution with Jacobite court at St. Germain-en-Laye; private almoner to James VII; retired to live at Scots College, Paris; was persuaded by Bishop James Gordon in July 1706 to return to Scotland and did so in October 1706; ordained at Preshome, 3rd April 1708; missionary at Arbroath; in February 1709 the Presbytery of Arbroath recorded that "popery was prevailing in Arbroath, by the industry of Mr. John Wallace, and by reason of his interest in the place and in the country about" and he was therefore summoned to the justiciary court at Perth, 1709, for apostasy and for trafficking and perverting but, for want of evidence, the diet was deserted; from 1709 lived mainly in Edinburgh where he was chaplain to Duchess of Gordon; nominated titular bishop of Cyrrhus and coadjutor vicar apostolic, 30th April 1720, and consecrated by James Gordon, titular bishop of Nicopolis and vicar apostolic of Scotland, assisted by Alexander Drummond, priest, and James Carnegie, priest, in secret at Edinburgh, 21st September 1720; arrested Edinburgh, 1722, and outlawed; died at Edinburgh, 30th June 1733 [place of burial unknown].

II: 1727-1827

On 23rd July 1727 Scotland was divided into two vicariates, the Lowland and Highland Districts. [APF Acta (1726), 17th December 1726, vol 96 ff 452v-456r, n. 26. It is mentioned here that the Audience took place on 23rd July 1727]. Alexander John Grant was nominated titular Bishop of Sura, 16th September 1727, and vicar apostolic Highland District, 19th September 1727. He was born at Wester Boggs, Enzie, Banffshire, c. 1693, son of Peter Grant and Ann Reid, and elder brother of James Grant (see (5) below); entered Scots College, Rome, 2nd April 1711; ordained priest [sub-deacon, 18th December 1717, but dates of diaconate and priesthood not traced]; left the College, 5th June 1719; at Scots College, Paris, July 1719 to July 1721; arrived in Scotland, August 1721; and was superior at Scalau, 1721-1726. In anticipation of his appointment he went to Paris, November 1726, and to Rome, March 1727. Although he was duly elected by Propaganda on 17th December, 1726, there was, for a number of reasons, a delay of some seven months before this was approved by Benedict XIII on 6th August 1727. In the meantime, Grant left Rome in April 1727 for Loreto and in August eventually reached Genoa where he became ill. He was last heard from in a letter dated 28th December 1727, seriously ill and living in great poverty in Genoa. It is presumed that he died there since no further trace of him has been discovered.

A successor was not appointed until 12th February 1731 when Hugh MacDonald was provided to the Highland District. The brief issued by Clement XII approving this nomination contained a clause empowering Bishops Gordon and MacDonald to define the limits of their respective Districts. This was done at a bishops' meeting in Edinburgh in October 1731 following Bishop MacDonald's consecration and was formally ratified by Propaganda in Congregation on 7th January 1732. [APF Acta (1732), 7th January 1732, vol 102 ff 21r-23v, n. 24]. The division was made on a basic recognition of the linguistic and cultural differences which separated the two peoples of Scotland at that time. In general terms, the two Districts were divided along a line which may be thought of as running from Dumbarton to Nairn, with the Scots-speaking area to the south and east comprising the Lowland District and the Gaelic-speaking area to the north and west in the Highland District, but with a number of localities where each overlapped the other.

A map showing the division in these terms appears in The Innes Review, xvii (1966), 130.

FROM THE RESTORATION OF THE HIERARCHY IN 1878
TO THE PRESENT DAY

The Apostolic Letter Ex supremo of Leo XIII, 4th March 1878, divided Scotland into the Province of St. Andrews and Edinburgh with a Metropolitan See and four Suffragan Sees of Aberdeen, Argyll and the Isles, Dunkeld, and Galloway; and the Archdiocese of Glasgow directly subject to the Holy See. [Acta Sanctae Sedis, XI (1878) 1-20]. The Apostolic Constitutions Maxime Interest and Dominici gregis of Pius XII, 25th May 1947, erected the Archdiocese of Glasgow into a Province, with a Metropolitan See and two Suffragan Sees of Motherwell and Paisley [Acta Apostolicae Sedis, 39 (1947) 473-478].

A pamphlet entitled Diocesan Map of Scotland, showing maps of each of the dioceses of Scotland, was published by The Mercat Cross in 1953.

THE PROVINCE OF
ST. ANDREWS AND EDINBURGH

The Province of St. Andrews and Edinburgh consists of the Archdiocese of St. Andrews and Edinburgh and the four Suffragan Sees of Aberdeen, Argyll and the Isles, Dunkeld, and Galloway.

ARCHDIOCESE OF ST. ANDREWS AND EDINBURGH

Comprising the Metropolitan Cathedral City of Edinburgh; the entire Lothian and Borders Regions; in Fife Region, the districts of Dunfermline (except the parish of High Valleyfield), Kirkcaldy, and North-East Fife south of the River Eden; in Central Region, Falkirk District and those parts of Stirling District situated in the geographical county of Stirlingshire; and, in Strathclyde Region, the Banton, Kilsyth and Queenzieburn areas of Cumbernauld District, and the Lennoxton, Milton of Campsie and Torrance areas of Strathkelvin District.

*The bishops associated with Kinrimumd, St. Andrews, had assumed ecclesiastical primacy in Scotland from Dunkeld by the beginning of the tenth century. The last of the Celtic bishops died in 1093; the line of the medieval bishops began in 1109 but the Church and the bishopric were not securely established until 1144. The independence of the Scottish Church from the metropolitan claims of the archbishops of York was established by Celestine III with the Bull Cum universi, 13th March 1192. St. Andrews was erected a Metropolitan See by Sixtus IV, 14th August 1472. The See was vacant from the execution at Stirling on 6th April 1571 of John Hamilton (1547-1571) until the restoration of the hierarchy in 1878.*

PERSONAL PRELATURE OF THE HOLY CROSS AND OPUS DEI

Personal Prelatures are juridical structures of a secular character governed by a Prelate and erected by the Holy See to carry out specific pastoral or missionary activities. The general norms on personal Prelatures are contained in the Code of Canon Law—canons 294 to 297. Each has its own statutes approved by the Holy See. Opus Dei is a personal Prelature, international in its scope, which aims to spread throughout all sectors of society a deep awareness of the universal call to sanctity and apostolate in the fulfilment of one's ordinary profession or job. It is formed by a Prelate with his own clergy and by lay people, men and women, who in virtue of a divine vocation freely join the Prelature.

ARCHDIOCESE OF ST. ANDREWS AND EDINBURGH

Rev. Gerard Michael Fitzsimmons was born in Edinburgh on 29th September, 1959. He received his secondary education at St. Augustine's High School, Edinburgh, and his ecclesiastical education at St. Andrew's College, Drygrange. He was ordained priest by His Eminence Cardinal Gordon Gray, Archbishop of St. Andrews and Edinburgh, on 4th May, 1984, in St. Cuthbert's church, Slateford. Father Fitzsimmons is now assistant at St. Mary's, Stirling.

Rev. Gerard Joseph Basil Postlethwaite, B.A., was born in Warrington, Lancashire, on 15th December, 1950, and received his secondary education at Xaverian College, Manchester. He entered the community of the Benedictine Abbey at Ampleforth, Yorkshire, where he received his ecclesiastical education, during which time he graduated from the University of Oxford. He worked as a pastoral assistant in the parish of SS. Ninian and Triduana, Restalrig, where he was ordained priest for the Archdiocese of St. Andrews and Edinburgh on 3rd December, 1983, by Cardinal Gray. Father Postlethwaite is now assistant priest at Restalrig.

Rev. Roland Charles Walls, M.A., was born on 7th June, 1917, at Bembridge, Isle of Wight. He received his secondary education at Sandown Grammar School and graduated from the University of Cambridge. Ordained in the Church of England, he exercised his ministry chiefly in teaching theology in the Universities of Cambridge and Edinburgh. He entered the Ecumenical Community of the Transfiguration, Roslin, at its foundation in 1965. Received into the Catholic Church in 1981, he prepared privately for ordination as a priest of the Archdiocese of St. Andrews and Edinburgh, which he received at the hands of Cardinal Gray in the private chapel of Archbishop's House, Edinburgh, on 27th November, 1983. Father Walls remains a member of the Community of the Transfiguration.

Rev. William Henry Boyd was born at Kilmarnock on 14th May, 1959. OBITUARIES—1983-1984

Very Rev. Peter Canon Donati—10th November, 1983

Canon Peter Donati, retired parish priest of St. Joseph's, Peebles, died at St. Raphael's Hospital, Edinburgh, on 10th November, 1983, in the 80th year of his age and the 54th of his priesthood. At the Funeral Mass in St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh, the principal celebrant was His Eminence Cardinal Gordon Gray, Archbishop of St. Andrews and Edinburgh, the final commendation was carried out by the Right Reverend James Monaghan, Auxiliary Bishop of the Archdiocese, while Canon Edward Hyland, parish priest of St. Patrick's, Cowgate, presided at the interment in Mount Vernon Cemetery. At the Mass, the following panegyric was delivered by Canon William McLaughlin, parish priest of St. Columba's, Newington:

Today we are gathered together to offer this Mass for the repose of the soul of a much loved priest, Canon Pietro Donati.

Many will not have known him personally, but most of you will have heard of him. He was the son of an Italian father and Irish mother. Born in January, 1904, he was baptised in St. Patrick's church a few days later. His father I did not know but it was my privilege to look after his mother during a long illness prior to her death. She was a saintly woman who loved her rosary and gave great edification to all her acquaintances. Canon Donati learned from her to love the faith and how to pray. He was not demonstrative, but to those who knew him he was faithful to his daily Mass, recitation of the Divine Office and the rosary. He loved them. It is amazing how the paths of some people seem to intermingle over a lifetime. It is more than sixty years since I first met him in Blairs College. There he was already an institution... he was student organist. It was a joy to watch him tripping along to the organ and I, like many others, enjoyed listening to the music which from time to time when his attention wandered, inadvertently so did the religious to the then "pop" melodies. When his time to leave Blairs came he was assigned to higher studies in Rome at the College of Propaganda Fide. At that time "Prop" was the one major seminary which spelled PENANCE in capital letters.

The regime and the heat of Rome did not agree with Pietro and after a year there the doctor advised the superiors that he would not be able to continue his studies because of a rash which prevented him from shaving. Bearded secular priests were not allowed in those days! I thank God for that rash, because I became heir to his place at "Prop" where I enjoyed six of the most glorious and happy years of my life. On his return home a place was found for him at St. Kieran's College, Kilkenny, where he was most happy—imagine Pietro unhappy and sick in Rome and Peter the troubadour at Kilkenny. Query? did his mother's influence have something to do with it.

After ordination he was appointed as curate to St. Francis Xavier's, Falkirk. He enjoyed the varied work there and became a great favourite with the children and the housebound aged and sick parishioners. After a couple of years he was entrusted with the re-opening of the Chapel Royal at Falkland Palace and the initiative of forming the parish there. Shortly before the war he was changed to Linlithgow. He was so happy there that one could not visualise another change for him. At the outbreak of war I had become an army chaplain and during my one and only leave from France I paid him a visit. I was very surprised when he informed me that he had asked for permission to apply for a commission as an army chaplain. I tried to persuade him to stay put, for already I had sensed a growing feeling of anti-Italianism and I knew how difficult it would be for him with such a name as Pietro Donati. Dissuasion was of no avail. (We have no need to be reminded of the needless loss of so many worthy Italians who lost their life on the Arandora Star and of the imprisonment of countless others).

He was a courageous man to join the Forces. Fortunately all his service was in Scotland until November 1942 when he was sent to Algeria as chaplain to a general hospital. Eventually, the African heat had a similar effect on him as had the heat of Rome when he was a student. He resigned his commission and returned home. In due course he was appointed to Gorebridge and then to Peebles. Wherever he was he enjoyed his calling as a priest and he is well remembered by those whom he served so faithfully.

At Peebles his health began to fail and he became almost blind. In the meantime His Eminence had named him a Canon of the Cathedral Chapter. With the deterioration of his health resignation from Chapter and parish became inevitable, so he retired to St. Anne's Convent Musselburgh.

His health continued to worsen so much that the good nuns there could not cope and after a sojourn at Edenhall Hospital he arrived at St. Raphael's over a year ago. He never showed any sign of recovery in spite of expert tender care. On Monday I anointed him whilst he was still conscious—he thanked me for all that had been done for him. On Wednesday forenoon he slept away into a peaceful and happy death.

We will all remember him as a happy and joyful priest and pray for the repose of his soul. We will also be mindful of his sisters and relatives who mourn the loss of a loving and beloved brother and we will offer this Mass for him and for them.

May he rest in peace.

22nd November, 1983

The Diocese of Motherwell together with the whole Church in Scotland mourns the sudden death on 22nd November 1983 of Monsignor Philip Flanagan, one of the truly great priestly characters of this century, first and foremost a man of prayer, a priest who was an example of pastoral zeal, a man of brilliant intelligence and a most accomplished practical administrator.

Perhaps his most amazing feat was the transformation he successfully underwent in 1967 at the age of fifty-four and after thirty-eight continuous years of living and working in what some would regard as the rarefied atmosphere of various colleges. It was then that he became a parish priest in his own Diocese of Motherwell. And for a further sixteen years, what an example he was as a parish priest, both to the people entrusted to him and to his fellow clergy. Had there been any doubt—and there never was—this more than anything else showed the wisdom of the Scottish Bishops in nominating him as rector of two of their colleges at a critical time in the history of each of them. Surely there could not have been a better priest to direct the training, not merely the intellectual but primarily the pastoral training, of several generations of future priests.

Twenty years ago no-one would have prophesied that Philip Flanagan would have been remembered in history as other than a most successful college priest. Now he will be primarily remembered, especially in his own Diocese of Motherwell, as a working priest of the diocese, one who gave himself heart and soul for the ordinary people of the two parishes in which he served, one who was assiduous in his sacramental care of them, one who was constantly there to comfort the sick and the dying, and particularly one who was constantly going round knocking on doors, and especially at the doors of those who had become careless in the practice of their faith. It is relatively seldom that the reconciliation of such unfortunates requires recourse to the bishop, but on numerous occasions Philip Flanagan found it necessary to approach his bishop. Only God knows the full total of those for whom he was the instrument of grace and forgiveness. And in dealing with such people he manifested a compassion which tempered law with mercy that many might not have expected from one with his precise theological mind.

His was always a happy presbytery where he went out of his way to ensure that his assistants would realize that the presbytery was their home no less than his. He loved the company of his fellow priests, and particularly if he could bring the discussion round to a theological argument. Then he could become dogged, and even obstinate, in maintaining his opinion, even to the extent of boring his audience.

He was born on 2nd January 1913 in Baillieston. There he attended primary school before proceeding to St. Aloysius' College, Glasgow. In 1929 he entered the Pontifical Scots College in Rome as a student for the priesthood. Ordained priest at the end of 1935 his brilliant academic record ensured that he would remain there for further studies. His choice of Cardinal Newman as the subject for his thesis for the doctorate led to his lifelong admiration for the cardinal and his interest in his writings. He took a particular delight when his suggestion that the new secondary school in Bellshill should be named after Cardinal Newman was adopted by the education authority.

In 1938 he was appointed vice-rector of the college, a post he was to occupy for fourteen years, although for six of these only in name. For the outbreak of the Second World War brought about the closure of the college in Rome and the war years were spent by him in St. Mary's College, Blairs, where he taught philosophy and was in charge of the philosophers who were temporarily lodged there.

A feature of his work with students was the immense personal interest that he took in each one of them. Long afterwards when he had not met them for many years, he would still recognize them and be able to greet them by their first names.

In 1952 he was appointed rector of the Royal Scots College in Valladolid, Spain. The college in Spain had been closed since a year after the outbreak of the Civil War in 1936 and had only recently been reopened. It was a daunting task for Monsignor Flanagan, unfamiliar with the language and customs of the country, to go there with the responsibility of rebuilding a tradition of study, spirituality and community living, and of renovating a building which had been neglected and lacked many of the amenities of modern living. But Philip Flanagan had a loyalty to his ecclesiastical superiors which demanded that he should fulfil with persevering tenacity whatever commission might be given to him, no matter how nearly impossible. He would learn to be fluent in Castilian, and he did. He would learn how to deal with Spanish administrators and Spanish lawyers, and he did. The present success of the college is a memorial to the work which Monsignor Flanagan inaugurated in 1952 and continued for eight years.

In 1960 he was appointed back to Rome as rector of the college. Here was another mammoth task, to implement the decision of the bishops that the old college in the Via Quattro Fontane, so well loved by generations of priests and students, should be sold and a new college built in its place. Again, we have another permanent memorial to Philip Flanagan, the magnificent new college on the Via Cassia, now known to many pilgrims since international travel has become easy and relatively inexpensive.

He loved Rome, and he loved Italy, and he was always happy to return there for a holiday after his term as rector was completed. But his overriding love was for those committed to his pastoral care, be they students for the priesthood or, in his latter years, parishioners.

In 1967, stating that, if he did not make the change now, it might later on be impossible to adapt, he chose to resign as rector, and he was appointed parish priest of Sacred Heart, Bellshill. Eleven years later, he was transferred to St. Aloysius', Chapelhall, where he died still working for his people to the end.

Some weeks before his death, we were reading in the Sunday liturgy words of St. Paul that were probably amongst his last words before the martyrdom of the Apostle. These words form a fitting epitaph for Philip Flanagan:

"I have fought the good fight to the end; I have run the race to the finish; I have kept the faith; all there is to come now is the crown of righteousness reserved for me".

Very Rev. Robert Canon Mann—13th December, 1983

"God protects the humble man and delivers him; the humble he loves and consoles; to the humble he inclines himself; on the humble he bestows abundant grace; and after he has been brought low, he raises him to glory. The peaceable man does more good than the very learned." These words from the Imitation of Christ were read by Bishop Conti shortly after receiving news of the Canon's death and they were quoted by him at his Requiem. In these words are summed up the life and character of the Canon.

Robert James Mann was born in Keith on 29th January, 1914. His was a typical Banffshire Catholic family with its traditions rooted in the Enzie. He went to Blairs College in 1926 and six years later he went to St. Lô in Brittany; it was customary for the Scots students in France to spend a year at St. Lô in what could be called an acclimatisation course; it was a tough year and the place was so insanitary that the students went down like flies with tuberculosis. Robert survived and went to the Sulpician seminary at Coutance.

He was ordained priest at Blairs on 3rd July, 1938, by Bishop Bennett and was appointed as curate to St. Mary's, Inverness. During this time he had also to help at weekends at Elgin where Canon Storch, although infirm through age, had lost none of that irascibility which had earned for him the name of the "fighting priest".

In 1942 he went as curate to Buckie with Monsignor, better known as Father Charles, MacDonald. He too was a strict disciplinarian and curates, like children, were to be seen but not heard. It must have been quite a change when in 1945 he was transferred to St. Mary's Cathedral under the benign influence of Mgr. Paterson. In 1947 he received his first parish, Sacred Heart, Aberlour, which in those days also included Grantown. The law of fasting from midnight was still in force and the journey in the winter, on an empty stomach must have been daunting indeed. His sister Nanny went with him to Aberlour and she was to remain with him all his life in thirty-six years of devoted loving service, not merely to her brother but to the Church. It was here that he developed his love for gardening with a particular interest in carnations and cacti. Aberlour was a poor parish financially and depended heavily on aid from the Diocesan Friendly Society.

Nanny was an indefatigable "Sale-of-Worker" and Father Mann's Sales became an annual event wherever he went. In 1952 he went to St. Mary's, Peterhead, where he was to remain for sixteen years; it was not the bustling place that it is today, but the parish was far-flung and there was of course the prison. When he went to St. Michael's, Tomintoul, in 1968, he was entering into what was probably the happiest period of his life. In spite of having Tombae and Chapelton as well as Tomintoul, an area where the winter conditions are among the most severe in Scotland, to him it was like a homecoming. The people recognised him as one of themselves, a Banffshire Catholic and they took him to their hearts. Unfortunately, eleven years later, his health began to decline and the Bishop felt that the milder climate of Fochabers would suit him better. In 1974 he had been installed as a member of the Cathedral Chapter and a short time afterwards, a member of the Diocesan Finance Committee.

It did seem at first that with the change to Fochabers his health had improved, but it was only for a time. Increasing illness forced him to ask the Bishop to allow him to retire and in late 1982 he went to stay in Grantown. His sense of humour never left him and many a fellow priest must have come away from a visit wondering who had been cheering whom. He died on 13th December, 1983. The Bishop and most of the diocesan clergy along with others from other dioceses concelebrated Mass in St. Thomas', Keith, where he had been baptised, and he was buried in Broomhill Cemetery, Keith among "his ain folk".

To quote Bishop Conti, once more, "He will be well remembered in the diocese for his friendly, gentle and humble manner."

May he rest in peace.

Very Rev. Daniel Patrick Canon Boyle, P.S.S., M.A.—20th February, 1984

Canon Daniel Boyle, parish priest of St. Mary's Bathgate, died at St. Raphael's Hospital, Edinburgh, on 20th February, 1984, in the 68th year of his age and the 44th of his priesthood. The Funeral Mass, prior to interment in East Calder, was celebrated in St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh, on 24th February. His Eminence Cardinal Gordon Gray, Archbishop of St. Andrews and Edinburgh was the principal celebrant and delivered the following panegyric:

Daniel Patrick Canon Boyle, Master of Arts, Prêtre de S. Sulpice. Of the many natural and acquired qualifications that the Canon enjoyed, the one I think he most treasured was his association with the Sulpician Fathers under whose guidance he developed spiritually and intellectually on his road to the priesthood and the Sulpicians, whose ideals he determined to follow more closely when, nine years after ordination, he sought and received permission to devote a year to prayer and to specialised spiritual and pastoral studies in the Solitude in France.

Even before his ordination in this Cathedral on 14th September, 1940, still in his twenty-third year, he had been selected by the late Archbishop McDonald to join the staff at Blairs College—where as a boy he had shown an all-round intellectual brilliance enjoyed by few. That promise shown in the junior seminary, was not belied during his following years in the Sulpician Colleges at St. Lô and Issy and Limoges where, in addition to philosophy, theology and biblical studies, he enjoyed and delved deep into traditional French spirituality and particularly into the writings of St. Francis de Sales; an interest the easier to pursue by one whose prowess in Latin and Greek was equalled by the ease with which he could acquire a native fluency in many modern languages.

Within months of ordination, he was enrolled at Christ's College, Cambridge where he studied French and Greek in the Modern and Medieval Languages Tripos. Endowed with his honours degree and with a natural gift for teaching, he was appointed to Blairs College, where as a member of the staff he was destined to spend in all—as a professor and as rector—over sixteen years. It was there in 1947, when I, unknown to the staff and inexperienced in the running of a junior seminary, first met Father Boyle. No-one could have been more kindly and supportive to me in these early months. No-one could more unobtrusively and gently have lightened my responsibilities and guided me in my inexperience. He shared my burdens and carried his own, continuing his duties as prefect of discipline and as a teacher with a heavy workload of classes in Latin, Greek and French.

Inevitably, because of his qualities and qualifications, Father Boyle was in much demand when appointments to positions of responsibility had to be filled. On completion of his spiritual year in the Sulpician Solitude, he was chosen as spiritual director to the students in the Royal Scots College at Valladolid. Then a return to Blairs for a further eight years before being sent back to Valladolid as rector of the college. His fluency in Spanish; his excellence in administration; his culture, intellectually nourished in its breadth of academic interests by extensive reading; his deepening knowledge of the riches of Spanish spirituality; and his inexhaustible patience in listening to, and wisely and logically responding to the problems of his students, speedily confirmed the wisdom of the appointment. But, after six years of invaluable service to the college in Spain, his experience and talents were again in demand, once more for Blairs College to which he returned this time as rector in 1965. He remained in this office, for which he was so richly qualified, for a little over two years and then entered a fresh area in the training and formation of our Scottish priesthood. In 1967 he became unique. He was appointed as rector to the Pontifical Scots College in Rome where in the disturbed and difficult years that followed the completion of the Second Vatican Council, he guided the college with a firm and sure hand, with an abundance of patience, and with a wisdom that was born not only of his years of experience in seminary life, but of his own deep spirituality, his fidelity to prayer, and his simple but well-informed faith.

I said that Father—by then Canon—Boyle was unique. Should someone one day edit a Catholic Guinness Book of Records, he would be an early entry. The rector of our three national seminaries, and a priest nourished in the traditions and spirituality of three once great Catholic nations. All in addition to the warmth of the Irish faith born in him in his birthplace in Donegal, and nurtured by his parents from his earliest days when they made their home in East Calder, and shared the riches of our Scottish Catholic heritage.

I could say much did time permit, of the Canon's years in Rome. Of his devotion to the Holy See and to the Papacy. Of his knowledge of Christian Rome. Of the esteem in which he was held by the various Vatican Congregations and by the Gregorian University. Of his fluency in Italian and conversational Latin that increased his workload when, not infrequently he was seconded to attend conferences and meetings as an interpreter for the English, Spanish, French and Italians. Of the support and assistance he gave to me personally, before, during and after the Consistory and ceremonies when Pope Paul VI elevated me in 1969 to the College of Cardinals. As when I was appointed to Blairs, so when I was involved in this new world of the Cardinalate, his knowledge of Rome, of the Vatican officials and his experience of Roman ways and customs, his ability to organise the various occasions for the Scottish pilgrims—yes—I look back with wonderment and gratitude on this great and able priest who did so much for me. The Canon returned to the archdiocese in 1973 when his term of office as rector in Rome had come to an end. For him a new phase in his priesthood began. He had little or no experience of parish life. But from his first appointment to West Calder, he entered into his new apostolate with a radiant joy and enthusiasm. It was a new experience, a new apostolate, to visit the homes of his parishioners, to care for the sick and dying, to preach—no longer to students—but to the cross-section of people in age and interests and degree of commitment to the Church that make up a parish. He revelled in it: and in the added personal joy of living only a short few miles from his ageing mother in the neighbouring parish of East Calder. For over thirty years of his priesthood his seminary appointments had separated him from her by distance without diminishing his deep love for her. And during her last years, he could make up for the difficulties of the past and visit her with loving and caring regularity.

In September 1980, on the retreat through ill-health of Father James Walsh, the parish priest of St. Mary's, Bathgate, the Canon was appointed to that strong and active parish. He took with him from West Calder, his zeal, enthusiasm, sympathetic understanding, humility and his example of a joyful, happy and dedicated priesthood. As West Calder, so he loved Bathgate. Apart from his annual holiday—consistently in his beloved Rome—he rarely left the parish. And it was in Rome in October that he fell ill. He returned home with difficulty as soon as he was fit to travel. But he was a sick man and was quickly entered by his doctor to Bangour Hospital. He seemed to improve and was discharged but told to rest. His sister Theresa and her husband took him to their home and lovingly cared for him. He returned to the presbytery in Bathgate just a month ago for a further check-up at Bangour Hospital but it was clear that in place of the hoped for improvement his condition had deteriorated. A fortnight ago he was transferred to the Western General in Edinburgh for intensive and specialised treatment. But it quickly became clear that his days were numbered. With characteristic calm he received the news. Last Friday he exchanged the loving care that had been given him by doctors and nursing staff alike at Bangour and at the Western General Hospitals, for the prayerful quiet and gentle solicitude of the Sisters, nurses and doctors at St. Raphael's. On Monday morning his condition took a sudden change for the worse. In the presence of members of his immediate family and of Sisters of the Little Company of Mary and whilst still conscious, he joyfully assisted at his last Holy Mass, and received Viaticum. A last Mass that was indeed a prayer for the dying. Shortly afterwards he lapsed into unconsciousness and as darkness fell, he passed gently to the Lord he had so faithfully served—and into the eternal brightness of a new and endless day—where, please God, we all shall meet again.

This morning I have, too briefly, sought to scan the lifetime of a great and devoted priest who loved his priesthood, who loved his Lord and Master, who loved and generously served the Church. He founded on the rock of Peter. A lifetime exciting in the new opportunities offered. A lifetime during which his priority was a ready acceptance of God's will and the decisions of those who, for him, spelt out God's plan for him. An exciting lifetime that presented him with many a new challenge that he accepted with enthusiasm and faced up to with deep and joyful trust in God's support. His last challenge was death. As always, he accepted it, with calm and peace. And—a gift to me—he left me with a memory that will never fade. When I said "goodbye" a gentle, happy smile lit up his face. I think he was even then looking forward to a new and exciting challenge that was very, very near—of seeing God and discovering what might yet be done in a new and different life to make God known and loved and served. Perhaps—by somehow helping you and me.

May he rest in peace.

Right Rev. Mgr. John Canon Gillespie, V.G.—24th May, 1984

“O Lord, You search me and You know me,
You know my resting and my rising,
You discern my purpose from afar.”

These words from Psalm 138 were a few of the last words prayed by Monsignor John Canon Gillespie, Vicar General of the Archdiocese of Glasgow, just before his death on Wednesday, 24th May, 1984.

John Gillespie was born in Paisley on 26th June, 1912. He always remained proud of being a “buddy” and was imbued from childhood with that deep but quiet and reticent faith proper to that part of the West of Scotland. He was not given to talk much of his childhood years, for he was basically shy and unassuming despite the public life into which he was to be launched in years to come.

He spent two years at St. Mirin’s Academy before entering St. Mary’s College, Blairs where he remained from 1927 until 1931. Those days in Blairs were spartan days but his determination to become a priest saw him through even the hardest of times, and it was during those early years that he was to befriend many who remained his close companions for the rest of his life.

In 1931 he entered St. Peter’s College, then in Bearsden, where he studied philosophy and theology, a seven-year course in those days. On 29th June 1938 he was ordained priest in Saint Andrew’s Cathedral, Glasgow. The solid foundation of his faith built in his family and the equally strong roots of philosophy and theology planted in St. Peter’s College, were to prove the rock on which his whole priestly life was founded, and were to be used to their fullest not only on the pulpit but in his period as lecturer to the future teachers training in Notre Dame College of Education. He possessed a fine analytical mind, and his thinking was clear and logical. John never spoke a word or made a decision without clear thinking behind it. This gave him, even in his younger years, a great wisdom, and thousands of people were to benefit from his wise counsel wherever he found himself. As a counsellor there was none better.

His first appointment was as assistant priest to Monsignor John McIntyre in Holy Cross, in the little mining village of Croy. Monsignor McIntyre was his first great model. He remained there for six happy years, until 1944, years of vigorous work in a wide-ranging parish. He was a prodigious visitor of the homes of the people and spoke as the old Petrini all spoke of visitation as “the eighth Sacrament”. Though kind and embarrassingly generous, he could be firm where frank talk was needed, and was never fooled by sham pretension or officialdom. He could see through people, and would never shirk upbraiding the erring sheep, but always “suaviter in modo, fortiter in re”. The people loved this zealous young man roaring round the village lanes on his motor bike during those difficult days of the Second World War.

True to his own conviction that a priest should never be left too long in the one parish, he moved in 1944 to spend eight years as assistant priest in the fairly recently founded parish of St. Philomena in Provanmill. There he met with a new form of pastoral ministry—work in Robroyston Hospital, a ministry he was to exercise in the Southern General Hospital and the Victoria Infirmary in later years.

In Provanmill he met with many who were deprived and often beset with difficulties of family life and great tragedy. To them he brought compassion and, thankfully, a good deal of humour. "A chapel house should be a happy place", he always claimed, and he did his best to make every house in which he lived a place where he and his fellow-priests could be truly at home. He had an immense love for his own priesthood, and deeply respected the priesthood in his fellow-priests all of whom benefited from his example and his brotherly, deep, love. For all the difficult situations in which he found himself, he could always laugh, seeing the funny side of things and how he could laugh at himself and at the strange situations a priest can find himself in. John understood human frailty and weakness, not least in himself!

In 1952 he was appointed as senior assistant at St. Anthony's, Govan, where he remained until 1959. Again, difficult situations failed to daunt him. His faith was profound, his duties clear, and his abounding love for the Church and loyalty to authority grew more and more within him. He became more and more the "true Christian gentleman" and this was reflected in his speech, his dress, his bearing, and above all in his approach to other people in whom he clearly saw the image of Christ. There was no distinction of persons with John: the poor he treated as Lords. To use a metaphor he would have appreciated because of his childhood days working amongst his father's horses in Paisley, "he was bred from a good stable", and this gentlemanly manner was infectious to all whose life touched his. But he was the first to admit that anything he had in the way of profession and qualification was given him by the Church, and to that same Mother Church he had determined to repay all she had given him through a life of total dedication and loyalty to the Holy See and everything and everyone connected with it.

In 1959, to his own great surprise, he received an unusual and most daunting letter of appointment as chaplain and lecturer to the Notre Dame College of Education then in Dowanhill—a post which had been held before him by Bishop Black and Bishop Ward. But with his customary acceptance of any task presented to him by his bishop, he faced up to this challenge, returned to his books, and is still remembered by generations of teachers as a fine lecturer and a gentle counsellor. His work was at once seen as special by the then large community of sisters, by the staff of the college and by even the youngest of students. Although busy in preparing lectures and in counselling so many people, life was pleasant in the delightful setting of Assumption House. It was almost for John a longish period of deep retreat and reflection, yet another opportunity to serve the Church of years to come through helping in the formation of future teachers—and at the same time growing in depths of holiness through the constant Masses and devotions offered with devout regularity which that period of his life demanded.

Came the opening of the new Notre Dame College at Bearsden, on the site of the old St. Peter's College, and for a difficult time he had to commute between Dowanhill and Bearsden serving both communities. Well he remembered having to prise open the frozen door of his car at a very early hour in the snowy January mornings to plough his way out to Bearsden for early Mass before the chaplain's house in Bearsden had been built. In the eleven years he spent in the training college, he gained a host of friends and admirers, and he was to keep up with many of them until he died, meeting them in the many schools throughout Glasgow and beyond, and still acting as adviser to many of them in their later years.

In 1970 he was appointed to his first post as parish priest, to St. Agnes', Lambhill. He was happy to be in a parish again, particularly in a "countrified" part of Glasgow where he could be seen, dog at his side, walking in the countryside of Balmore with that vigorous step and determined face so characteristic of the man. Alas! His years of experience and expertise had not gone unnoticed by the authorities and he was to begin a more public life brought on by many appointments to boards and committees—a new type of duty to the Church which was to be his burden, though shouldered willingly, until the day he died.

In 1970 he was appointed to charge of the St. Margaret Adoption Society. This he was to build up in every way—even painting the offices and using his skill as joiner and handyman in the process. Here he was to develop his love for children seeking adoption, a love he was never to lose and which he was to experience on the very evening of his death. He could be respectfully fearless when confronting authority for justifiable help, and even Archbishop Scanlan failed to resist John's reasonable demands for funds and support for the adoption society in order to set it on a firm footing. Here was no mealy-mouthed sycophant, but a determined man who saw what was best and relentlessly but calmly and respectfully pursued the way to get what was best for the Church.

From 1959-1970 he had been chaplain to the Guild of Catholic Teachers. In 1970 he was appointed chaplain to the Child Guidance Clinic at Downhill and chaplain to the St. Mungo's Insurance Society. Almost inevitably, on the death of Bishop Ward and at the end of his time as parish priest of St. Agnes', came his appointment by Archbishop Scanlan as Vicar General of the Archdiocese. Not long afterwards, towards the end of 1973, he was appointed as parish priest of Holy Cross, Crosshill, that huge south-side parish, then the largest parish in all Scotland.

He was to remain in Holy Cross until his sudden death in 1984. He was not one to seek jobs and honours, but when he was given tasks to perform, despite the fact that they took him from his parish for long periods, he accepted them and gave them his fullest zeal and enthusiasm. He was to see the appointment of Archbishop Winning to succeed Archbishop Scanlan in 1974, and the appointment of Bishop Renfrew and Bishop Devine as auxiliary bishops in 1977. He acted as personal chaplain to Bishop Renfrew at the episcopal ordination on May 31st 1977—and one couldn't help thinking on that evening that had John been just that little bit younger, he would himself have been an outstanding candidate for the episcopate. But God had disposed that he should serve in many other capacities for the Church in Glasgow, and he will be remembered as one of its most outstanding priests of all time.

As chairman of the board of governors of Notre Dame College of Education from 1973-77, he retained his connection with his beloved teachers and again added his wisdom to the college in difficult days of change.

During his years as vicar general he served the archbishop and the two assistant bishops with incredible loyalty and humility, despite the fact that they were younger men than he was; indeed, the assistants could have been his sons. But he was their adviser too, the first person to whom they would go for sound advice—and great company! But always he saw in them the authority of the Church—his first and only love.

All during his life he had enjoyed good health. In the last few years he had some circulatory trouble and this for a short time prevented him from driving his car, another great love of his. But he was to recover and discover automatic gear-change and regain his freedom of movement through a new car which he drove in his customary energetic fashion which could frighten the passenger! But his car, like himself, was at everyone's disposal.

On Wednesday, 24th May, 1984, he spent the morning as usual in the Archdiocesan Office, then as principal concelebrant at a Deanery Mass in the Dominican Convent in Pollokshields. The evening he spent visiting the houses in the parish as usual, ending up sitting round the television with a mother, father and four adopted children, to watch a football match. He was in the greatest form, as he always was when engrossed in a game of soccer. He left their house to return home for his usual chat with his curates, and there at about eleven o'clock was taken ill with a heart seizure. He was fully conscious when he asked to receive the Last Rites, and died on admission to the Victoria Infirmary which he had served so well for so long. He had been active to the very end: and this is how he would have wished to die.

The Church was John Gillespie's besetting passion—and its bishops and priests. Above all, he loved people. Countless people of every sort crowded to his Requiem and his surviving sister tells us that letters of praise came from all over from people he had known, loved and served throughout his varied life—little people who loved him and whom he helped, unbeknown to anyone else but them. John would not have enjoyed reading this obituary. In fact, he would have laughed at the praises written of him and asked us simply to pray for the speedy repose of his soul rather than wasting our time on compliments. But his life is so well worth recording as a lasting example to us all, and to keep fresh the memory of one who was undoubtedly one of the greatest and most lovable of Glasgow's priests. May his gentle soul find the presence of the God he knew so well and served so well throughout his life on earth. To quote again from his final evening prayer on the day he died:

"How wonderful is this knowledge of yours that you have shown me, Lord."

May he rest in peace, Amen.

Very Rev. Darby Canon Melloy—26th June, 1984

Canon Darby Melloy was indeed a faithful and loyal servant of Christ and the Church in a long priestly ministry in the diocese of Dunkeld.

Darby was born the second of a family of nine children, in Methven, a few miles north-east of Perth, in 1907 on 8th January. After local primary education, he went to Blairs to begin his studies for the priesthood in 1920. In 1925, he was sent to continue his studies at the Propaganda College, Rome until 1930 when he was ordained priest in the church of St. John Lateran, on 20th December.

His first appointment was as curate at St. Joseph's, Dundee, from 1930 to 1944. Then he became a chaplain in the army until his "demob" in 1946, when he was appointed to be parish priest of Doune until 1962. Canon Darby then moved to take charge of St. Serf's, the mining parish of Highvalleyfield that includes Culross within its boundaries. It was during his time here that he was appointed and installed a Canon of the Chapter of the Cathedral, in 1965. In 1971, he was given charge of the large parish of St. John's, Perth where he remained until his retirement through ill-health (in 1981). He stayed in the presbytery as a retired priest but it was clear that he needed special care and attention through the decline in his health and he was taken into the care of the Little Sisters of the Poor in Wellburn, Lochee, who nursed him until his death on 26th June 1984.

During his active service in the Church, Canon Darby was responsible for the opening of two churches in the diocese: St. Joseph's, Callander, during his period in Doune, and the little church of St. Thenew and St. Serf, in Kincardine-on-Forth, a church that few people, other than the parishioners and priests, know exists, opened in 1970.

In 1977, he was made Provost of the Cathedral Chapter, a position he held until his retirement in 1981.

Always of a retiring disposition, quiet-spoken and gentle-mannered, Canon Darby was much loved by his many friends, and visiting priests especially always found a warm welcome to his home.

An example to us all in his fidelity and quiet service of God and his people and in the uncomplaining way he accepted his last years of suffering and ill-health, Darby, true to character, passed without fuss to God.

May he rest in peace.

Very Rev. Hugh Canon Kelly—23rd July, 1984

Canon Hugh Kelly, parish priest of St. Matthew's, Bishopbriggs, for twenty-nine years, died in Stobhill Hospital on 23rd July, 1984. He was 75.

Born on 15th December, 1908 in Bothwell, a miner's son, he was educated at Blairs College, Aberdeen, and St. Peter's College, Bearsden. He was ordained in 1933.

Although the canon said the old Latin Mass until the early 1960s, no one could accuse him of being old fashioned. He had a remarkably clear vision of the mission of the Church which enabled him to accept new ways of presenting the faith. He gave his full backing to the implementation of the liturgical changes brought about by the Second Vatican Council. He saw that it was necessary and right to introduce lay readers, cantors, greater use of music, offertory processions, Vigil-Masses and special ministers of the eucharist, to enhance the celebration of the liturgy in his parish. When asked about the many changes he had seen in the Church in his fifty years as a priest he replied, "On the whole I would say I prefer the way things are now". He added with characteristic wit, "I think there's much less excuse for people falling asleep".

In public he was rather shy and retiring, but in the company of people he knew well, he revealed a delightful sense of humour. He was blessed with an equable temperament which made the presbytery a happy home for his assistants to whom he was a wise counsellor. At the same time he was always ready to accept from them new insights for the benefit of the parish.

After his ordination he was sent to St. Aloysius', Springburn, as assistant to Canon McBrearty. Later he went to Christ the King, King's Park, and then to Our Lady and St. Margaret's, Kinning Park.

In February 1955, he was appointed parish priest of St. Matthew's, Bishopbriggs. Here he was to remain for the rest of his life.

In 1955 St. Matthew's was a parish large in area and small in population. There were less than 1000 parishioners. There was only one small primary school, situated in the presbytery itself, which had been established by Father Thomas O'Kane, the first parish priest of St. Matthew's. Father Kelly as he was then, found himself in an area that was in the process of continual development. As his parish expanded two primary schools were opened—St. Matthew's in 1960 and St. Helen's in 1970. Then a secondary school, Turnbull High, was built within the parish boundaries in 1975.

The little parish church could not cope with the growing congregation. As early as 1956 the Colston part of the parish was transferred to St. Augustine's and in 1973 a daughter parish, St. Dominic's, was founded in the Woodhill area of Bishopbriggs.

Under his leadership the parish began to develop. The church hall was built in 1965. The Women's Sacred Heart Confraternity was "converted" into a branch of the Union of Catholic Mothers, which to this day is one of the most lively and flourishing in the country. The men of the parish were organised and the Catholic Men's Society was established. It was very largely due to the C.M.S. that the Bishopbriggs Council of Churches was founded. Other associations set up in the parish include the Pro-Life, the Legion of Mary, Justice and Peace and a Prayer Group alongside the long and well established St. Vincent de Paul Society.

Canon Hugh Kelly was made a member of the Cathedral Chapter in 1977. He celebrated his sacerdotal Silver and Golden Jubilees as parish priest of St. Matthew's.

His Funeral Mass took place on 28th July, 1984. Archbishop Winning was the principal celebrant and the orderly and solemn dignity of the liturgy, the singing of the choir and congregation proved a fitting tribute to a much loved parish priest.

May he rest in peace.

Rev. Joseph Kerr, 24th July, 1984

Father Joseph Kerr was buried in Saint Kentigern's Cemetery, Lambhill on Friday 27th July, 1984. A large number of fellow-priests and people, who had attended the Concelebrated Requiem Mass, followed the cortege to the cemetery to pay their last tribute to a quiet and devoted priest. Saint Paul describes a priest as, "a man taken from among men and ordained for men in the things which belong to God". Throughout his priestly life Father Joseph had lived out these words to the full as his spiritual code of conduct. As we look back over his life considering all that he was asked to do in difficult circumstances, especially in his later years, he had to be a man with a strong fearless, selfless and almost stoic-like character. Endowed by nature with these qualities, they served him well in his priestly vocation and enabled him to accomplish much for the Church, the people of God.

Joseph Kerr was born on 25th September, 1927, into a family of five boys and one girl. His parents were quiet, reserved and unassuming. Their lives centred round their family, the church and the good God they knew would take care of everyone and everything. In such a home the seeds of a priestly vocation were easily planted. The home was in that renowned parish of Saint Roch's, Garngad. Joseph began his education in the local Saint Roch's Primary School. The early 'thirties were hard years for many because of unemployment and all the deprivations that word entails. But as so often happens in time of depression a wonderful community spirit is bred provided there is someone to lead, unite and direct the people in the proper way. If there is someone who is a true leader, a model of compassion and caring it is a real blessing and the example given is followed. In those troublesome days Saint Roch's had such a person in their parish priest—Canon James Lawton. Times may have been difficult but goodness and charity abounded. It was little wonder that the young serious-minded Joseph was influenced by all he saw in his priests, family and school and 'midst the throes of World War II, in August 1941 he entered Saint Mary's College, Blairs, to begin his studies for the priesthood. These were completed in Saint Peter's, Cardross, and on 29th June, 1951, he was ordained in Saint Andrew's Cathedral, Glasgow by His Grace Archbishop Campbell.

To those who knew him in college the qualities he portrayed were total dedication, single-mindedness and a deep sense of duty. He always seemed to be physically strong and of all the students you would willingly have taken out a life insurance on his surviving to a fine old age. What a shock it was to everyone when he died on 24th July, 1984, aged fifty-six, a comparatively young man. For the thirty-three years of his priesthood he had spent himself for men in the things that belong to God. He had nothing left to give and God could ask no more.

On reflection, very few priests are privileged to witness to the strong faith in different parishes and sadly, the lack of it in others. Father Joseph was asked to move to six parishes as an assistant priest, namely St. Michael's, Parkhead, The Holy Family and St. Ninian's, Kirkintilloch, Our Lady and St. Margaret's, Kinning Park, St. Paul's, Whiteinch, Our Lady of Fatima, Dalmarnock, and St. Mary Immaculate, Pollokshaws. He was always with parish priests who were monsignori or canons, doctors of theology or teachers in seminaries. Each one left his mark on him and he learned much from them all. Wherever his priestly calling placed him he was able to gather round him a band of willing workers to beautify the church in various ways, ensure its cleanliness and also enlist a great number of altar boys to add dignity to the liturgy. The social side of any parish was always important to him and here again he had the rare gift of finding willing co-operators to build the necessary premises, as was the case in Our Lady of Fatima, or enhance them as was the situation in the other parishes he served. People and their various needs were important to him. A typical example of his caring for people resulted in the setting up of new parish of the Holy Name, Hillpark. It is not widely known that early one morning he visited His Grace the Archbishop at his home and argued the case for the people of Hillpark that they should have a parish and church of their own. The Archbishop accepted the reasoned arguments, consequently they now have their parish and church. A man of lesser zeal and solicitude would not have achieved this so swiftly. He was not only well known and loved in his six parishes but many children and teachers in other areas knew Father Joseph as a religious examiner. In this delicate field he was able to put children at ease, encourage them to answer well and he calmed many a nervous teacher who was not too sure how the class would perform in spite of all that had been taught.

Shortly after the celebration of his silver jubilee, Father Joseph was appointed parish priest of Saint Nicholas'. The environmental situation in which he had to work brought back memories of his boyhood days, with so much unemployment and poor housing conditions. Many families were living in squalor. However, he tried to lead them well and alleviate their suffering. This was not easy as the Sunday collections seldom amounted to £20. The church properties and the whole area were progressively deteriorating; still Father Joseph battled on courageously. There was much vandalism in the area and fire was one of his greatest worries. How many of us have been in a situation where we needed a rope tied to our bed and long enough to enable us to escape through a small window in case of fire? He often spoke of sleepless nights caused by rats encroaching upon the combined church, hall and house. Only a man endowed with the character of Father Joseph could or would have endured so much for so long. In spite of all his efforts Saint Nicholas' parish had to be closed and so he was moved to Saint John's, Portugal Street, an old and well-established parish with a beautiful church. At first sight this new scene was a joy but alas his joy was soon turned to sorrow when he realised the sad future awaiting this parish. It too was destined to be closed because of the "beyond repair" state of the church and a falling number of parishioners. Again he tried to give care and compassion to his people but he had to call on all his strength of prayer, faith and courage as he prepared them for the closure of the parish and their amalgamation with Saint Luke's, Ballater Street. He saw it all as part of God's work and it had to be done, even although the heart was breaking. God's people were suffering so he suffered with them. In vain you will look for any trace of the old Saint John's which graced Portugal Street for almost a hundred years. It had to be demolished and Father Joseph was transferred to Saint Luke's but he took with him some relics of Saint John's and built an attractive grotto in honour of Our Lady. A simple gesture, which meant so much and helped to soften the blow for the people of Saint John's. He was fully aware that this new task of uniting two communities was a challenge demanding diplomacy and enduring patience, laced with fervent prayer. He had a beautiful church and good people in need of great encouragement. Slowly but surely he began to see the fruit of all his patient endurance. Sadly, he was not spared to reap the harvest as his health began to be a cause of grave concern. In spite of all the medical help, very little could be done to halt the course of his illness. He prayed that this last great suffering would bring real unity to the parish and many long years of happiness for priests and people. Naturally shy and reserved he found it hard to be totally dependent on others but he really appreciated all that was done for him in hospital and by the Bon Secours Sisters. He thanked God for the care and attention given to him especially by his family and niece who nursed him so devotedly. Towards the end of his illness he was moved to the Irish Sisters of Charity Hospice, Clydebank and after a few days there, spiritually well prepared, he breathed his last and was at peace.

The concelebrated funeral mass was offered in Saint Luke's. Bishop Renfrew was principal celebrant assisted by a large number of priests. The church was packed with united Saint Luke's parishioners and people from all the parishes Father Joseph had been in—a great tribute to one who had served so well, so willingly and so faithfully. The test and character of his strength was high-lighted in that he dutifully achieved what no other priest will ever be asked to do—close two parishes—nor live as he lived in unsociable conditions. May he now reap the rich reward and eternal happiness of a man, "taken from among men and ordained for men in the things which belong to God". R.I.P.

Right Rev. Mgr. Patrick Francis Canon Quille, M.A., Dip.Econ.

—1st August, 1984

Monsignor Patrick Quille, retired administrator of St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh, died in Limerick on 1st August, 1984, in the 71st year of his age and the 49th of his priesthood. The principal celebrant at the Funeral Mass on 3rd August in St. Brigid's church, Douagh, Co. Kerry, was His Eminence Cardinal Gordon Gray, Archbishop of St. Andrews and Edinburgh. The interment followed in the churchyard. His Eminence delivered the following panegyric at a Requiem Mass in Edinburgh Cathedral on 7th August following, at which he was the principal celebrant:

On Friday of last week in a tiny graveyard beside the little village parish church of St. Brigid at Douagh in County Kerry, and within a few yards of the font where he had been baptised almost seventy-one years ago, we laid to rest—awaiting the Resurrection—the mortal remains of Monsignor Patrick Francis Quille. To rest, awaiting the Resurrection when we shall meet again, Monsignor Patrick Quille, a great priest whose memory will live on in the thoughts and prayers of legions of men, women and children to whom through the forty-eight years of his priesthood he had been a true, loving and caring spiritual Father and guide; and who will live on in the thoughts and affections of a great circle of acquaintances in the civil and national life of Scotland; men and women of many religious beliefs and political opinions with whom he worked to uphold Christian principles and who, despite his often differing views, admired the sincerity of his uncompromising Catholic stance, his clear mind, his ready wit, his charming personality and his warm friendship.

Patrick Quille was one of the hundred-and-twenty priests, of the one-hundred and forty women religious and of the twenty religious brothers, sons and daughters of the parish of Douagh, who, during the past century left home and family and friends to dedicate their lives in many lands to the service of Our Lord and the gospel.

We, in this archdiocese, were richly blessed when my predecessor Archbishop McDonald, accepted him as a priest—in days of plenty—to serve in St. Andrews and Edinburgh. As a boy of twelve, he had attended St.

Michael's College in Listowel and from there had proceeded to St. Kieran's College in Kilkenny to train for the priesthood and follow his course of studies in philosophy, theology, the sacred scriptures and the other ecclesiastical and academic faculties. He was quickly discerned as a man with solid spiritual aspirations, with a brilliant intellect and with the outstanding qualities of leadership. He graduated as Master of Arts in the National University of Ireland and was selected as Dean, or Senior Student, in St. Kieran's College. On 10th June, 1936 at the age of twenty-three he was ordained a priest and celebrated his first Mass in his home parish of Douagh, where last Friday we concelebrated his Requiem.

On his arrival in Scotland, he was appointed in turn as curate to Bonnybridge, Bathgate and Ravelston. His reputation and his superb mind were not overlooked and four years later he was sent to Campion Hall in Oxford to follow a course of studies leading to his award of the Diploma in Social Studies and Economics. After a further period as assistant priest in Ravelston and as chaplain to the Good Shepherd Convent at Colinton, he was appointed parish priest at St. Peter's in Edinburgh where—as his parishioner—I was able to recognise at first-hand his pastoral zeal, his wisdom as an adviser and counsellor and his deep, humble and unassuming spirituality. Despite his parish commitments—during his years as curate, chaplain and parish priest—his valuable talents were not allowed to remain unused. For many years, difficult years of educational development and inevitable controversy, he was one of my representatives on the Edinburgh Education Committee; he was chairman of our Social Service Committee and served as a co-opted member on both a Home Office Commission, and on a post-war committee concerned with immigration to Australia and in the war years he was a leading light in the youth movement. In addition he was always at my disposal as my personal counsellor in many areas of diocesan pastoral care.

On the death of the late Monsignor Breen he was, for me, the obvious choice to succeed as administrator of this our metropolitan cathedral and I need not remind you who are present here tonight of the administrative skills he brought and of the ambition he cherished to continue the great liturgical and parochial tradition of this cathedral parish. He knew its proud history, he loved its every stone and the memorial to this great priest must surely be the restoration and embellishment of St. Mary's Cathedral for which he so successfully prayed and laboured. Many great public events have been marked by special services and Masses in this historic building since the completion of its restoration. My one regret is that, because of illness, Monsignor Quille was not able to be present at the most memorable of them all when on Monday, the 31st May 1982, His Holiness Pope John Paul came here in person to be greeted by and to speak to the priests and religious of Scotland. To have welcomed the Holy Father on that occasion would have been the crowning glory and reward befitting Monsignor Quille; alas, that joy was not to be his. For many months before his retirement in 1982, Monsignor Quille's health had been slowly but visibly deteriorating. About eighteen months ago, it became clear that he must be given residential medical care. Thanks to the Sisters of the Little Company of Mary who had nursed him in St. Raphael's, a place was found for him in another of their foundations—at Milford House in Limerick—and there he spent his last days, loved and tenderly cared for by the good Sisters and visited regularly by his own sister, his nephews and niece, to whom tonight I offer my own and your sympathy and prayers. Three months ago, accompanied by Monsignor Grady, I visited Monsignor Quille and had the joyful privilege of concelebrating Holy Mass with him.

What are our thoughts tonight? Mine? Joy and gratitude that his long months and years of sickness are over and that he has entered that new life that knows no tears nor mourning. Joy and gratitude for his devoted, dedicated priestly life of close on fifty years during which each day he welcomed on the altar Jesus, hidden beneath the eucharistic veil. Those days are over but now his happiness is complete as, like St. Paul, he who saw God dimly as in a mirror, now sees Him face to face. Always there is human sorrow on the death of a friend, a dear, a trusted friend of long years. Human sorrow in the sense of loss, that leaves a feeling of emptiness. Monsignor was not here with us in the city during these past eighteen months and more. Yet somehow he was still with us, very much present and alive in memory—our Monsignor Paddy, ever genial, happy, witty, cheerful, hospitable; enthusiastic in his priesthood, serious and wise in his counselling; brimful of ideas and new initiatives, reliable in coping with every occasion; the soul of charity and kindness. Memories grow dim, but I do not think the memory of Monsignor Quille will ever fade. He will live on in this diocese, in this Cathedral, as a legend and those as yet unborn will hear of him and recognise him when they meet him in eternity.

Monsignor Paddy—I feel you are with us here tonight enjoying the occasion—as well I think you ought. For after a lifetime of happy, joyful service with the Lord Jesus and your brother priests, I'm sure you are smiling with Him now. But—God's ways we don't quite know. A lifetime is not without its human faults and failings. And so—we pray for you tonight in the Mass you loved so much. Paddy—dear friend—rest in peace—happy in heaven as you were in life. Thank God we'll meet again. Amen.

Rev. James Meechan, D.C.L.—8th August, 1984

With the death of Father James Meechan on 8th August, 1984, the Archdiocese of Glasgow has lost a well-known, respected and influential priest. He was 66 years old and had lived a very active life. Yet it is a paradox that his last months on earth, weakened by illness, were probably the most fulfilling and certainly the most edifying of his whole life. The difficult words of scripture: "Unless a wheat grain falls on the ground and dies, it remains only a single grain" should be true of everyone who wants to be a follower of Christ. They were indeed true of Father James Meechan, and above all in his last illness.

He was born in Clydebank on 3rd February, 1918, the son of exemplary parents and one of a family of five, three of whom were to become priests of the Archdiocese of Glasgow. After early education at Our Holy Redeemer Primary School in his own home parish, he spent six years at St. Patrick's

High School, Dumbarton, and was a distinguished pupil there, being awarded the dux medal of the school in his final year.

Following the example of his two elder brothers, Denis and Michael, he applied to the Archbishop of Glasgow to be a student for the priesthood and was sent in October 1935 to the Pontifical Scots College in Rome. While there he attended lectures in the Pontifical Gregorian University and gained the degree of licentiate in philosophy. Unable to complete the full course of seven years in Rome because of the Second World War and specifically Italy's entry into the conflict in 1940, he was among the students who managed to return safely to Scotland in order to finish his theological course at St. Peter's College, Bearsden, being ordained to the priesthood by Archbishop Mackintosh in St. Andrew's Cathedral, Glasgow, on 29th June 1942.

His first years in the priesthood were spent as assistant at St. Mary's, Whifflet, Coatbridge—three happy years under the genial and fatherly guidance of Father Eugene Murray. But with the end of the war and the restoration of normal travel possibilities, Father Meechan was asked by the Archbishop to go to Maynooth University, Ireland, where he enrolled in the Faculty of Canon Law. He was there from September 1945 until June 1948 and, under the direction of Dr. (later Cardinal) William Conway, graduated Doctor in Canon Law.

It was natural that, with his newly won qualification, he should be assigned to the teaching staff of St. Peter's College (recently transferred to Cardross). So in September 1948 began his long and close association with the seminary. He was there, in fact, for the next nineteen years. Although he spent the first two years at Kilmahew and his final year back there (the new building having just been completed), his name will mainly be associated with the junior house of the college at Darleith where he was from 1950 until 1966. His main teaching duties were fundamental moral theology (to the top year at Darleith) and canon law (to the senior students, resident at Kilmahew, whither he went most days to give classes).

The life at Darleith was gentle, regular and uncomplicated in those pre-conciliar years and Father Meechan was a prominent and respected member of the community. When Father Patrick Wycherley left Darleith in 1955, Father Meechan as senior priest took charge of the house there (since it was the custom of the college rectors, Mgr. Treanor and, later, Canon Connolly, to reside at Kilmahew for the greater part of the time).

Dozens of priests will each have their memories of Darleith and in particular of James Meechan. The impression he left was of a simple, open, even ingenuous man, very direct in his relationships with others, hardworking (he never seemed to be ill or even sufficiently off-colour that he needed to miss a class) and conscientious. He may not have been regarded as the most imaginative or mechanically minded of persons and one remembers that his early efforts at driving a car caused a mixture of amusement and alarm. In that respect he bore a charmed life, and so did his friends. But he possessed a first-class brain and was a highly competent teacher in his two subjects of fundamental moral theology and canon law, neither regarded by the typical students as the most interesting subjects in the curriculum.

During the two months summer vacation from Cardross, Father Meechan became quite a seasoned traveller. He made several trips to the United States and Canada and performed supply work in parishes in New York, New Orleans and San Francisco. His usual mode of travel in America was by Greyhound bus because in those days visitors from Europe were offered a 99-days unlimited mileage ticket for 99 dollars (and the rate of exchange was much more favourable then than now!). He enjoyed those holidays and the varied experiences that they brought. Far from dreading the long bus journeys, he seemed positively to relish them, particularly the overnight trips where he had the knack, denied to many fellow travellers, of immediate and undisturbed sleep.

Perhaps his most adventurous vacation, however, was the journey he made to the Holy Land in the early 1960s. Not by plane in an organised group but with one other companion by the Orient Express to Istanbul, bus through Asia Minor to Tarsus, plane to Jerusalem and ship from Haifa to Piraeus. It was a measure of the affection in which James Meechan was held that the story of that pilgrimage as related by him, was retold by others with so many imaginative embellishments that fact and fiction are now inextricably mixed.

More seriously, one ought to record that, during his years at St. Peter's College, Father Meechan was entrusted with a number of posts of archdiocesan and wider significance: defender of the bond in the Archdiocesan Tribunal, member of the board of examiners for the junior clergy, Registrar for Deceased Clergy for the Province of Glasgow and Chairman-Convener of the National Committee for the Revision of the Code of Canon Law.

James Meechan left St. Peter's College in June 1967 and spent the remaining seventeen years of his life as a parish priest in the city of Glasgow. He was five years at St. Michael's, Parkhead, where he supervised and successfully completed the construction of the new church begun by his predecessor. He then transferred to Our Lady of Perpetual Succour parish, Broomhill, and spent just over ten years there, most of that time in friendly and contented partnership with his assistant, Father Hugh O'Donnell. Finally he moved to Corpus Christi parish, Scotstounhill in September 1982.

Most priests who have spent long years as members of a seminary teaching staff find the transfer to parish work a blessed relief and a time of happy discovery. I do not believe that Father Meechan was an exception. However his years as parish priest coincided with the changes, developments and anxieties of the post-conciliar Church and it has to be said that Father Meechan did suffer an amount of bewilderment and frustration. It wasn't that he was "anti-council" (he was not, and one recalls the keenness with which he made a digest of the council's progress and activities for successive editions of Claves Regni, St. Peter's College Magazine).

But he did feel that some things happened after the council or some changes were being introduced that went beyond or even against the council's decrees. It was a painful time for him and yet he was always honest enough to admit his misgivings and well capable of arguing his points forcibly. He was a man who sought always to be in conformity with the Church's laws and his loyalty to the Holy See was unconditional.

For a good many months James Meechan knew that the cancer he had was terminal but, as has already been said, the illness and the consequent weakness became for him the occasion of a wonderful period of fulfilment.

He continued to attend to his pastoral work: Masses, confessions and care of the sick above all. This devotion to duty, which caused such widespread admiration, was accompanied by a happy acceptance of God's will that brought James Meehan much peace and serenity and was a source of joy to all who knew him. The words of St. Paul, "When I am weak, then I am strong" are particularly apposite for the final months of this good and faithful priest's time among us.

His memory will be preserved with great affection and respect as we thank God for what he was and what he did. May those thousands, priests, students and parishioners, whose lives he touched commend him now to our merciful Saviour.

Very Rev. Peter Canon Ryan—7th September, 1984

Peter Ryan was born at Cragg, Ballinahinch, Co. Tipperary on New Year's Day, 1901. He was the youngest of seven children born to Peter and Bridget Ryan. He received his early education at Ballinahinch National School and from there proceeded to St. Joseph's College, Roscrea, for his secondary education. It would appear that having completed his studies at Roscrea he went home and worked on the farm for a year or two. It was only when an older brother, studying for the priesthood at St. Patrick's College, Thurles, changed his mind about aspiring to this high calling and took the boat for America, that Peter said, "I will take his place" and literally came from between the handles of the plough and set out on the road to the priesthood.

He entered Thurles in 1920 and the following year, under a special arrangement between Archbishop Cantwell of Los Angeles and Archbishop Harty of Cashel and Emly, he was sent to the Irish College in Salamanca to continue his studies and to learn Spanish. Los Angeles had a large number of Spanish-speaking people along the Mexican border—now San Diego—and it was important that some of his priests should be able to speak that language. The two archbishops were close friends—Archbishop Cantwell was a Tipperary man brought up near Fethard in the shade of Slievenamon—and Archbishop Harty was glad to be able to help him by sending any student he wished in his own name to Salamanca. At the end of six years study and preparation he was ordained there in the College chapel on the 26th June, 1927.

Some months later he set out on the long journey to the American West, one week at sea and a week to cross America by train. The next three years or more were spent in learning the practical side of being a priest and attending to the spiritual needs of the people who had a very different culture from his own. He often spoke of those years and those people with affection, but the climate did not suit his health. Restored after a long holiday, he came to Scotland in 1931 and spent the next nine years in Dundee, six years at St. Joseph's and three at the Cathedral. Those were very busy and very happy years.

Bishop Mellon finding himself very short of priests in Galloway at the start of the Second World War, approached his friend Bishop Maguire in Dunkeld to ask if he could help him. The response from one coadjutor bishop to the other was "I will send you a man that will do as much as six men" and Father Ryan arrived in Galloway in 1940. His first appointment was St. Andrew's, Dumfries, where he was to remain until 1944 when he was made priest in charge at Kirkconnel. At this time he was incardinated into Galloway. He spoke of the wonderful letter he received from Archbishop Cantwell agreeing that this should happen, wishing him every success and happiness in his new diocese and expressing regret that he did not have the pleasure of welcoming him back to Los Angeles. In 1948 he moved to Kilwinning which had become part of Galloway a few months before. He was the first Galloway priest to move into the new area which until then had been part of the Archdiocese of Glasgow. While Peter worked with great zeal for the spiritual welfare of his flock, it could never be said that he neglected the property. During the years of war and the period immediately following it, it was impossible to do more than necessary repairs, anything not really necessary had to be forgotten about. This gave the new parish priest of St. Winin's the opportunity to prove his ability and good taste in these matters. Having seen to the needs of God's house, he proceeded when he could get the necessary permission to build a new presbytery of which he could be justly proud.

In May 1963 he moved to the new church and new parish of Mount Carmel, Kilmarnock, which included the church and people of Stewarton, eight miles away. Later that year he became a Canon of the Cathedral Chapter. In the next eight years he worked with energy to organise the new parish and set it on a firm foundation. In 1971 he was able to hand over a flourishing parish to the Sons of St. Norbert—the Premonstratensians. He was now seventy years of age and he accepted responsibility for Millport on the Isles of Cumbrae with its hundred or so Catholics. It was an ideal arrangement, but on the Monday morning of the week in which the change was to take place, something terrible happened: his housekeeper, who had taken care of him and his household for twenty years or more, died suddenly. He must have felt very much alone in the world on the Friday when he made his way to Millport. A blow of this kind would have been difficult at any time in life, but for a man of seventy, now needing care and support more than ever before in his life, it was too much. After a few months he retired and went to live in a home for priests run by the Sisters of Charity of St. Paul at Clonakilty in Co. Cork. He was very happy there, but in 1982 he became anxious to be near his oldest sister, who was still alive, and moved to the Sisters of Mercy at Ballycarron House near Tipperary. She lived only a short time and a year ago he moved to Milford House, near to his native place and some of his relatives. He celebrated Mass at 4 p.m. on 7th September and died a few hours later. He had completed fifty-seven years in the priesthood. Day after day in those years he had offered the Holy Sacrifice for the living and the dead and by God's great favour he continued this holy practice to the end. On Monday 10th September there was Requiem Mass in the Cathedral at Thurles at which Bishop Taylor of Galloway was the principal celebrant. Archbishop Morris of Cashel presided. He was laid to rest at Holy Cross Abbey near Thurles.

During his life he was meticulous in carrying out his priestly and parish duties and he was so to the end. He chose Holy Cross as his last resting place and instructed his relatives on some details of his funeral. In the last few years especially he seemed to dwell on what appeared to him as his failings and of his failures in his work for Christ and he would say "I hope the Lord will forgive me." We are confident He will. That forgiveness is in merciful and generous hands and will not be withheld.

May he rest in peace.

Rev. Joseph Maccabe—9th September, 1984

Father Joseph Maccabe, retired parish priest of St. Mary's, Kelso, died at Loanhead, Midlothian, on 9th September, 1984, in the 71st year of his age and the 47th of his priesthood. At the Funeral Mass in St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh, at which the principal celebrant was Bishop James Monaghan, Auxiliary Bishop of the Archdiocese, prior to the interment in Mount Vernon Cemetery, the following panegyric was delivered by Father James Quinn, S.J.:

The Cathedral in which we meet is a fitting place for the Requiem Mass offered for Father Maccabe. It is the place where his father played an important role in the musical tradition of the Cathedral as organist and choirmaster. Those were the days of an exclusively Latin liturgy of the Mass—the days of Father Malachy of the "miracle", none other in real life than Dom Gregory Ould of Fort Augustus Abbey.

Like myself Father Maccabe lived through two rather different musical traditions. In the earlier days of his priesthood he was deeply committed to a dignified but devotional rendering of the Latin liturgy.

Then came Vatican II and its aftermath. I remember asking him about the coming changes. Was it not a good idea for him to build up a repertoire of English texts and music for the vernacular liturgy? The question rebounded on my own head. He challenged me to provide the texts.

There grew up a partnership—what I look back on as a circle of friendship based on a common sense of vocation: Father Maccabe, the pastoral priest with sensitivity to the needs of a congregation; Dr. Victor Gaffney, head teacher of St. Joseph's School, our expert musical adviser; and myself, the writer of texts who had little sense of music.

This circle of friendship expanded into a wider community: the parishioners of St. Joseph's, Sighthill, the school attached to the parish: staff and children, with the children acting as guinea-pigs for our texts and music—and, of course, the devoted housekeeper at St. Joseph's, Mrs. Devlin, and her niece.

What we aimed at was a "catechism in song": this was why the children of St. Joseph's School were at the heart of the experiment. The means to this end was what we hoped would be a happy marriage of words and music—memorisable, if not memorable, words and music. In 1969 New Hymns for All Seasons was published. It is a simple fact that it would never have seen the light without the dedication, vision and energy of Father Maccabe.

The hymns and music inspired by this partnership have been appreciated, not only in Scotland but in other countries and in other Church traditions. One hymn was sung in the presence of the Pope at Bellahouston Park in 1982. Another was used, by the personal choice of Archbishop Coggan, at his installation as Archbishop of Canterbury in Canterbury Cathedral. The same hymn was used as the closing hymn of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland.

Six of the hymns have been published in Church Hymnary, Third Edition. Others are found in the English versions of the Divine Office.

Our Communion hymn will be "Out of the depths of love", from an important section of New Hymns for All Seasons devoted to the Holy Souls. Nowadays there is a note of joy and of resurrection at Catholic funerals. But we must always remember that our hope of resurrection to glory is linked to that process of purification, the finding of our true, unselfish selves, which prepares us for the vision of the all-holy God. May his soul, and the souls of all the faithful departed, through the mercy of God rest in peace. Amen.

Rev. James Edward McGee—17th September, 1984

Father James Edward McGee, parish priest of Christ the King, Pittenweem, died at Ross Hall Hospital, Glasgow, on 17th September, 1984, in the 54th year of his age and the 30th of his priesthood. The Funeral Mass was celebrated on 19th September in St. Anthony's Church, Johnstone, the principal celebrant being the Right Reverend Stephen McGill, Bishop of Paisley, and the interment took place in St. Conval's Cemetery, Barrhead. The following panegyric was delivered by Father Vincent Morris, parish priest of Tyholland, Co. Monaghan, Ireland:

My dear people of God, it is my privilege today to try and put into words our last farewell to our dear friend Father Eddie McGee.

The early Christians were great realists. They didn't mourn much for their dead. Over them they put a simple memorial reading: he has completed his baptism. I find it comforting to reflect that this is now happening to our friend: now are coming to full bloom those seeds of baptism implanted in him fifty odd years ago back in our home town of Castleblayney.

Those seeds have already come a long way in his relatively short life, especially since he heard the Master's call: follow me. "Follow me" were Christ's first words to Peter; they were also his last words on the sea shore shortly before he left the apostles. Obviously then they contain everything. Peter didn't know that when he heard them; he had to discover the full meaning as the events of life unfolded.

When Eddie heard and answered the call: follow me, he didn't know either where it would take him. We know now that it took him to the diocese of Edinburgh, to minister in Broxburn, Corstorphine, Rosewell, Cowdenbeath, Denny and especially to his beloved Pittenweem. In those places he would give witness especially to the gentleness, the simplicity, the loveliness and the warmth that were obvious qualities in him. He was remarkably free from all such things as ambition or status seeking. He just put himself at the service of people. His people found him simple, approachable, lovable, easy to relate to: the many friendships that adorned his life gave ample proof of that.

But the "Follow me" sometimes takes a different path for the Lord's loved ones. He invites a few chosen ones to take the hard rugged road—which in fact is a short cut to the eternal hills—which he himself took; he invites them to a deeper share in his passion and agony. It's a road that frightens most of us; we would prefer to meander round and round the hills and avoid the summit; there is no way we can answer the difficult question of the "why" of such suffering. All we can say is that under the cross these servants of the Lord meet the Master in an especially intimate way and they know it. That was the path Father Eddie went down some months ago and he walked it, as he did every other path, in a simple unquestioning way. The Master beckoned this way and that was enough for him.

Now to walk like that—in Vatican II's phrase, to walk unhesitatingly—with chin up needs a deeply rooted faith and a single-minded love. These were the gifts of Eddie's baptism that really grew in his life. His faith was marvellous. Nurtured and encouraged by his deeply religious father and mother—Thomas and Mary—who made such sacrifices for the Church and gave the only two boys they had to the priesthood—that faith was strong and simple. It never wavered in any storm: its roots were too well anchored. Eddie's faith was so deep that he could hardly understand why one could have difficulties. To him it was all clear. God was there: God gave the orders; you just tried to see it God's way and where is the problem?

That faith underpinned his simple, strong love. Affectionate, trusting, with a wonderful gift of reaching out to people, Eddie never saw bad in anyone; no way could he grasp deceit, suspicion or manipulation. He walked a straight line giving his love, especially to his parishioners in a straightforward, open frank manner.

Perhaps it's only at his death that we see any way clearly what we have lost. We see him, like Peter, led where he didn't wish to go—and indeed in that I take this opportunity to thank the doctors and nurses of Ross Hall Hospital who gave him such tender loving care in his illness. May God give them a great reward in return. That illness tested his faith and love too; that is why we can understand how his baptismal gifts are now flourishing. Like the flower that wilts in the early morning frost but then opens out to the warm sun, that knowledge and love of God so battered by the puzzlement of illness, is now opening up to the real sun in the eternal hills.

There is joy then in saying farewell. There is joy in expressing thanks to God for his many gifts to Eddie. There are tears of course: we tender our sympathy especially to his brother Gerry and his close friend Brendan—the Three Musketeers surely: also to his relatives, to his Bishop (the Cardinal) and priests of the diocese and to his parishioners. They will miss his physical presence. From all of us today—and for many a day—a special prayer, that prayer that Our Lord learned at his mother's knee, said every night of his life and made his own in a special way on the cross: Father into your hands I commend my spirit. Father into your loving arms we hand over today our so-gentle, dear brother. May he very soon have his baptism completed and see the light of the resurrection.

Rev. Charles J. Kelly, M.A., Dip.Ed.—8th October, 1984

Father Charles Joseph Kelly, parish priest of the Sacred Heart and St. Anthony's, Armadale, died at Waterford on 8th October, 1984.

Charles Joseph Kelly was born at Kilkenny on St. Joseph's day in 1918 and entered St. Kieran's College in that city in 1930 to prepare for the priesthood. After completing his studies thereat, he was ordained priest for the Archdiocese of St. Andrews and Edinburgh by Bishop Patrick Collier of Ossory in St. Mary's Cathedral, Kilkenny, on 8th June, 1941.

His first appointment as assistant priest was to St. Columba's, Newington. After a year there, in 1942 he went up to Oxford to take a degree. He graduated B.A. with First Class Honours in Modern Greats in 1945 and returned to St. Columba's. In 1947 he went as chaplain to St. Teresa's, Aberdour, which was then a residential nursery in the care of the Good Shepherd Sisters. After two years there, he spent a year in residence at St. Peter's, Morningside, during which time he gained his Diploma in Education and took his M.A. In 1950, he was appointed assistant at St. Marie's, Kirkcaldy, where he remained until, in 1956, he was appointed parish priest of the Immaculate Conception, Jedburgh. His next charge, to which he was transferred in 1965, was as parish priest of St. Mark's, Oxfgangs, where he laboured for some twelve years until, in 1977, he was appointed parish priest at Armadale. While there, his health deteriorated and, in 1984, knowing that he had but a short time to live, he went to his sister's home in Tramore, Co. Waterford, and died on 8th October, 1984.

The Funeral Mass in St. John's Church, Kilkenny, was concelebrated by Bishop Monaghan, by Father Kelly's two priest nephews and by a notable number of priests from St. Andrews and Edinburgh, the Bishop of Ossory, Dr. Laurence Forristal, being present. The interment followed in St. Kieran's Cemetery, Kilkenny. R.I.P.

Rev. Andrew Shiels—12th October, 1984

Father Andrew Shiels, parish priest of Our Lady and St. Bridget's, West Calder, died in Falkirk on 12th October, 1984, in the 64th year of his age and the 31st of his priesthood. The Funeral Mass was celebrated in St. Francis Xavier's, Falkirk, on 16th October, the principal celebrant being the Right Reverend James Monaghan, Auxiliary Bishop of St. Andrews and Edinburgh and the interment took place in Falkirk. At the Mass, the following panegyric was delivered by Father Keith O'Brien, Rector of St. Mary's College, Blairs:

The public life of Jesus Christ was a very busy one—he was hounded by crowds eager to see him and hear him, to listen to his teaching, to witness his miracles and his cures. From time to time he did seek peace and quiet—he withdrew from the crowds into a place apart, he went into the mountains to pray to his Father, he got into a boat to go out onto the lake with his chosen twelve, and from time to time he withdrew to Bethany, a small village about two miles from Jerusalem to be with the family of Martha, Mary and Lazarus. There was a close bond of friendship between Jesus and this family; he gave them particular advice and help; and he imparted some of his most important teaching to this family. It was in the home of Martha, Mary and Lazarus that Jesus reminded his followers of the importance of the contemplative life as compared to the active life, of the value of a life of prayer as compared to a life of action.

I was thinking of Bethany, of Martha, Mary and Lazarus, this past weekend when pondering over the life of Father Andrew Shiels.

In the life of this good and zealous priest, there was undoubtedly the Martha part—there was the life of a man of action. Oh yes, strengthened by a life of prayer, but it was the life of a man, a priest, another Christ, who was set on “going around doing good”, on going around doing as much good as possible in as short a time as possible.

Father Andrew was a teenager when he first thought of offering himself as a priest. Born in 1921, he was just eighteen when the Second World War broke out—he could not go to seminary, and instead served in the Royal Navy for the duration of the war. His war experiences, instead of dampening his enthusiasm for the priesthood rather strengthened his desire to serve God and others; and, at the end of hostilities, he joined many other ex-servicemen in his preliminary studies at Campion House, Osterley. His senior seminary studies were continued at Oscott College, Birmingham, and Andrew was ordained a priest in the Cathedral in Edinburgh by the then Archbishop Gray on 12th June 1954.

After serving one year in Gorebridge, Father Shiels served in turn in three of the largest and most important parishes in the Archdiocese: in St. Columba's Edinburgh, in St. John's, Portobello, and in St. Patrick's, Kilsyth. In each of these parishes, his zeal was unflagging, and his ministry characterised by three things in particular: his love of the housebound and the elderly—shown in his devotion to his own elderly mother in Falkirk, and in his care and respect for those old people to whom he ministered, including the mother of our Cardinal and the mother of Canon Gordon; his ministry was also characterised by his ability as a good confessor, always willing to hear confessions, always ready to hand on very practical advice as well as Christ's forgiveness; and, thirdly, in his parishes, he always tried to encourage vocations to the priesthood by his prayer and by his own priestly example. I know that I learned much from him as one of his altar boys in St. Columba's as did another member of the Blairs staff, Father Johnston, when he was Father Andrew's altar boy in Portobello.

As a young priest, the activities of Father Shiels were not confined to the parishes to which he was appointed. In addition to these duties, Father Shiels was also diocesan scout chaplain, and was appointed diocesan chaplain to the deaf and dumb people who sought a priest to help them in their particular need.

Father Shiels' first appointment as parish priest was to the parish of St. Joseph's in Kelty. There he delighted to serve, and his particular joy was in the small primary school literally sitting on his doorstep. He was assiduous in his visitation of his people and in his care of the sick. His priesthood was simple and uncomplicated—unaffected by the winds of change. He suffered from no identity crisis in his priesthood. He did not lose any time trying to define his priesthood or in asking who he was. What he saw as important for himself and for his people was trying to live his priesthood.

Over the years Father Andrew's health was beginning to deteriorate; he began to suffer from a crippling arthritis. And when he was asked to move from Kelty to West Calder, his poor health began to give cause for concern. His arthritis slowed him down a great deal, he was not as mobile as he had been, he could not always accomplish all his targets in parish and school visitation. And all this led him to become increasingly frustrated with himself—at his inability to work as he had once been able. But the good people of West Calder were only too ready to forgive his shortcomings and to help him in every way. They saw in him the sort of priest recently described by Pope John Paul II: "A priest who prayed and who tried to get close to his people; a priest who was loyal to his vocation of following the poor, the chaste, and the obedient Christ".

However, the strains of parochial work were too great for him, and he suffered a paralysing stroke one Sunday evening at the end of his celebration of Mass with his people.

It is then that we might say that another, and perhaps even more fruitful apostolate became his—the Mary part of his life came to the fore. In and out of hospital, residing in his own home, he could no longer be busy about many things—he concentrated on the one thing necessary, he grew closer to God in his prayer, all the while continuing to give a priestly example to all who came to him.

His own home in Falkirk became for him a little Bethany, a haven of peace and rest, where love and devoted attention were lavished on him by his beloved sister, Bella. He was close to Our Lord in his daily sacrifice of the Mass at home, in his praying of the breviary and the rosary. And he was close to his family and his friends. I feel that I must pay public thanks here to Bella on behalf of the cardinal, the bishop, and all our priests, for the way in which she cared for Andrew over these last few years—she herself became a Martha for her brother.

Father Andrew found peace and calm in his own home—but also in the only other company which he really loved: that of his fellow priests. His brother priests came to see him, especially those of Falkirk parish. He was an honoured guest in Falkirk presbytery every week when he joined the priests for concelebrated Mass, for a meal, and for the usual clerical chit-chat. And he enjoyed his frequent trips in their cars around the countryside and to neighbouring presbyteries. With his ready quips, and his very down-to-earth comments about everyday affairs, I know he frequently enlivened the Falkirk presbytery table.

Father Andrew also enjoyed the company of the priests and the students for the priesthood at Blairs where he joined us for holidays. There his priestly example was striking. Despite his handicaps, almost his first request was to know where he could say Mass, and where was his breviary. Priests and boys saw him at Mass, saw him at prayer; we knew that he went to bed with his rosary around his neck so that any sleepless hours could be spent fruitfully occupied in prayer, thinking of the great mysteries of our redemption and praying for others.

Most would agree that his apostolate in ill-health—his life as a “Mary” devoted to the one thing necessary—was perhaps even more fruitful than his life as a Martha, occupied in the vineyard of the Lord.

But now Father Andrew has entered upon a new great adventure. Like Lazarus he is about to descend into the tomb. . . . “our brother Andrew has died”. But Jesus says “our brother will rise again”. Jesus says: “I am the resurrection. If anyone believes in me, even though he dies he will live, and whoever lives and believes in me will never die”.

Like Martha and Mary we also believe this. We pray that Andrew will rejoice in the glory of the resurrection with all his sins forgiven. And, as we pray in the third eucharistic prayer, “May he share in your glory when every tear will be wiped away; may he see you, our God, as you are; may he become like you, and praise you for ever through Christ our Lord from whom all good things come.”

May God grant eternal rest to this good and faithful priest. Amen.

The following tribute by a Blairs student indicates the influence exercised by Father Shiels on a young man preparing for the priesthood and is extracted from Blairs 1985 with permission:

Father Andy Shiels was a good friend of mine. I met him one year in the staff corridor while he was visiting Blairs, as he often did.

Father Shiels was an old man who was quite ill and could only walk with a stick, very slowly. I used to come and visit him in his room, where he spent the best part of the day reading books and saying office. He used to tell me he was studying Greek and Dutch and that all his textbooks were under the covers of his bed. When I visited him, he would give me little jobs to do, such as open all the Christmas cards of the year before, from his friends and relatives, and read them to him. He also used to call me his “doctor”, since another job I did was to get all his medicine and pills ready, and get some water for him.

He used to tell me about his life in the Navy during the war as a young man, before he went on for the priesthood. He described some of the things that happened to him and his “mates”, and would tell me some of the Navy expressions they used. I enjoyed his stories and the conversations we had. He had a very comical and pleasant character, which all of the students here enjoyed.

I know he'll be enjoying God's presence in heaven, since his death last October. I often pray for him, and ask him to pray for me.

STATEMENTS OF THE BISHOPS

STATEMENT ON MINERS' STRIKE

(Blairs, October, 1984)

We are all saddened by the present strike in the mining industry. It is causing wounds and deep suffering in families, communities and throughout the whole nation. At this delicate stage it is unhelpful to make judgements or to apportion blame, but it is the time for all of us to move towards a change of attitudes that will bring a feeling of relationships. This we believe will come about only by personal effort at every level under God's guidance.

We ask you therefore, priests and people, to pray for a just solution to the dispute, an end to bitterness and a readiness in each of us to work together for the good of all.

INSTRUCTION:

"PENANCE IN THE CHRISTIAN LIFE"

(Blairs, October, 1984)

Introduction

The new Code of Canon Law was published last year by the Holy See. The bishops have certain decisions to make in regard to its implementation. One such decision concerns the way in which days of penance are to be observed.

The Call to Penance

The call to penance, frequently heard in the Old Testament, was voiced again by St. John the Baptist on the eve of Christ's appearing: "Repent" he said, "for the kingdom of heaven is close at hand". (Mt. 3, 2). And Jesus, at the very beginning of his public ministry, proclaimed: "Repent and believe the good news". (Mark 1, 15). Pope Paul VI commented: "These words constitute, in a way, a compendium of the whole Christian life". (Apostolic Constitution "Poenitemini" 1966).

The word "repent" does not readily convey the full meaning of the Greek word "metanoia" used in the Gospels. The original sense is of a total change of mind and heart, of a radical conversion, comprising a two-fold movement—a turning away from sin and a turning back to God. Where there has been a shift in emphasis from the interior change of heart to the external practice of penitential exercises (cf. Latin term "poenitentiam agere"), it is essential to keep the internal, and original, aspect in mind.

Conversion

Conversion comprises a turning away from sin. In Scripture sin is presented as the greatest of evils. It is not simply a matter of contravening the moral law; it means refusing God's friendship, spurning his gift of love manifest in Jesus, and opposing his will. Sin is a practical denial of God as our Father and the only source of life.

By sin we wound and diminish ourselves as persons, our own self-control is weakened, and we abuse God's gift of free will.

Over and above the personal element involved in sin, there is also the social effect. Every sin, even when it does not directly offend our neighbour, is a wound inflicted on the Church and works against the true unity of mankind. (cf Lumen Gentium, no. 11).

Sin therefore has three effects. It offends God, harms the sinner, and hurts our neighbour.

Conversion comprises a turning back to God. The Sacrament of Penance was instituted by Christ to effect our reconciliation with God our Father. It also brings about a restoration of friendship with our neighbour, and an amendment of our lives.

Doing penance has always been an element in its celebration. It is a practical expression of our sorrow, and a making of amends.

The Practice of Penance

In the New Testament itself repentance is always accompanied by some kind of external expression, and the same is true in the tradition of the Church. Pope Paul VI wrote: "The Church is intent especially upon expressing the three principal ways, long-standing in practice, which make it possible to fulfil the divine command to repent. These are prayer, fasting and works of charity". (ibid).

It is important to note how each of these three ways of showing repentance helps to counteract the three effects of sin already mentioned. Sin offends God, harms the sinner and hurts our neighbour. With God's grace, prayer can help restore our relationship with him; fasting and self-denial can help strengthen our self-control; works of charity can help put right our relations with others.

These three ways of showing repentance are very closely linked to one another. Fasting, for example, can be both an exercise in self-discipline and a means of helping the poor and needy. Many spiritual writers throughout the ages have also regarded fasting as a help to prayer and meditation.

Days of Penance

In keeping with the practice of the New Testament, and indeed of her own tradition which reflects the essential characteristics of penance, the Church provides that penance should take on a shared and communal form. An example of this has been the designation of special days for penance throughout the Church, their purpose being, in the words of Pope Paul VI, "to join all the faithful in a kind of shared celebration of penance". (ibid). The choice of Friday as a day of penance reflects the conviction that all Christian penance is rooted in some manner in the Cross of Jesus. The value of shared penance found expression over many centuries in abstaining from meat on Fridays in a weekly commemoration of Our Lord's passion.

As time passed social habits and people's circumstances changed. On the one hand abstinence from meat as the only way of fulfilling Friday penance presented difficulties to many; while on the other hand it ceased to be for many a real penance and developed into a mere routine practice.

In 1966, after the close of the Second Vatican Council, Pope Paul VI re-examined the practice of penance within the Church and published the document to which several references have already been made, namely "Poenitemini". It was in fact a very positive document which reaffirmed the importance of penance in the Christian life. Regrettably it became the occasion of a rather negative emphasis on the need no longer to abstain from meat on Fridays. That is how most of us remember it. The positive aspect, namely the communal nature of penance, and the need to supply some other real alternative, was quickly forgotten. The time has come, with the publication of the new Code of Canon Law to redress this balance, and rediscover the place and purpose of penance in our lives.

Penance Today

In response to the need, and in conformity with the requirements of the new Code of Canon Law, as the bishops of Scotland

- (a) we STRESS the Gospel's call to repentance, and the need for penance in our lives;
- (b) we REMINDE the faithful of the special penitential season of Lent, during which Ash Wednesday and Good Friday are obligatory days of fasting and abstinence, and throughout which a spirit of penance should find expression in prayer, fasting and almsgiving;
- (c) we UNDERLINE the penitential obligation attached to Fridays by which we in Scotland join Catholics throughout the world in commemorating the passion and death of Our Lord;
- (d) we DECREE that the prescription of the Code relating to Friday abstinence will be fulfilled in Scotland by undertaking one of the following practices on that day: namely
 - (i) ABSTAINING from meat, or some other food or drink or entertainment;
 - (ii) ATTENDING a service in Church, or offering prayers alone or as a family;
 - (iii) VISITING those in need or making a contribution to charity;
 these reflect in practical terms the three ways of penance traditionally encouraged by the Church, namely prayer, fasting and almsgiving.
- (e) we STRESS that, although abstinence does not bind those under 14 years of age, priests, teachers and parents should ensure that children are taught the true meaning of penance;
- (f) we REASSURE the housebound, the sick and the elderly, and those who by the nature of their circumstances are unable to fulfil these obligations, that they may, by prayer or other works of devotion or charity, join in the spirit of the law.
- (g) we RECALL the words of Pope John Paul II addressed to us during his visit to Scotland:

"Like Jesus we are called to preach conversion, to echo the words he proclaimed so early in his public ministry: 'Repent and believe the Gospel'. But here too our effectiveness depends on our openness to grace; we ourselves are meant to experience the conversion that we proclaim". (Edinburgh June 1st '82).

TO PARENTS ON THE RELIGIOUS FORMATION OF THEIR CHILDREN

(Education Sunday, 18th November, 1984)

This year on Education Sunday your Bishops wish to put before you some thoughts about how God invites you fathers and mothers to play a unique part in the religious formation of your children. Your role is unique because it is irreplaceable. If you do not fulfil it, there will always be a gap in the personal and religious formation of your children.

At the outset, we, your spiritual leaders, acknowledge that we too have responsibilities to provide support and encouragement to you as you go about your task of rearing the young. Indeed, the whole parish community has a responsibility in the religious formation of young people.

It is our awareness of our obligations and your need for our support that prompts us to express the following thoughts to you: There must be occasions when a mother or father's heart is heavy with anxiety for the welfare of their children as they see so many agents vie with one another for their minds—and their souls. Unemployment; drugs; permissiveness; the rejection of Christian moral standards—all of these rightly fill parents' minds with foreboding for the future of society.

Yet, there is another way—the Christian way—of viewing what is happening in our world: we should be able to learn from all this what God wants from us in these circumstances. If our reading of the signs of the times is that the family is under grave pressures today, is it not up to us in our respective ways—Home, Church, School—to see what we can do together to build up the family as a Christian community?

Each one of these three factors, Home—Church—School, can at the local level fail to provide the expected support but the most crucial area for religious formation of the young remains the home.

It happens that some parents do not feel equipped for this task. This is not good enough. You have to make yourselves adequate—for your children's sake. This is where the parish and school can support you by providing opportunities for you to learn more about your child's religious formation programme.

It is never too early for school, parish and home to get together. When a Catholic child of five begins school, that child should have been already introduced to Jesus and taught simple prayers. The Holy Father reminds us that education in the faith by parents "should begin from the children's tenderest years." (Catechesis in our times n. 68).

The Catholic school's primary objective is to build up a Catholic community where all share in and live by the same values which are those of the Gospel. The Catholic family is also a Catholic community. Is it not essential that the Christian values taught in school are carried over and put into practice by all at home? What is the point of teaching baking in the home economics class if there is no opportunity at home to put it into practice?

Parents, your co-operation is vital. We ask you to make yourselves familiar with your children's development in faith and the different stages in that process.

Only then will you be able to give the necessary support.

We all have to make more efforts to link up home, parish and school. Their collaboration has to be a reality, not merely a glib phrase

To achieve this we need practical contributions from all three and we need them now. No-one has the right to prevent more things happening on this united front.

More than anyone else, parents, you can help your children develop as persons.

The father and mother who observe the developing person from infancy through to adolescence will provide space and scope for the growing needs of their children. They will respect them as persons in their own right, with a claim to their own dignity. They will encourage them to talk freely about the things that attract or disturb them without fear of being stifled.

But it is not enough for parents to be listeners. There are occasions when duty demands that, having listened, you gently offer your children something wiser and more mature.

Psychologists tell us that children expect parents to lay down reasonable rules of conduct. In fact, children can be scarred by the lack of confident parental guidance. Children look to adults to take the initiatives, to make the first moves towards narrowing the generation gap. Young people are uncertain of themselves and feel gauche.

It is up to us to give them back their confidence by showing we trust and respect them.

Conversation in the home should never be in danger of exploding into confrontation. Your children have a right to your time. We can only expect people to return the kind of respect and civility we offer them. This applies to the child-parent relationship.

Due to the pressure of modern life we are in danger of losing family relationships. The sense of home is where we belong and where we are precious. That in this home we have "the domestic church": a community that worships God together; a community where love is always the virtue to be aimed at in our relationships; a community with a heart as well as a head.

True, some families struggle for survival in conditions far from ideal. Marriage breakdown, materialism and unemployment are three main blights in family life today. Yet we are consoled by so many loving men and women who never give up caring for their own through thick and thin.

Those who are strong should come to the help of the weak. We must all know families where things don't go too well. Extend a helping hand without depriving them of their dignity. We all know how to do it. And when we do it, we do it to Christ. Adults, especially parents, are teaching at their best when they do so by their own personal example and witness. This is what we need in Catholic homes more than anything else. The sight of a couple committed to Christ speaks eloquently to children without the need of words or coercion.

We end these words of encouragement to parents with a quotation from the Holy Father: "With all my heart I urge that your homes be centres of prayer; homes where families are at ease in the presence of God"

FOR PEACE DAY

(1st January, 1985)

Introduction

At Easter 1982, we issued our statement on Disarmament and Peace. Since that time many other conferences of bishops in Europe and the United States have also made statements on the arms race and its fearful consequences for the future as well as its massive use of precious resources in the present.

A new threat

With a new generation of nuclear weapons now being installed in Britain and Europe we feel fully justified in offering a further reflection on the threat to world peace, particularly since much of the negotiation on arms limitation and disarmament has reached a stand-still. International relations between the two main power blocs have grown colder as each sees the other develop and deploy weapons of mass destruction.

A vital need in such a climate

No one doubts the difficulty in achieving a rapid elimination of nuclear weapons. But there is an interim measure which a natural prudence dictates. It is called the nuclear freeze, that mutual agreement to halt the production, testing and development of our nuclear stockpiles. That apparent inability to achieve such a modest target prompts us to repeat—but now more forcefully—what we said in 1982. "If it is immoral to use these weapons, it is also immoral to threaten their use." The development of more sophisticated weapons as well as policies determining their strategic deployment may of themselves signal an intention which is threatening.

The responsibility of the state and the individual

It is the responsibility of the state to defend the nation and the common good—especially the peaceful possession of the common good. But, in a nuclear-age, the form which that defence adopts cannot be left to governments alone. Governments are accountable to their citizens and each citizen has the right to make his view known in a responsible manner. That is the hallmark of a democratic society.

World Peace

The Gospel calls us to reconcile and unite, to be the peacemakers. However difficult to achieve, this is what all Christians are called to be. This begins in the heart of each person, for each of us is invited by Christ to be a good Samaritan, to be a friend to all because we are seen by none as an enemy. International peace will never be attained if we are not peacemakers, in our own sphere of influence.

Today's and tomorrow's world

Today the Holy Father calls the attention of the youth of the world to the cause of peace. He asks them to use their energies to work for a world made better through their involvement in Third World issues as well as deepening their concern for the only world which has a future—a peaceful world. That invitation deserves the encouragement and support of our whole community. We invite especially our young people to take up the concern of peace and development as their great challenge in this the International Year of Youth.

Silver Jubilee—Brora, Sutherland—Tuesday, 21st June, 1983

Father James O'Neill S.J. and his parishioners of the Church of Christ the King, in Brora, Sutherland warmly welcomed the Right Rev. Mario Conti, diocesan clergy and religious and many friends to their celebration of the Silver Jubilee of their parish. Before 1958 the Catholic population of Sutherland had been served from Wick in Caithness. The Church was dedicated to Christ the King by Bishop Michael Foylan on 5th October 1973. Father Alistair Doyle of Banff, a former parish priest preached at the Jubilee Mass and paid tribute to the zeal and dedication of the priests who had pioneered in the early days, the sole survivor present being Canon David Keith of Buckie. It was a very happy occasion and all present were given tremendous hospitality. The estimated Catholic population is 180 of a total population of 13,117!

Priests' Friendly Society—150th anniversary—Monday, 18th July, 1983

At 11 a.m. the members of the Friendly Society met at St. Gregory's Church, Preshome, Enzie, Moray to celebrate (a year late) the 150th anniversary of its establishment at Preshome on July 18th 1832. Members are clergy who are incardinated into the diocese and the sole and only object of the Society is to provide financial help to those engaged in Parish Administration who are in need.

In the absence of the ex officio Chairman, Bishop Mario Conti, the presiding celebrant was Mgr. John F. Copland, V.G. There was a large percentage of the members present and after the Mass they all gathered at the Tynet Mill for a lunch which had been arranged by the parish priest, Canon David Keith.

Bridge of Don—New Shared Church
Wednesday, 7th September, 1983

At 7.30 p.m. a large gathering of Catholics, Presbyterians and others assembled at St. Columba's Church Centre, Bridge of Don, Aberdeen.

This is the first building in Scotland to house together a Catholic church and a Presbyterian church. To-day it was dedicated to the service of God in a shared liturgy of worship and praise, firstly in the larger Presbyterian church and then passing through the centrally shared hospitality area of the building, in the Catholic chapel. The shared building is situated on a hilltop looking eastwards over the new local Westfield Park to the North Sea. The building which was erected by Stocks of Leeds, accommodates 350 worshippers in the Presbyterian church and 180 in the Catholic chapel, at a cost of £100,000 to the diocese.

Present at this unique occasion were Cardinal Gordon Gray, Dr. J. Fraser McLuskey, Moderator of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, Bishop Mario Conti, Rev. A. Stewart Todd, minister of St. Machar's Cathedral and his associate minister Rev. Calum MacLeod, and Father Myles Lovell, S.J., parish priest of St. Joseph's (Woodside) and St. Columba's.

On 8th June (Vigil of the Feast of St. Columba) at 7.30 p.m. the altar in the Catholic chapel was consecrated by Bishop Mario Conti in the presence of Mgr. John F. Copland, V.G. former parish priest of St. Joseph's Woodside and a few of the clergy and laity of St. Mary's Deanery. A significant feature of the new chapel is the artistic contribution of Mrs. Anne Davidson of Aberdeen who was commissioned to sculpt in bronze a statue of Our Lady and one of St. Columba.

Conference on the Theology of Justice and Peace and Development
Saturday, 22nd October, 1983

A one-day conference, organised by SCIAF, on the theology of Justice and Peace and Development took place in St. Aloysius Hall, Garnethill. Archbishop Winning opened the meeting and described SCIAF as one of the first fruits of the Second Vatican Council. Speakers included Father Ian Murray, Chairman of SCIAF, Father Jock Dalrymple, Father William Slavin and Father Henry McLoughlin.

Mass for Centenary of Royal Hospital for Sick Children
Sunday, 23rd October, 1983

St. Paul's, Whiteinch, was the venue for a concelebrated Mass to mark the centenary of the Royal Hospital for Sick Children, Yorkhill, Glasgow. Archbishop Winning was the principal celebrant of the Mass of Thanksgiving. Monsignor James McMahan, parish priest of St. Paul's, said that the Mass was celebrated "because of the debt we owe to the hospital."

Bishop Conti's Sacerdotal Silver Jubilee
Wednesday, 26th October, 1983

This day marked the sacerdotal Silver Jubilee of our Bishop Mario Conti. It was fortuitous that he had been called to Rome for a Synod on the theme of "Penance and Reconciliation in the Mission of the Church" and to prepare for a Canon Law course at the Gregorian, his alma mater. He had been ordained at the Church of San Marcello al Corso but it was to the chapel of the old Scots College in the Via Quattro Fontane that he went to celebrate his Jubilee Mass, joined by the staff and students from Via Cassia. The previous evening at a 'cenone' in the refectory there, he was presented, on behalf of the College, with a gift of a painting of the Madonna from the hands of Edward Traynor a diocesan student from the Banchory/Aboyne parish. Present at the meal were Mgr. George Hay, Rector of the English College and Mgr. Charles Burns of the Vatican Archives.

At a meeting of the Diocesan Council of Priests on Tuesday 27th September a Mass of Thanksgiving was celebrated by the Bishop at the Convent of Mercy Chapel in Elgin, at 5.30 p.m. Present were the Abbots of Fort Augustus and Pluscarden and thirty three priests including Father John Dalrymple who gave the homily. At a dinner which followed in the Eight Acres Hotel the host, Bishop Conti, was presented with a wallet of notes on behalf of the diocesan clergy, by the Council's Chairman, Father Charles McGregor, Dean of St. Columba's.

On Friday 25th November at 6.30 p.m. the Bishop celebrated a Mass of Thanksgiving in his Cathedral at Huntly Street with clergy and laity from throughout the diocese. A reception followed in the Senior Common Room at Aberdeen University where Mrs. Roma Hossack from Elgin (the Bishop's native town) congratulated the jubilarian on everyone's behalf. That same day the Bishop had taken delivery of a 1300 Cavalier saloon car which was the gift of the people of his diocese.

Papal Knighthoods Conferred—Friday, 28th October, 1983

Mr. George Crozier, the Chairman of the Scottish Lay Apostolate Council, was made a Knight Commander of St. Gregory. Mr. Frank Burns, head of the family publishing firm John S. Burns & Sons, was made a Knight of St. Gregory in recognition of the firm's 50 years of service to the Catholic community in Scotland. Archbishop Winning invested Mr. Crozier with the insignia of his honour at a ceremony in the Archdiocesan Offices, Park Circus, Glasgow, while the investiture of Mr. Burns took place at a Mass celebrated by Bishop Renfrew in Bon Secours Convent on 25th November.

St. John's, Portugal Street, Demolished

Friday, 4th November, 1983

This was a sad day for the Catholic community in the Gorbals. St. John's Church, one of the oldest in the city, erected in 1897, with a capacity for 1000 worshippers, was finally demolished. The parish was closed in 1982 due to the population shifts in the area and was incorporated with the Parish of St. Luke's in Ballater Street.

Paisley Schools—Sunday 27th November, 1983

In a pastoral letter in Paisley, Bishop Stephen McGill asked for co-operation and prayer in the period of consultation and debate on the future of secondary schools in Paisley area. The re-organisation and provision of schools will "almost certainly mean that the number of schools will be reduced." There were then three secondary schools in Paisley—Sacred Heart; St. Aelred's and St. Mirin's & St. Margaret's. Bishop McGill asked "all those who are being consulted to inform themselves of what the alternatives are." They will be understandably "concerned to see that their own children will not suffer in any way from the changes that have to be made" but they should have a concern not only for the welfare of their own children and of their area "but also the welfare of the whole Catholic community of Paisley."

Port Glasgow Tribute to Nun—Monday, 12th December, 1983

A congregation of about 500 attended a concelebrated Mass in Holy Family Church, Port Glasgow for Sister Catherine Curran (56), Daughter of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul, who died a few days previously. While based at St. Vincent's Centre, Langbank, she had spent the last eleven years of her life doing all kinds of social work in Port Glasgow, particularly in Holy Family parish. Two coaches of parishioners attended her funeral in Rosewell.

Rev. Joseph Quinn, parish priest of Holy Family, was celebrant of the Mass and paid tribute to Sister Catherine.

Death of Salesian Sister—Wednesday, 2nd February, 1984

The Ferguslie community of Salesian Sisters suffered its first bereavement since coming to Paisley in 1969 with the passing of Sister Anne Meade (73) in Cowley, Oxford. She had been in Ferguslie from 1970 until she suffered a heart-attack a few weeks before her death. She went to Cowley to recuperate and had hoped to return to Paisley.

A native of Shanballa, Co. Limerick, she was one of a family of eleven. She joined the Salesian Sisters in 1929 in Chertsey, Surrey and made her first profession in 1931. She spent most of her religious life at Battersea and Cowley before her transfer to Paisley in 1970.

Centenary of Little Sisters of the Poor, Greenock
Monday, 20th February, 1984

"We are grateful you came, may you stay a thousand years" said Bishop Stephen McGill of Paisley, preaching at a special Mass marking the occasion of the centenary of the Little Sisters of the Poor, Greenock. He recalled the primitive beginnings of the Holy Family Home in February 1884 as the first Little Sisters arrived with their few possessions, their buying of fresh straw for bedding, wooden boxes utilised as items of furniture. He spoke of the sacrifices made by the Little Sisters on behalf of the aged in need and of the great generosity of the people of Greenock and elsewhere that helped the Little Sisters in their work. He emphasised the devotedness of their pioneer Sisters and of all who came after them.

Bishop McGill added that while the people made the work of the Little Sisters possible through their support, the civil community of Greenock owes much to the same Little Sisters because by their questing for alms they gave to the public an opportunity to exercise great charity and to share in making possible the compassion of Christ for those in need.

At the end of the Mass Bishop McGill conveyed the blessing of Pope John Paul II bestowed on the Sisters and residents. Afterwards he also presented the Little Sisters with a cheque for £1,300 from the clergy and people of St. Laurence's, Greenock.

The work of the Little Sisters began on February 23, 1884 with the arrival of the 80 years old Helen McKay. She was the first of the 1,488 women and 2,027 men—a total of 3,515 people—who were to be provided for within the walls of the home in the ensuing one hundred years. In that period there were nineteen superiors, the first being Sister Augustine de la Presentation (Rateau) from France and the last being Sister Francis Marie (Shiels) from Dublin. Twenty-nine Little Sisters died in Greenock.

A history of the Little Sisters of the Poor in Greenock was produced by Rev. B. J. Canning: "Instruments of His Work 1884-1984—Centenary of the Little Sisters of the Poor, Greenock"

Civic Reception for Little Sisters of the Poor, Greenock Wednesday, 28th February, 1984

Provost Harry Mulholland of Inverclyde District Council said: "As a community I am certain we all at some time in our lives have seen at first hand the compassion, sincerity and devoted service so selflessly given by the Little Sisters of the Poor, a service which I am sure has helped many of our people in times of distress, anxiety and illness."

He traced the history of the Little Sisters in Greenock over the past hundred years when he addressed a civic reception in Greenock Town Hall given by the Inverclyde District Council. Present at the reception was Bishop Stephen McGill of Paisley.

Provost Mulholland presented Mother Francis Marie (Shiels) with a commemorative salver.

St. Kieran's Scottish Union—Tuesday, 6th March, 1984

Twenty-five priests concelebrated Mass in St. Mary's Church, Stirling, at the 53rd annual re-union of St. Kieran's College, Kilkenny, to mark the feast of their patron. Principal celebrant Bishop James Monaghan said they met in a spirit of thanksgiving for their priesthood. He welcomed the pupils of St. Mary's primary school who rendered the music of the Mass and the many adults in the congregation who joined in the liturgy.

At the meeting afterwards the vice-president of the Scottish Union, Rev. Thomas Rhatigan, parish priest of St. Mary's, Stirling, recalled that St. Mary's Stirling overlooked the ruins of Cambuskenneth Abbey so named after St. Kenneth or St. Canice, patron of Kilkenny City.

Holy Family Primary School, Aberdeen
Monday, 2nd April, 1984

The former Willowpark Primary School was rededicated as the Holy Family Primary School by Mgr. John Copland V.G. and Church Representative on the Grampian Regional Education Committee. In the presence of Bishop Mario Conti, Father John Gowans, Parish Priest, Father John Symon, the Cathedral Administrator and Father Myles Lovell S.J. the school was formally opened by the Deputy Chairman of the Education Committee Mr. John Porter.

The school had been previously situated at West Cairncry since 1959 when it had moved from Summer Street in the heart of the city where it was known as St. Mary's Primary. The present head teacher Mr. Graham McKnight, his staff and pupils were present also to hear the Convener of the Grampian Region Mr. John Sorrie introduce the officials including Mr. James A. Michie, Director of Education. The school which serves the North of the city has an approximate roll of 120. This move to more substantial premises is a tribute to the zeal and enthusiasm of the parish priest, parents and teachers who have made every endeavour in difficult circumstances to obtain what is now a most acceptable and attractive school.

Appointment of New Assistant Bishop for Glasgow
Tuesday, 24th April, 1984

The appointment of Father John Aloysius Mone—parish priest of St. Joseph's, Tollcross, and Director of the Ministry to Priests' Programme, as Assistant Bishop in Glasgow and Titular Bishop of Abercorn was announced today.

Bishop-Elect Mone was ordained to the priesthood in St. Andrew's Cathedral, Glasgow, on June 12th 1952. He had served as assistant priest in St. Ninian's, Knightswood, for 23 years and for four years at Our Lady and St. George's, Penilee, before being appointed parish priest in Tollcross in 1979.

Father Mone's appointment was welcomed throughout the Archdiocese as he had been the popular choice for the position vacant since Bishop Devine's transfer to Motherwell.

Episcopal Ordination of Bishop-Elect John Mone
Monday, 14th May, 1984

Holy Cross Church, Crosshill, Glasgow, was packed to capacity this evening for the episcopal ordination of Bishop John Mone as Titular Bishop of Abercorn and Assistant Bishop to Archbishop Winning.

It was in this Church that Bishop Mone received his First Holy Communion, the Sacrament of Confirmation and celebrated his First Mass.

The ordaining prelate Archbishop Winning of Glasgow, was assisted by his auxiliary, Bishop Charles Renfrew, and Bishop Joseph Devine of Motherwell. They were joined in the sanctuary by other members of the Scottish Hierarchy, Bishop J. Hannigan of Menevia, and Monsignor Luigi Ventura who represented the Papal Pro-Nuncio.

Civic representatives were joined by representatives of the other Scottish Churches in what was a very joyful and memorable occasion.

Ellon Church—Golden Jubilee—Thursday, 24th May, 1984

On a lovely Spring evening a Mass of Thanksgiving was celebrated in Ellon, fifty years since the first post Reformation Mass. That Mass took place on 26th August 1934 in a small room in the Square. This was mainly due to the initiative of a young girl of 18 called Victoria Reid, a recent convert. This lady, now Mrs. Ingrams was present for the golden jubilee celebration which took place in the present chapel of ease (formerly a garage which belonged to the Reid family).

Present were Bishop Conti, Father Andrew Mann, parish priest, Father Basil Robinson from Pluscarden Abbey, who had planned the renovation and the Dean and priests of St. Columba's Deanery. The tiny church was filled to capacity (50 people). A supper was shared afterwards in the New Inn and thanks expressed for the goodwill and support of the local Churches' clergy and congregations.

SCIAF*Scottish Catholic
International Aid Fund43 Greenhill Road, Rutherglen,
Glasgow. G73 2SWTelephone: 041-647 2113/2986*

Scottish Catholics, through their agency SCIAF, have brought hope to the lives of people like these Andean Indians from Ecuador.

Through its development programmes covering all aspects of human life—from emergency relief to combating illiteracy, from medical provision to securing basic rights—SCIAF, with your help, is building a better world.

You can help further by forming a SCIAF group in your parish, adopting a project, raising funds for it and then spreading the word about why massive poverty still exists in 'he space age.

SCIAF—HELPING TO BUILD A BETTER WORLD

SCIAF is the official overseas agency of the Bishops, clergy and laity of Scotland. It exists to help the world's hungry, underprivileged and destitute. It hopes also to make the realities better known and to arouse a lively awareness of the obligations deriving from Christian charity and responsibility.

Registered Adoption Society

Over 60 years serving the Church in Scotland

PREGNANCY?

We offer a pregnancy counselling service, help (and accommodation when possible) to expectant mothers, whether adoption is indicated or not.

ADOPTION?

We recruit and assess couples or families for children with special needs; e.g. handicapped babies; school age children; sibling groups; etc. There is a special need for families for 10-13 year olds at present in care.

FOSTERING?

Some children need families prepared to offer them a permanent commitment but they are not free for adoption.

Anyone interested in helping children in the above categories please contact us for further information or discussion, without obligation.

BABIES

Our lists are only open occasionally for babies except for babies with special needs, so most enquirers have to be disappointed. It is not possible to know when the lists will re-open; regular written enquiry is the only possible option.

Are we doing too much for the Third World?

You might be surprised to see this question asked in our Annual Report if you think we only help in Eastern Europe.

In 1983 nearly 58% of our aid went to Third World countries including Angola, Chile, El Salvador, India, Iran, Nicaragua and Zimbabwe. In South Africa we gave 283 tons of clothes to the black population suffering under apartheid. All over the world we help refugees and those local churches which are in the worst need.
