John Paul II "I intend to entrust a special mandate to the Pontifical Mission Societies to keep Mission Awareness alive in the People of God."

Society for Propagation of the Faith

This Society provides each missionary bishop with a basic grant to run his diocese and special grants to build churches, schools and hospitals and pay his catechists and teachers.

Society of St. Peter, Apostle

This Society builds seminaries and novitiates in mission lands and subsidises the education of each student.

Society for Missionary Children

Through this Society our young mission aware people are encouraged to help children in need in the many hospitals, clinic, schools, nurseries and refugee camps administered by the Church in mission lands.

These three Societies cover every aspect of missionary life and provide an ideal source from which to 'Help the Missions'.

THE SUE RYDER FOUNDATION

Charity Registration No.: 222291

FOUNDER:
LADY RYDER
OF WARSAW
CMG, OBE

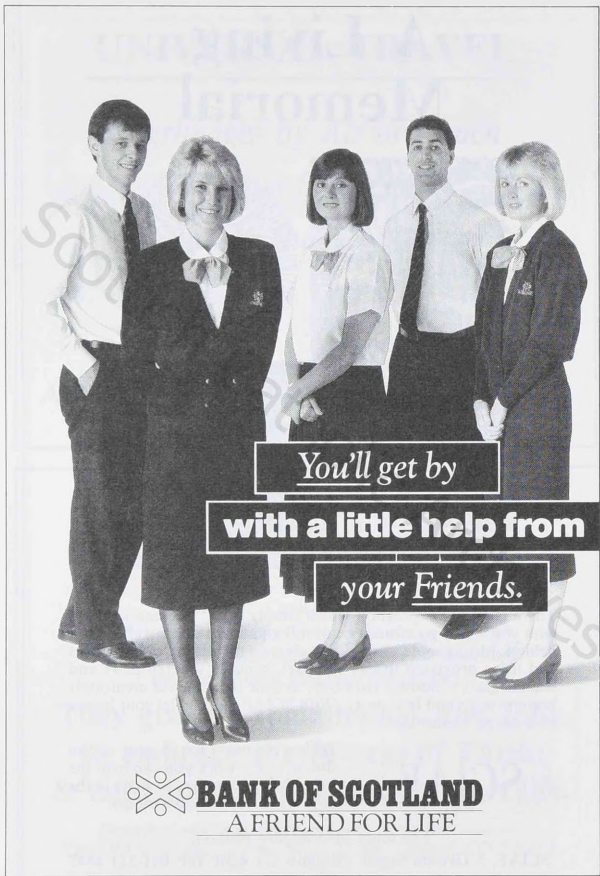

The Sue Ryder Foundation was established by Lady Ryder during the post-war years after she had been doing social relief work on the Continent. Its purpose was, and is, the relief of suffering on a wide scale by means of personal service to the sick and disabled everywhere, irrespective of race, religion or age, and thus serves as a Living Memorial of all those who suffered or died in the two World Wars and to those who undergo persecution or die in defence of human values today.

At present there are 24 Sue Ryder Homes in Britain already open or in the course of being established with many more, including medical terms, in countries overseas. In 1987, the first Home in Scotland was opened at Binny House, Ecclesmachan, West Lothian and a further one was opened at Marchmont, Greenlaw, Berwickshire in 1989. Hopefully, still more will be established. The patients cared for by the Foundation include those with cancer, both convalescent and terminal, those with Huntingtons Chorea, the physically handicapped, the elderly, and the mentally ill. Domiciliary visiting is also undertaken from some Homes. Help is desperately needed, whether by way of a legacy, deed of covenant or donation in finance or kind. Also, the Foundation will be pleased to advise companies whose employees wish to contribute via the Give As You Earn Scheme.

A FRIEND FOR LIFE

A Living Memorial

There is an old expression which simply says "you can't take it with you". Yet your money can still go on working for those left behind. Most people would like to leave a memorial to themselves and leave provision to pay for park benches, church pews and stained glass windows. However, as time passes these memorials become worn and fade away. With SCIAF you can let your legacy be a living memorial.

By leaving provision in your will to aid SCIAF's work you can help the living help themselves to share in the joys of this world as you do.

Registered Adoption Society

Over 60 years serving the Church in Scotland

PREGNANCY

We offer a pregnancy counselling service, to expectant mothers, whether adoption is indicated or not.

ADOPTION

We recruit and assess couples or families from within 50-60 miles radius of Edinburgh for children with special needs; e.g. handicapped children; school age children; sibling groups; etc.

FOSTERING

Some children need families prepared to offer them a permanent commitment but they are not free for adoption. There is a special need for families for 10-13 year olds at present in care

BABIES

Although we occasionally obtain referrals from other agencies for baby adopters, we are now considering recruitment only of two categories of families, one for children of pre-school age and the other for children of 5 years and older, many of whom have special needs.

COUNSELLING

We offer confidential counselling to adoptees, adoptive parents and birth parents.

THE CHURCH IN SCOTLAND

THE HIERARCHY OF SCOTLAND

I

FROM THE EXTINCTION OF THE HIERARCHY IN 1603 TO ITS RESTORATION IN 1878

The ancient hierarchy ended with the death of James Beaton, archbishop of Glasgow, at Paris on 24th April, 1603, aged 86.

On 13th October 1653 a Prefecture Apostolic for Scotland was established by the Congregation de Propaganda Fide.

PREFECTS APOSTOLIC

1. William Ballantine: born 1618; convert from presbyterianism; priest, Rome, 3rd December 1645; prefect, 13th October 1653; died Elgin, 2nd September 1661.

II

FROM THE RESTORATION OF THE HIERARCHY IN 1878
TO THE PRESENT DAY

The Apostolic Letter Ex supremo of Leo XIII, 4th March 1878, divided Scotland into the Province of St. Andrews and Edinburgh with a Metropolitan See and four Suffragan Sees of Aberdeen, Argyll and The Isles, Dunkeld, and Galloway; and the Archdiocese of Glasgow directly subject to the Holy See. The Apostolic Constitutions Maxime Interest and Dominici gregis of Pius XII, 25th May 1947, erected the Archdiocese of Glasgow into a Province, with a Metropolitan See and two Suffragan Sees of Motherwell and Paisley.

A pamphlet entitled Diocesan Map of Scotland, showing maps of each of the dioceses of Scotland, was published by The Mercat Cross in 1953.

THE PROVINCE OF
ST. ANDREWS AND EDINBURGH

The Province of St. Andrews and Edinburgh consists of the Archdiocese of St. Andrews and Edinburgh and the four Suffragan Sees of Aberdeen, Argyll and The Isles, Dunkeld, and Galloway.

ARCHDIOCESE OF ST. ANDREWS AND EDINBURGH

Comprising: the entire Lothian and Borders Regions; in Fife Region, the districts of Dunfermline (except the parish of High Valleyfield), Kirkcaldy, and North-East Fife south of the River Eden; in Central Region, Falkirk District and those parts of Stirling District situated in the geographical county of Stirlingshire; and, in Strathclyde Region, the Banton, Kilsyth and Queenzieburn areas of Cumbernauld and Kilsyth District, and the Lennoxton, Milton of Campsie and Torrance areas of Strathkelvin District.

*The bishops associated with Kinrimumd, St. Andrews, had assumed ecclesiastical primacy in Scotland from Dunkeld by the beginning of the tenth century. The last of the Celtic bishops died in 1093; the line of the medieval bishops began in 1109 but the Church and the bishopric were not securely established until 1144. The independence of the Scottish Church from the metropolitan claims of the archbishops of York was established by Celestine III with the Bull Cum universi, 13th March 1192. St. Andrews was erected a Metropolitan See by Sixtus IV, 14th August 1472. The See was vacant from the execution at Stirling on 6th April 1571 of John Hamilton (1547-1571) until the restoration of the hierarchy in 1878.*

8. Michael Foylan: born Shettleston, Lanarkshire, 29th June 1907; priest, Kinnoull, 5th July 1931; nominated bishop of Aberdeen, 8th December 1964, and consecrated at Aberdeen, 25th March 1965; died Aberdeen, 28th May 1976.
9. Mario Giuseppe Conti: born Elgin, Moray, 20th March 1934; priest, Rome, 26th October 1958; nominated bishop of Aberdeen, 28th February 1977, and ordained at Aberdeen, 3rd May 1977.

DIOCESE OF ARGYLL AND THE ISLES

Comprising: The Western Isles; in Strathclyde Region, the district of Argyll and Bute together with the Isle of Arran from Cunninghame District; in the Highland Region, the district of Skye and Lochalsh (except the mainland portion), and the areas of the districts of Lochaber, Inverness, and Badenoch and Strathspey lying south of a straight line drawn from the junction of the districts of Moray, Kincardine and Deeside, and Badenoch and Strathspey to the northern extremity of Loch Loyne.

Argyll was founded 1183 × 1189 by a division of the diocese of Dunkeld. It was located at Lismore c. 1225. It became a suffragan of St. Andrews in 1472 and of Glasgow in 1492. In 1553 James Hamilton was appointed bishop but he conformed to the reformed Church after 1560 and the See was vacant until the restoration of the hierarchy in 1878.

The See of The Isles was originally conjoined with Man (or Sodor). The medieval bishops from × 1079 recognised the metropolitan authority of York until 1153 when Rome made them subject to Trondheim, Norway, but this was only nominal after 1349. Man and The Isles were separated from 1387. The Isles became a suffragan of St. Andrews in 1472. It was vacant from the translation of Alexander Gordon (1553-1558) until the restoration of the hierarchy in 1878.

BISHOPS

1. Angus MacDonald: born Borrodale, Inverness-shire, 18th September 1844; priest, Ushaw, Co. Durham, 7th July 1872; nominated bishop of Argyll and The Isles, 22nd March 1878, and consecrated at Glasgow, 23rd May 1878; translated to St. Andrews and Edinburgh, 15th July 1892.

Comprising: the entire Tayside Region; in Fife Region, the district of North-East Fife north of the River Eden and the parish of High Valleyfield in the district of Dunfermline; and, in Central Region, Clackmannan District and those areas of Stirling District situated in the geographical county of Perthshire.

The See of Dunkeld existed before the ninth century and had become the administrative centre of the Scottish Church by 849. The See was revived by Alexander I and the line of medieval bishops runs from c1114xc1120. It became a suffragan of St. Andrews in 1472 and of Glasgow in 1492. The See became vacant during the episcopate of Robert Crichton (1547; deprived at the reformation but lived until 1585) and it remained so until the restoration of the hierarchy in 1878.

THE PROVINCE OF GLASGOW

The Province of Glasgow was erected in 1947 by the Apostolic Constitution Dominici gregis and consists of the Archdiocese of Glasgow and the two Suffragan Sees of Motherwell and Paisley.

ARCHDIOCESE OF GLASGOW

Comprising: in Strathclyde Region: the City of Glasgow District (except Garthamlock, Craighend, parts of Easterhouse; Baillieston, Cambuslang, Rutherglen and Burnside); Cumbernauld and Kilsyth District (except Banton, Kilsyth and Queenzieburn); the Baldernock, Bishopbriggs and Kirkintilloch areas of Strathkelvin District; Bearsden and Milngavie, Clydebank, and Dumbarton Districts; and the Thornliebank area of Eastwood District.

The episcopal church associated with St. Kentigern in the sixth century was in the Kingdom of Strathclyde. He built a church at Glasgow, and one at Hoddam, Dumfriesshire, where for a time he placed his See. The See of Glasgow was revived by Earl David (David I) c. 1114x1118. It was designated by Pope Alexander III "the special daughter of the Roman See", 30th April 1175, and confirmed in this honour, 30th July 1176. It became a suffragan of St. Andrews in 1472 but was itself erected a metropolitan See by Innocent VIII, 9th January 1492. The Bishops' Conference of Scotland is the permanently constituted assembly of the Bishops of Scotland. To promote its work the Conference establishes various agencies, the most important of which are termed Commissions. Priests other than bishops, religious and lay people are included in the membership of these agencies. The agencies have an advisory function in relation to the Conference; each, according to its remit, may also have an executive function; and, between meetings of the Conference, an agency may respond to an immediate problem by taking decisions or issuing a statement in its own name.

THE COMMISSIONS

It is the common function of all the Commissions to advise the Bishops' Conference and to promote development within the area of concern of the remit given to each. The Conference appoints a Bishop President and all members of each Commission. Members of secretariats, committees etc. which assist the work of a Commission are not necessarily members of the Commission itself.

Christian Doctrine and Unity

This Commission comprises a Doctrine Section and a Unity Section, the latter being an extension of the former and including other priests, religious and laity who have had wide experience in ecumenical affairs. The remit of the Commission includes Catholic Doctrine, Moral Theology and Canon Law; ecumenical relations with other Christian Churches and dialogue with those of other faiths and with unbelievers.

- President:* The Right Reverend Mario J. Conti, K.C.H.S., Ph.L., S.T.L., D.D., Bishop of Aberdeen.

*This ascription of ownership is intended merely to reflect how the title to the property may be taken in civil law and is entirely without prejudice to the rights of individual parishes in Canon Law. Cf. Canons 515 § 3, 1256 and 1284 § 2, n.2, of the Code of Canon Law. This list, introduced in the issue of 1988 as a preliminary list, has been expanded and amplified by the Scottish Catholic Heritage Commission, through its secretary and researcher, Dr. Mary McHugh. It has not yet been possible to identify the architects of some buildings. Individual architects or firms are designated as shown in the official list provided by the Scottish Development Department.

45th INTERNATIONAL EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS

Seville 7-13 June 1993

CONGRESS PRAYER

We give you thanks, Almighty Father, for revealing to us in Christ, the Light of Nations, the Mystery of our Salvation.

True Paschal Lamb, dying he destroyed our death, rising he restored our life.

As a memorial of his sacrifice for us he gave us the Sacrament of the Eucharist to be the food by which we share here on earth in the blessings of the world to come.

Pour out your Spirit, Lord, upon us as we proclaim and adore the presence of your Son in the Mystery of Faith so that we may spend our lives in generous solidarity with everyone.

Thus, being worshippers in spirit and in truth, we may be witnesses to the Gospel and imitators of Mary, Mother of Jesus and Servant in the work of salvation.

Through Christ Our Lord.

Breathe Easy club launched

TENS of thousands of people with chronic lung disorders risk dying prematurely because they are not given oxygen therapy, lung specialists said yesterday.

Launching a Breathe Easy club for sufferers, the British Lung Foundation said that about one million people in the UK live with bronchitis, emphysema, and other disabling breathing problems. Yet oxygen therapy is prescribed to only 5000.

BLF consultant lung specialist Dr John Moore-Gillon said that the treatment would improve the quality of life and life expectancy of about 50,000-60,000 patients.

Club president Trevor Clay, former general secretary of the Royal College of Nursing who retired early because of emphysema, called for more oxygen therapy to be available on the NHS.

He said that portable systems were needed to enable people to maintain a normal life rather than become housebound.

The club aims to offer support to patients, increase public awareness of the problems, and raise funds for research.

Blinkered faith

MR ALLAN STEWART's assertion, yesterday's official launch of Scottish Enterprise, that the new body (together with Highlands and Islands Enterprise, the parallel body launched by Lord Strathclyde in Inverness) would place Scotland in a unique position in the UK and give us a significant lead over our international competitors, does not stand up to even cursory scrutiny. While the Scottish Office has spent the best part of three years dismantling the admittedly imperfect Scottish Development Agency, Highland Board, and Training Agency structure and replacing it with a network of business-led local enterprise companies, our competition, in Wales, Ireland, and in continental Europe has driven its own existing economic development efforts forward.

While we have lost precious momentum as St Andrew's House sowed administrative disillusionment (reflected in the number

DEANERIES

Deaneries are structures whereby the Diocesan Bishop can exercise his ministry in a more effective way. They are therefore smaller areas allowing more localised pastoral and administrative action, in harmony with the diocesan vision and planning.

Deaneries are placed under the care of a dean who is to assist the Diocesan Bishop in his ministry. Each deanery also has a deanery coordinator who works with the dean and the deanery coordinating team at local level and the diocesan bishop and his pastoral team at the diocesan level. Deaneries therefore form an integral part of the diocesan structure.

PERSONAL PRELATURE OF THE HOLY CROSS AND OPUS DEI

Personal Prelatures are juridical structures of a secular character governed by a Prelate and erected by the Holy See to carry out specific pastoral or missionary activities. The general norms on personal Prelatures are contained in the Code of Canon Law—canons 294 to 297. Each has its own statutes approved by the Holy See. Opus Dei is a personal Prelature, international in its scope, which aims to spread throughout all sectors of society a deep awareness of the universal call to sanctity and apostolate in the fulfilment of one's ordinary profession or job. It is formed by a Prelate with his own clergy and by lay people, men and women, who in virtue of a divine vocation freely join the Prelature.

OBITUARIES 1989-90

Rev. John Kane, M.A.—21st December, 1989

Father Kane's unexpected death on 21st December, 1989, came as a great shock to his parishioners and friends. He had been parish priest in St. Sophia's, Galston, since 1984.

He was born on 21st October, 1921, and brought up in Stevenston, a town which was always dear to him. He took up teaching as his vocation in life, and after graduating M.A. from the University of Glasgow, he taught for a few years in St. Peter's, Ardrossan. It was during his short time of teaching, that he found that God was calling him to the priesthood. In answer to this call, he was soon on his way to the Scots College in Rome, where he studied from 1946 to 1952. As could be expected, he proved a willing and able student, and was ordained a priest in Rome on 15th July, 1951.

Coming back to Scotland, his first appointment in 1952 was as assistant priest in St. Joseph's, Kilmarnock, then the only church in that town. In the work of the parish, he found great scope to use his many and varied talents; one such was producing plays for the youth. In 1957, teaching again became his work when he was appointed a member of the staff at Blairs College, Aberdeen. Returning to parochial work again in 1962, he served as parish priest in Dalry, Maybole, Waterside, Auchinleck and finally in Galston.

Father Kane's great and lifelong interest was instruments in any shape or form. He was a great person with gadgets of every kind and had outstanding skill in lighting, sound, photography and most kinds of technology. He used his interest for the good of the Church, particularly in the Liturgy, for example his electric crib at Christmas and his waterfall or fountain at Easter. In a real sense, he made the church an interesting and surprising place to be, and at times filled it with a magic almost like Walt Disney's Magic Kingdom. He often delighted children and adults alike with his innovations.

Another great interest was the youth, and again he made his skills work for the good of the Church. He produced many musicals and plays in the parishes he served, and the young were always a willing cast. His 'Spanish Effects' in this area were often surprising. One thinks for example of the Apparition of Our Lady in the 'Miracle of Fatima'. One sat there and could almost feel Our Lady appear. Again his 'magic touch' was evident in all his productions. In an age when many complain that the Church and the Liturgy are boring, perhaps Father Kane's work in these areas could give the rest of us material for reflection.

Another great interest was his fellow priests, especially the sick and the retired. A quiet man in many respects, this subject brought out a certain passion in him.

*At the request of the diocesan authorities, the obituaries of those priests of the Archdiocese of St. Andrews and Edinburgh which were due for publication in this issue of the Directory have been held over. It is anticipated that the next issue will contain obituaries for those priests of the archdiocese who died between 1st November, 1989, and 31st October, 1990, viz.: Father Edward Quigley, Father Edward Gilchrist, Canon Christopher McAllister, Canon James Phelan, Canon Thomas Corcoran and Father Bernard Doonan, R.I.P.

Father Kane's re-ordering and decorating of St. Sophia's Church in Galston for its centenary is beautiful for the eye to behold. The beauty of the sanctuary with its decorative curtains is spoken of in admiration. Most people were heard saying that it was the nicest sanctuary they had ever seen.

Father Kane spent a happy evening before he died with some of his parishioners gathered round in the church listening to the very first recital on the new organ which had just been bought for the parish of St. Sophia's.

The Funeral Mass was attended by Bishop Taylor, Archbishop Winning, class-mates, a large number of priest friends, local ministers, the parishioners of Galston, Newmilns, Darvel and many others from past parishes.

A man conscious of his roots, Father Kane donated his chalice to his mother's native parish in Co. Derry. He is buried in his native Stevenston, and is survived by his twin sister, Mary.

May God grant him eternal rest. Who knows, perhaps some of his skills are already being used in Paradise.

Rev. Alex Johnston—13th February, 1990

Alex Johnston's parents came from Co. Antrim, and he was their only child, born in Rutherglen on 18th July 1923. (Like most folk from the former Royal Burgh, he always referred to it as Ru'glen.) He began his school life in Co. Antrim, going to Lochdee School in Glenarm just before his fifth birthday, but six months later he returned to Rutherglen where he went to St. Columbkille's Primary School.

The family grip on its religion was very strong, with Mass and family Rosary the norm. Alex became a Mass server and, living round the corner from St. Columbkille's church, he was in constant demand to serve weekday Masses. The Rutherglen parish at that time took in a great part of King's Park, and it was the custom in parishes in those days to have the District Collection every Sunday. Alex's father was the King's Park collector, and faithfully over the years went round that area, nearly always taking his young, and sometimes not so keen, son with him.

In due course, Alex left Primary School and went to Our Lady's High in Motherwell. After three years there, to nobody's surprise, he applied to study for the priesthood, and he went to Blairs College, Aberdeen, in August 1938. He left Blairs to go to the Archdiocesan Seminary, St. Peter's, Bearsden, in 1943. When dry rot was discovered in the college buildings and extensive repairs were needed, staff and students were transferred to Mill Hill, London, for one year. In May, 1946, as the students were looking forward to returning to their refurbished college in the autumn, came the news that the college had gone on fire and was completely destroyed, except for the adjoining chapel.

But the students still came home from London. The archdiocese was able to buy Darleith House, Cardross, near Dumbarton. There, Alex (by now the Senior Student) and the other seminarians had to settle down to a régime that was definitely pioneering in reality as well as in spirit. The development of Cardross as the Archdiocesan Seminary is another story, and didn't concern Alex after the first year there.

He was ordained a priest by Archbishop Campbell in St. Andrew's Cathedral on 31st May 1947. His seminary course had still one month to run, and he often said he wondered how many nowadays would put up with the strict rules that allowed the newly-ordained to go home for three days after their ordination to say First Masses and rejoice with their families, but had them return to college every night by 10 o'clock, all the way from Rutherglen (and further afield) to Cardross, and on to Darleith.

Fr. Alex's first appointment was to Our Holy Redeemer's parish, Clydebank, and he was there from July 1947 to May 1949. After two years in Clydebank he went to St. Anne's, Dennistoun. Shortly afterwards, his district became the new parish of St. Nicholas, with Fr. (later Bishop) Hart the new P.P. and Fr. Alex the first curate. He was to remain in St. Nicholas's parish for eight years, until 1957 when he was transferred to Our Lady of Lourdes parish, Cardonald. He was to stay in Cardonald for the next thirteen years, with its busy hospitals, homes, and schools.

It was in Cardonald that he began to suffer the downward trend in his health that was to cause him and his friends great concern.

In 1970 he went to pastures new, to St. Augustine's, Milton. Two years later, he went "on loan" to Dunkeld, where his former Parish Priest was now Bishop Hart of Dunkeld diocese. After a year or so in St. Clare's, Dunblane, he moved to Our Lady of Good Counsel, Broughty Ferry, where he spent four years. In 1979, he returned to Glasgow, to St. Teresa's parish, Possilpark. While there, he gladly undertook writing the history of the 50 year old parish for its Jubilee.

In 1984, his health necessitated specialist treatment, and for this he had to leave Glasgow for Ireland. After his death, it was revealed that while in Ireland he suffered a severe heart attack, but this he kept to himself.

His stay in Ireland helped him enormously, and he was able to return to Glasgow in May 1987, taking up residence in Our Lady of the Assumption, Ruchill. Two years later, in April 1989, he was on the move again (this time his last), going to the parish of St. Catherine Labouré, Balornock.

From the very beginning of his priestly life, Fr. Alex achieved a reputation as a preacher, a reputation he maintained throughout his life. This reputation was brought about by careful thought with, if at all possible, his thoughts committed to paper in his neat, careful script. He was also an able guide to parish groups, the young, the Legion of Mary, the individual—all got the same careful preparation. His advice was ever sought, ever given, ever appreciated.

Fr. Alex was cheerful and generous by nature and he had the ability, wherever he was, of making new friends and keeping old ones.

There was always a trace of Co. Antrim in his accent, but he was blessed with a happy gift of mimicry, that gave him the ability to come out with any Irish accent: his Donegal accent, or Dublin, or Belfast, or Cork, or Kerry—all so different and yet imitated so perfectly. Besides his gift of mimicry, he was a talented musician, who often entertained himself and others by playing the violin and melodeon, accordion and mouthorgan. He would often take these instruments with him on his visits to Ireland, and many a ceili got under way when word spread, "Fr. Alex's home".

Many knew the easy charm and genuine warmth he had for people. An extrovert, he could come into a hall where people were quietly chatting, stride down the hall singing some cheery, daft ditty and in no time change the atmosphere to a noisy, laughing, bustling crowd enjoying itself.

He had a great fund of stories, covering all the periods of his life. And they were his stories alone, as many a man found out that to repeat Alex's stories somehow didn't have the same punchiness.

He was now keeping so well, healthwise, that the bishops asked him to take on a couple of little, extra jobs. One was to visit retired priests regularly, knowing they would relish his company. He had started this, to him, enjoyable task and was getting into his stride when death intervened. The second little job was to help the local secondary school chaplain for a year while he was at college. He entered into that situation with the same enthusiasm, making a cheery and memorable impression on the school.

Perhaps one event might sum up his nature. An office party was arranged in the new Archdiocesan Offices (it was Christmas or that time of year), and he was persuaded to "gatecrash" the party as a down-and-out, to bring his accordion and to sing "The Sash" for the bishop. He was killing himself with laughter as he made up his lines and put on his make-up. And gatecrash he did. Many were completely taken in, to the extent of wanting the doorman to send for the police! When, however, word of this somehow got into a daily newspaper, a lot of people were displeased but not Alex. He had photocopies made of the story and sent them to his friends.

He was invited by his Irish relatives to perform a family marriage in February. He decided to make a winter break of the occasion and do a minitour of his beloved Ireland, ending with the wedding. Three days after he left Balornock, he died of a heart attack in Youghal, Co. Cork.

His funeral was held on the day he should have been performing the wedding in Northern Ireland. The day, 17th February, was a really wet day, pouring from the heavens. This didn't stop people coming from everywhere to honour the man they knew and loved. Priests from all over Scotland were there, led by the two Glasgow bishops, Archbishop Winning and Bishop Renfrew. One lady, to satisfy her curiosity, went up to the choir to count the number of priests, and found there were one hundred and twenty. A great tribute to Fr. Alex. At the graveside the rain poured faster than ever, and it was very easy to imagine Alex, with a huge smile on his face, insisting on turning the largest tap himself! May he happily rest in peace.

Rev. James J. Fitzgerald—24th February, 1990

'Low mileage' would not have appeared in his application for Glasgow diocese after fourteen years in the army as Chaplain and wanderings that took him as far away as India and the Middle East. He'd have run the life out of at least half a dozen "Beetles" by the time he arrived here in Glasgow but he was still, to all who knew him at the time, in perfect working condition.

James Joseph Fitzgerald was born the elder of a family of two boys in Dromahair, Co. Leitrim, Ireland on 17th February 1917. He attended the local National school but his secondary education was with the Irish Christian Brothers in Dublin. He joined the Order of St. Camillus and was in their scholasticate in Tournai (Belgium) when he received the sub-diaconate in July 1939. Because of World War II he returned to Ireland and was ordained priest in Cavan Cathedral on 9th June 1940.

He became a U.K. army chaplain in 1944 and his first posting was with the Royal Engineers in Halifax before he was sent out to India—to the base camp at Poonah. He left India on Independence in 1947 and returned to Hampshire before being posted to Egypt as chaplain to a group of Mauritians. He spent three years there, during which time he became known as the "Flying Chaplain" because of the fact that he spent week about with the Mauritians and the Irish Fusiliers, who were based at Aquaba, flying back and forward between the two. He returned to England in 1951 and spent two years on the South Coast before being sent to Germany where he was stationed near Minden with the Sixth Armoured Division. When he went to the garrison he found they had no church so he set about providing one. The army erected a Romney hut which served as a church for many years. In 1982 Fr. Jim (or Fitz as his friends knew him) was delighted to return to Minden to take part in the Silver Jubilee of the church he had helped to build.

After Germany he was posted to Cyprus where he spent three years from 1956-59. Shortly after he returned from Cyprus to the UK, he sought admission to the Archdiocese of Glasgow and was accepted by Archbishop Campbell who appointed him curate to St. Paul's Shettleston in January 1959.

It is a far cry from India and the Middle East and the sun-drenched beaches of Cyprus to the murky east end of Glasgow, to the Shettleston of those days well within the fall-out zone of Parkhead Forge and the Clyde Iron Works at Carmyle. But he settled quickly and was excited about the post-war developments that were beginning to gather speed. The new Coia-built church had been completed a few years earlier and now Fr. Fitz set about the task of transforming the old church into a good-going parish hall. He was good at getting people to work for him. It was almost a divine imperative with him to make people use whatever talents they had. Soon the new hall was provided with a new floor, a new stage and a fully-equipped kitchen, all done with voluntary labour. He was a bit of a D.I.Y. man himself and had a penchant for gadgets and tools of all kinds. "I haven't got the tools, Father" could never be used as an excuse by anyone he asked to do a job. The annual garden fête was greatly enhanced by the many 'fun things' he procured or had made. This was his first venture into routine parish work, which he did conscientiously and well. An early initiative of his was to establish a Lourdes Fund whose purpose was to provide the financial means necessary to send sick pilgrims to Lourdes each year. After twenty-five years the fund is still in operation—over ninety people have benefited from it.

He was in St. Paul's when Vatican Council II ended and the priests of his generation were faced with the task of implementing its decrees. He took wholeheartedly to the changes in the liturgy which were the Council's first priority. People remarked on what an encouragement it was to them to see three young priests working so well together over the new changes. St. Paul's got off to a good start.

Fr. Fitz was always a keen photographer and he made extensive use of slides for educational purposes. He was always convinced of the importance of audio/visual aids in the educational process and in various promotions. He quickly procured a video camera when they first came on the market in the early 60's. With this he made extensive coverage of the work and formation of priests in the diocese. He showed the films in many schools and colleges on behalf of the Diocesan Vocations Committee, of which he was a founding member. The film projector he used was a personal gift from Archbishop Scanlan. He celebrated the Silver Jubilee of his ordination in St. Paul's and shortly after that he was transferred to St. Gabriel's, Merrylee, where he served for one year. He was then appointed Chaplain to the Marist Brothers Hostel in Dowanhill, Glasgow. This gave him more time to concentrate on his audio/visual work which now operated from a staffed centre at Notre Dame Convent, Dowanhill. But in 1974 he was back in the army again, this time at the request of the Chaplain's Department to be Catholic Chaplain to the forces schools in Gütersloh. He enjoyed Germany and life on his own in a little flat in the town. 'Vorsprung durch technik' impressed him no end. Everything here contrasted miserably with the German way of doing things. But he upheld abroad his Celtic traditions and culture and his renditions in song, dance and recitations were much appreciated by his German hosts, especially his Irish dance routines which remained his favourite party piece. He played the fiddle after a fashion, but his home-made soda bread went down better.

After his third term of three years he was asked by Archbishop Winning to consider coming back to Glasgow or, if it could be arranged, to another Scottish diocese where perhaps a parish might be offered him. He was interviewed by Bishop Logan and in 1983 was accepted for the diocese of Dunkeld. He spent a year at St. Andrew's Cathedral, Dundee, and was then appointed Parish Priest of St. Fillan's, Crieff. His journeyings would come to an end there. He couldn't believe his good fortune in landing in a place like this. For years he wouldn't take a holiday, not only to save parish expense, but in case he might appear unappreciative of such an appointment. He recaptured to an extent the enthusiasm of his curate days. He grew potatoes and sold them for S.C.I.A.F., initiated an annual garden fête, renovated the parish hall and enhanced the church entrance with a beautiful matching stone porch, as well as wood-panelling the reredos of St. Margaret's Church in Comrie. He was extremely happy with the way the parishioners rallied round this latest incomer to the diocese. The church was open all day, every day, and his house too. He was a compulsive gatherer and hoarder, no amount of persuasion could make him see that there was neither need nor room for the latest article that took his fancy. Yet he was never possessed by money or possessions. The poor or those who could use them had easy access to both. The best testimony to his time and work in Crieff was shown in the circumstances of his last illness and death. It had been arranged by Bishop Logan that he would celebrate his priestly Golden Jubilee on 9th June 1990 and thereafter retire to live with his brother Eugene and wife Finnula in Dublin. But long before that his health took a dramatic down-turn and sometime in late January it was decided that the jubilee celebrations be brought forward to 25th February.

He continued to protest his fitness and kept laying down what was to be packed for Dublin and what left behind. But it was becoming clear to all that this journey was not going to end in Dublin's fair city but in a far fairer one. By this time he was in a room downstairs in the chapel house and tended day and night by a faithful band of good parishioners who wouldn't hear of him being sent to hospital. Bishop Logan administered the sacraments and impressed everyone with his deep concern for his sick priest. He was visited by Archbishop Winning and some priest friends from Glasgow and then on 24th February he died peacefully.

"Imagine being able to end my days in a place like this", he once said in the early days of his illness. Not only would he end his days here but here, too, he would be laid to rest. From his room upstairs, the day after his death one could see the Crieff cemetery and the diggers turning over the first sods of his grave. The money gathered for his jubilee presentation will be used to erect a headstone.

At the main funeral Mass in St. John's, Perth, there was a full congregation of people from Crieff and Comrie and from various parishes in Glasgow that he served in. Bishop Logan presided at the concelebrated Mass and delivered the homily. Archbishop Winning took part along with a large number of priests from Dunkeld and Glasgow Diocese. On the way back to Crieff for the interment, snow began to fall and by the time the coffin had been lowered and the final prayers said there was quite a white covering on the ground. A gentleman representing the British Legion stepped forward and stood to attention for a moment or two, then slowly listed the places where Fr. Jim had served with the forces and delivered solemnly the verse that begins—

"They shall not grow old, as we who are left grow old,
Age shall not weary them or the years condemn.
At the going down of the sun and in the morning
we will remember them."

He will be remembered by those who knew him for many and various reasons. He had weaknesses like all of us, some of them very obvious. He could be stubborn and at times found it difficult to forgive and to forget. And yet he proved to be an extraordinarily faithful friend to those who needed support at a time of crisis. He asked very little for himself, cared nothing about rank or human esteem. He was a 'doer' for the church and the people and it was this simple interest in doing things for the church, however inconsequential, that turned many a life, and many a young life, towards God and encouraged all of us to be ever concerned about the Father's business.

May he rest in peace.

Rev. Patrick Kilcoyne—7th March, 1990

Father Patrick Kilcoyne, of St. James', Coatbridge, died at East Kilbride on 7 March, 1990 in his 60th year and in the 35th year of his priesthood.

At the Funeral Mass in St. James', Coatbridge, the following homily was given by Bishop Joseph Devine, Bishop of Motherwell.

The life and death of each of us has its influence on the other. So says St. Paul. It requires no penetratingly deep theological insight to see the truth of that statement. Instead, to see its truth, requires but experience and observation. But theological insight is required for the statement which follows. "Whether we live or die, we belong to the Lord". In those words we see a clear recognition of God as creator and master of all. And it is against that truth that we live our lives, either by verifying it or denying it.

Patrick Kilcoyne had the great good fortune of being born into a family for whom the centrality of God in life was of critical importance. Their family home was in the rural delights of the west of Ireland, Gurteen, Ballymote in County Sligo. Yet it was not there that he was born. Patrick Emmet Kilcoyne was born in fact in Glasgow where his father was in medical practice at the time. And that time was the 10th September, 1930. But if the family had strong vocational leanings to medicine, that was not the only vocational strength which they harboured. By the time Patrick was ending his secondary school formation, at Naas in County Kildare, his uncle Anthony was already in Scotland as a priest in the Archdiocese of Glasgow. When Patrick followed him there in 1955, after ordination to the priesthood in All Hallows, it was to the Diocese of Motherwell which had been established some 8 years earlier.

His first appointment here was to prove a lengthy and happy one. It was to the large parish on Hamilton's hilly and southern flank of Our Lady and St. Anne's, in Cadzow. He spent 10 years there. His memories of those early years laced his conversation in later times, a sure sign of what many priests come to discover—that the first appointment is often the most memorable. The following decade, 1965-75, was to be evenly divided between two adjoining parishes, the old one of Carfin and the relatively new one then of St. Teresa's, Newarthill. Then, in 1975, it was off to Biggar.

I suppose, on reflection, that his happiest days in the priesthood were to be spent in the rural communities of Biggar and Forth. Accents apart, they must have reminded him of home and earlier times. The rhythm of life of two very disparate country communities was much suited to his temperament and his charisms. And Patrick Kilcoyne was a gifted person. He was diffident rather than shy, accomplished in aesthetic rather than practical skills. Therefore, he could move with ease and be at ease in circles and groups which would be stressful for the majority of priests. His interest in music and the arts opened doors to him, many of them ecumenical doors, through which many a dedicated priest has never passed. Like his Uncle Anthony he had a love of literature and reading. All of that rich mixture made him a distinctive man among the clergy. But, above all, Patrick Kilcoyne was kind, with a graciousness which was as natural to him as the air he breathed. I never heard him utter an unkind word about anyone or anything. It was not in his nature to be other than gentle. Ambition was as foreign to him as incivility. Ordinary people sensed that instinctively. Somehow he was among them but different from them, an embodiment of a kind of living which has almost disappeared and we are the poorer for it.

But the quiet years in Biggar had to come to an end as they did for him some 8 years ago. Then it was back to the much more busy world of North Lanarkshire. After a fairly short time in Viewpark he came here to St. James' six years ago. And it is with the community here that I will think of him in the years to come, for it was here in Coatbridge, with Fr. White and Fr. Kelly,

Fr. Brady and Fr. Briody, that I came to know him. He was senior to most of them in age, but that was not particularly bothersome to him. He accepted his rôle as a priest and sought to be the best priest he could. In that ministry he had always been blessed with good health. He had taken it for granted, for he had no reason to doubt it. Not until a week ago that is. Even then, what began to develop did not appear to be of any real cause for alarm. A chill with a disinclination for food. When I last saw him some two months ago he had seen Fr. Briody go through much the same as a victim of the severe 'flu which has taken such a toll of the elderly over these last months. So there was nothing to worry about. However, he did not seem to be make any response to the traditional methods of combating a 'flu over the weekend. By Monday, with his condition beginning to worsen, the priests of the house began to be alarmed. That concern deepened as the hours passed. When medical attention arrived Fr. Kelly and Fr. Briody were not surprised by Fr. Kilcoyne's immediate transfer to Hairmyres Hospital in East Kilbride. And it was there, almost exactly 24 hours later, that he died, at around 9 p.m. on Tuesday, 7th March. A stunned community here was to receive that news on Wednesday morning. The sense of shock is with us still.

This has been a sad return to Scotland for his family and friends from home in Ireland and England. Each of us has had to make that kind of a journey as the family circle shrinks and we return to God the souls of those whom we loved in life and who have loved us. But, in faith, we are given a great hope, for the sadness of this day is graced with immortality. Life is changed, not ended. When the body of our earthly dwelling lies in death we gain an everlasting dwelling place in heaven. That is the hope. But it is much more than a hope. It is the guarantee for all who have proved themselves to be the Lord's good and faithful servants. Therefore, there is no room for idle speculation about what our brother Patrick seeks from us. It is abidingly clear—that we pray that he may have been found to have been such a one, in life and in death.

To his family I convey my thanks for his life and ministry in the Diocese as well as my deepest sympathies on behalf of the Diocese. To his closest friends, my appreciation for your support and goodness to him. We shall miss him, but in the perspective of faith, only for a while. For I am certain of this, that nothing shall separate us from the love of God made manifest in Jesus Christ. In that love and in its reflection in our lives is our passport to the eternity in which there will be no sadness of tears or death ever again. For that were we born, through that power do we live, for that reality do we die. The spirit of the Lord was given to Patrick Kilcoyne. It anointed him in holy orders to bring the good news to the poor, to give the blind new sight and to proclaim the Lord's year of favour. He sought to do so by the gracious words which came from his lips. May he win, not our approval, for that is unimportant now, but the Lord's approval, in the everlasting joy of heaven. Eternal rest grant unto him O Lord, and let perpetual light shine upon him. May he rest in peace. Amen.

Bishop of Argyll and The Isles—24th March, 1990

The death of Bishop Colin MacPherson after a comparatively short illness was an immense shock to the clergy and laity of the Diocese of Argyll and The Isles. He was greatly loved by everyone in his diocese, and indeed by all who knew him, for he was a man of great gentleness, kindness, compassion and humility, qualities which were the fruits of a deep underlying spirituality.

On the day of his ordination, 50 years and a day before he died, he heard the ordaining prelate remind him that in all things he should strive to be an alter Christus, and his whole character was moulded on this ideal.

It was only last July that his mother, a saintly woman, died in her ninety-sixth year. Those who knew his parents did not have to look far for the source of his spirituality, which was homespun and based on a deep love and reverence for God.

Colin MacPherson was born in Lochboisdale, South Uist, on 5th August, 1917, towards the end of the First World War. He grew to boyhood in a Hebridean world of material hardship and, though the son of a schoolmaster, was conscious of the financial difficulties of the crofting communities which led to the emigration to Canada of so many of the South Uist people in 1923.

When he completed primary school at Daliburgh, he continued his secondary school studies at St. Mary's College, Blairs, Aberdeen. From there he went to the Propaganda College in Rome to read his major Studies in philosophy and theology. He proved himself a brilliant student, gaining a licentiate in Sacred Theology, and there is little doubt that he would have had a successful postgraduate career if the war had not interrupted his studies. He was ordained a priest in Rome on 23rd March, 1940, and returned home before the hostilities worsened.

He served for three years as chaplain to the Carmelite Convent in Oban, and was appointed to his first parish in Knoydart in 1943, where he remained for eight years. It was during this time that the case of the "Seven Men of Knoydart" caught the headlines of the national press and the support of many people throughout Scotland. The young priest decided that the 50,000-acre estate owned by the late Lord Brocket could be developed to accommodate 40 family holdings and, in 1946, submitted to the Department of Agriculture what later came to be known as "The Father MacPherson Scheme."

Two years later, he acted as unofficial public relations man to the seven men who had staked out a token claim to about 65 acres of land near Inverie. He put forward his proposals at a Land Court held in Mallaig in 1948 at the request of the Scottish Secretary, Arthur Woodburn. Eventually the decision of the presiding chairman, John Cameron—that the estate should be developed as a single unit, including a limited amount of forestry—was accepted by the Scottish Secretary.

Although his scheme came to nothing at the time, Father MacPherson's presentation of the case for small-scale agricultural development in the Highlands was a "fiery cross" that went out into the rural communities, who saw his efforts as an attempt, in some small way, to redress the effects of the iniquitous Highland Clearances of former years.

He was appointed parish priest of St. Michael's, Eriskay, from 1951 to 1956, and then served in St. Mary's, Benbecula for 10 years, from 1956 to 1966. Here again, he made great efforts on behalf of his people, and encouraged them to supplement their croft income by investing in more poultry and opening the egg-grading station at Lochboisdale. During this period, he became a prominent county councillor and fought successfully for improvement in housing, electricity services, education and communications. He was parish priest at St. Mary's, Fort William, from 1966 to 1968, when, in December, he was nominated Bishop of Argyll and The Isles. He was consecrated bishop in St. Columba's Cathedral, Oban, on 6th February following, and was the first Gaelic-speaking island bishop since the Reformation.

Father MacPherson was a most popular choice as bishop among the clergy and laity alike, and he knew that he had their confidence and goodwill in his new office. They were not unaware of the spiritual and intellectual calibre of the man who had been given to them as shepherd of the flock, and it was to become a happy and fruitful pastoral relationship.

He set out with a will to carry on the work of his predecessors of renovating and maintaining churches and other diocesan properties which suffer so much from the vagaries of the West Highland weather. Because of the shift in numbers from some of the rural areas, he had the difficult and sad decision to make of closing down and disposing of buildings that had served the diocese and the people so well for many years. Poignantly, among these were the church and presbytery at Knoydart. He must have wondered that, if his scheme had been accepted in 1948, it was just possible that Inverie today would have been a much more thriving community. However, he had the satisfaction of opening small churches on Mull and Arran, and he had also the joy of seeing the plans completed for a beautiful modern church for Stornoway, which was due to be started some time in 1990.

During the post-Vatican Council years, he guided his people gently by encouraging them to develop their spirituality in the time-tested ways and to follow closely the concepts of the Council as sure principles to ever-closer unity with Christ and with one another.

He worked assiduously at his desk for long hours to ensure that the administration of his diocese ran smoothly and efficiently. Because of the vast area which his diocese covers, he had an immense amount of travelling to do to keep in regular contact with his parishes. His light could often be seen burning into the night as he caught up with the day's work after returning from a long journey attending to pastoral affairs.

His interests were not limited to the diocese, as he was asked by the Scottish hierarchy to be their representative on the Central Religious Advisory Committee of the B.B.C. and I.T.A., and also on the Episcopal Conference of the European Community, a responsibility that took him often to meetings in Brussels.

As the golden jubilee of his ordination to the priesthood approached, he had the time on his sick bed to reflect on his life. He would often say that there was so much more that he could have done for God.

This is not an uncommon reaction of many good men and women at a mature stage in their lives, who, after a lifetime of service, still feel that there was much more they could have done. It was true also of St. Vincent de Paul who had given his life in the service of the poor. When asked by the Queen of France, "Monsieur Vincent, what more could you have done?", he simply replied, "Madam, more".

The Requiem Mass took place on March 29th in St. Columba's Cathedral, Oban, which was filled to capacity with clergy and laity from the diocese and from all over the country. The Holy Father was represented by the Apostolic Pro-Nuncio, Archbishop Luigi Barbarito. Cardinal Gordon Gray and all the members of the Scottish Hierarchy were present, except Bishop Taylor who was abroad at the time, as also were the abbots of the principal religious orders in Scotland, seventy clergy, and representatives from other denominations including the Right Rev. George Henderson, Primus of the Episcopal Church.

Cardinal Gray had been ill earlier in the week, but nothing would deter him from being present at the obsequies for his very dear friend and colleague. Because of his illness, the Cardinal was unable to deliver the homily which he had prepared, and this was read on his behalf by Bishop McGill. The principal concelebrant of the mass was the Metropolitan, Archbishop Keith O'Brien.

The liturgy was particularly beautiful, as it was a blend of Gaelic, Latin and English, which gave a true Highland simplicity and dignity to the ceremony. On the coffin lay the pastoral staff, presented by the people of Arisaig to their former parish priest, Right Rev. Angus MacDonald, who was the first bishop of the diocese after the restoration of the hierarchy in 1878. On an occasion such as this, the Cathedral is truly the Mother Church, for it seemed to take everyone within its embrace and comfort them in their grief.

Bishop MacPherson was laid to rest in Pennyfuir Cemetery, Oban, beside a former bishop of the diocese, Right Rev. Donald Martin, who had been responsible for building the present St. Columba's Cathedral. May he rest in peace.

Very Rev. Hugh Canon Cahill, D.D.—11th April, 1990

Canon Hugh Cahill, retired Parish Priest of St. Mary's, Hamilton died at Airdrie on 11th April, 1990, aged 84 years in the 59th year of his priesthood.

At the Funeral Mass in St. Mary's, Hamilton the following homily was given by Bishop Joseph Devine, Bishop of Motherwell.

Nearly thirty years ago, as a young priest half-way through a postgraduate course in Rome, I sat beside a man whom I had never met before, a man over 30 years my senior. We were an unlikely pairing that day, in late June of 1963, external examiners of the philosophy students in Cardross. The senior partner of the team was, of course, Canon Hugh. Then over 50, he must have seemed to me to be positively ancient, for that is how the eyes of the young perceive those who have crossed the barrier of the big 50. Clearer still is my memory of his text book approach, delivered laconically, even impersonally. I suppose he must have found my more flamboyant style puzzling. I know he did. He did not have to tell me. An arched eyebrow spoke volumes. He was entitled to the arch, for he had much more right to be in the examiner's chair than I at that point, in the light of who he was and what he had done.

Hugh Cahill was born on 13th July, a close shave there, 1905 in Rutherglen. A great gift from God was the family solidity of exemplary parents. Time and again, in that era, that was the background from which vocations sprang. It remains true to this day, despite the less obvious cohesion of family life. So, it was no great surprise to anyone to see Hugh Cahill take the first step towards the priesthood by leaving St. Aloysius and entering Blairs College. A similar path was to be followed by his younger brother Thomas. Then it was off to Rome and the old Scots College in the city centre from which he was ordained to the priesthood for the Archdiocese of Glasgow, 28th February 1931. Successful final examinations in the summer of that year brought him his Doctorate in Divinity. On returning home a surprising turn of events overtook him. Due to temporary shortage in the Diocese of Dunkeld, his first appointment was to Sts. Peter and Paul in the city of Dundee. He retained an affection for that city, quixotically always placing the emphasis on the first syllable in his pronunciation of the word. He remained there for 3 years. Then came a long sojourn of 17 years, perhaps best summarised in the phrase of dungeon, fire and sword. For he went to the Old College at Bearsden, fondly or perhaps not, referred to as the 'Den, right through the sword of war in 39-45, and beyond the fire of 1946. But he was not there except in a moral sense as a staff member of the college, for he was by then in Blairs again with the philosophy students. He returned to the unified St. Peter's in the late 40's in its new setting at Darleith and Kilmahew in Cardross. Liberation came from the academic world to the pastoral life in 1951 as an assistant priest in St. Brigid's, Baillieston for a year. In 1952 he moved to Newmains as Parish Priest. 5 years later he was to be found in All Saints, Coatdyke. At the end of 1961 he was transferred to New Stevenston and remained there for exactly a decade. I suspect that when he came here just over 18 years ago he would have known that this was to be his final appointment, becoming almost to the very day, this day, 18 years ago, a member of the Cathedral Chapter. He must have found it agreeable here. The old town, the old parish, the tradition and style of the community, all of these would have been to his taste. The walled garden and the semi-monastic appearance of the place must have given him the sense of permanence and solidity, like an image of the Church universal. But then came the turmoil of the late 60's and the upheavals, liturgically, theologically and morally, of the 70's. It was no longer his kind of era in terms of attitudes, no longer so familiar a church in terms of vision and outlook.

Apart from that brief encounter in the June of 1963, Canon Hugh Cahill was really only a name to me until I came to the Diocese in 1983. Quite soon that was to change substantially. Early in 1984 I came here to see him with a problem. The problem was that Fr. Alex Devanny, upon whom he had come to rely over the years and for whom he had a high regard, was due to become a parish priest. The Canon was very well aware of that fact. I raised with him the possibility that the most constructive solution would be that he should stay on here in retirement and Alex become the Parish Priest of St. Mary's. The Canon could not have made it easier if he had tried. He looked at me for about 10 seconds and then said, "Give me a pen and I'll sign on the dotted line". The whole interview scarcely lasted a quarter of an hour.

Whatever else may have been the case, Canon Hugh Cahill always thought along straight lines. In that he was utterly consistent in life. For him grey areas were a kind of aberration. Reality was either black or white. He never found the mysteries of the truths of faith to be a problem, baffled by those of the Catholic community who did. What he did find troublesome was a rational problem which was reluctant to yield up its truth. Fr. Jim Foley gave me a splendid example of that in a recent chat he had with the Canon when he visited him in hospital a few weeks ago. The Canon told him that he had wrestled with a puzzle since 1930. And the problem? Could someone have formal certitude about something which was objectively erroneous? Well, he will have the answer now. Most people would not have bothered to inquire. Even more would not have understood the question.

I tell that story to illustrate the mind of a man troubled by the easy and quick assumptions, theological and moral, of a world which had lost or was losing its direction, a world defective in ethical consistency and increasingly detached from religious commitment. Such inconsistency and lack of commitment were completely foreign to Hugh Cahill. That is what leads me to the deep paradox which was his deeper truth. Publicly, in a pulpit, he was as different as could be imagined from the confessor in the confessional or the counsellor in the call room. It was as if there were two different people. In a pulpit he was forthright. In saying that, I somewhat understate the case. But in the arena of the one to one, his was a great apostolate. He knew human weakness and fallibility, not least from his own reflections upon himself. Those who encountered him in that private arena were much graced and much blessed.

I have scarcely done justice to a long life lived against the backdrop of two world wars, the depression of the 20's and 30's, the slow recovery of the 50's. But much the greater part of the Canon's life, in his formation and priestly ministry was in an era of the greatest stability which the Church had known here since the Reformation. It was that experience of internal stability which gave the Canon a delight in order, an ordered mind, an ordered community, an ordered Church. But the whole history of the Church shows us a different picture, turmoil to peace, weakness to greatness, dying to rise again. Each of us has to endure that pattern of dying to rise again, every day, and then at the last, as did Jesus before us. That has been the whole thrust of our readings today. To the best of his ability he sought to be the Lord's dutiful servant. To the best of ours we commend him to the Lord of all, the all merciful Father. AMEN.

May he rest in peace.

Rev. Thomas Corless—11th May, 1990

Father Thomas Corless, Parish Priest of St. John the Baptist's, Uddingston, died at Uddingston on 11th May, 1990 aged 62 years and in the 39th year of his priesthood.

At the Funeral Mass in St. John the Baptist's, Uddingston, the following homily was given by Bishop Joseph Devine, Bishop of Motherwell.

It was a prayer from childhood days which came to my mind when I sat down to reflect on what I might say here today. And the prayer? "Preserve us from a sudden and unprovided death". I suppose I said it more for myself than for him, for if the death of Fr. Tom Corless was sudden, and it was, it was not unprovided. No one here would challenge that verdict. Quite the reverse. I do not suppose that he would have chosen to die in the street. But to those who knew him well, that was always the likelier of the possibilities—that death would take him with his boots on, in the active pursuit of his pastoral ministry of service to the people assigned to his care. The circumstances of his death were a massive endorsement of the witness of his life. I can scarcely think of a more powerful illustration of his life and death than to say that the maxim "as we live, so shall we die" might have been coined with him in mind. The members of this community of St. John the Baptist will assuredly concur.

It is to that community that my words are now directed, in the sense of the pain of loss, as well as shock, which they experienced last Friday evening and over the weekend. I do not think I will ever forget the sight of many hundreds of people streaming out of this Church shortly after 10 p.m. on Friday evening, little over 3 hours from his death, when I arrived here to offer my condolences to Fr. Taylor and the housekeeper. That sight spoke volumes to me of the simple need which people experience to be close to each other in the community of the Church when a family member dies. That is what Fr. Corless, in a completely artless and selfless way, made himself to be—a friend who was regularly present, in an unambiguous and caring way, in the homes of this parish community. His was not a ministry which was characterised by flamboyance or novelty. Instead, he was totally committed to a ministry of presence and the sacrament of the present moment. Lest I fail to make clear what was transparently clear in his life, he exercised a discipline of time, his time, which placed a supreme value on being present to people in their homes, irrespective of season. He knew everyone here and they knew him. And they knew in whose name he came. He did not have to say it. His presence was its proof. I do not suppose that he was ever asked to give a lecture in his life. For him, the lecture was his life. Like conscience, his was the still, small voice which calls attention to the things of God in a world dominated by more insistent voices which fail to meet the deeper needs of the heart. In such a world it is easy to be deflected from the pursuits of the higher values of commitment, service, self-sacrifice and dedication. These are seen to be less attractive because they are more demanding. Tom Corless was suspicious of the short cut. Nor am I in any doubt about the reason. He feared that the short cut would mean that he would short-change those to whom he was bound to give spiritual guidance.

All of that tells me that he had a very sound grasp of basic spirituality from his family and christian formation. To that I now turn. He was born on 14th October, 1927, at Milltown in County Galway. As a boy he attended St. Jarlath's in Tuam, completing his ecclesiastical studies in St. Peter's, Wexford, and ordained for the Diocese of Motherwell on 3rd June, 1951. On his arrival in Scotland his first appointment, for a period of 5 years, was to St. Mary's Larkhall, a community for which he retained an abiding affection and it for him, evidenced by the presence of some from that community here last night and today. In 1956 he came here for a period of 4 years, leaving in 1960, presumably thinking that he would never return. In that period I am sure people here will recall with ease the hard working young priest, who, in the free time he allowed himself, was more than handy with a tennis racquet on the tennis courts below where we now are. There will be still more who can recall his formidable and enlivening partnership with Dr. John McQuade. After 5 years at St. John Bosco's, New Stevenston, he spent a shorter period in St. Ignatius in Wishaw. Then, in 1968, a radical change was to take place in his life. With the conclusion of the Second Vatican Council only a few years before, an appeal was made for diocesan clergy to offer their services to the new churches of the Third World, what we used to think of as Mission Countries, which were desperately short of priests, Fr. Corless was such a volunteer. He opted for Africa and work with the Xaverian Fathers in what is now called Sierra Leone, then better known as the white man's grave, due to its combination of heat and tropical diseases. He was there for six years, returning to the Diocese in 1974. Tributes are paid to him still by the Xaverians who found in him a quite outstanding missionary, full of energy and dedication. Those years in Africa took a greater toll on his health and strength than he ever cared to admit, even to himself. What he saw always was the job to be done and himself there for the doing of it, irrespective of other considerations.

After a short time in Holy Family, Mossend, he became parish priest of St. Clare's in Easterhouse in 1976, at a point when that dormitory town of the city of Glasgow was in the throes of a decline from which it has still to recover. It was mission territory again, without the tropical diseases, but with a myriad of home-spun problems. When the momentum of decline is irreversible, that is where faith and hope and action are put to the severest test. Tom Corless knew of only one way to meet the situation, the way of working without thought of return in the service of whoever was there, for they were people with the same rights and due the same service as everyone else. People mattered to him, not rank or title. In fact, his instinct was to serve the least with greater urgency than the affluent. So it must have been a great surprise to him, when, on 3rd June 1982, the 31st anniversary of his ordination, he returned here as parish priest. But Uddingston had changed too, greatly enlarged in size of population and style of housing from the 50's. The beloved old church was on its last legs as was the presbytery, despite his protestations to me to the contrary, at least about the latter. A new complex was desperately needed. Conscious of the considerable costs involved, once he was persuaded that what was needed was what now exists, he never wavered. He gave himself over to the whole project with the single-mindedness which was his hallmark. It was a great pleasure to see the deep joy which he derived from the new church, as well as his legitimate pride in its accomplishment for the people of St. John's. He knew it to be an outstanding church. What we now know is that it will be a monument to his life, his work and his memory. There will come a time when that will be forgotten. But it will not be in our time.

He died on Friday, 11th June, not quite yet 63 years old. That is not a long life. But into his life was packed a living not measured in years, a simplicity, a goodness, a commitment, which is the only measure by which the Lord reckons the reward for a friend, the friend who was ready when the master came to call. To his family—go my condolences, to his friends—my sympathies, to the parishioners here—my solidarity with them in their sorrow.

May he rest in peace.

Very Rev. George Canon Mullen—28th June, 1990

Canon George Mullen, retired Parish Priest of St. Francis Xavier's, Carfin died at Airdrie on 28th June, 1990, on the eve of the 53rd anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood, aged 78 years.

At the Funeral Mass in St. Francis Xavier's, Carfin the following homily was given by Bishop Joseph Devine, Bishop of Motherwell.

Canon Mullen died on the eve of the 53rd anniversary of his ordination and died more suddenly than had been expected. Although he had been in Monklands General Hospital in the week prior to his death, there was no certain cause for alarm. He had gone to the hospital for tests and surveillance in relation to a deterioration in his general health over the previous week. He seemed to respond, if not as well as might have been the case, then at least sufficiently well to be re-admitted to St. Andrew's Hospice, in Airdrie, which had been his home for the past year. But within an hour of returning to the Hospice he died, peacefully, if suddenly. It was a final blessing, surrounded by the sisters and staff in prayer for him and he with them.

In "Death comes to the Archbishop" Carson McCullers traced the story of Lamy of Santa Fe, a French missionary priest who became the first bishop of what was then a very rough frontier town on the trail of the pioneers going west for gold, glory and a new life there in Texas and California of the mid-19th century American west. Lamy had a formidable task, in setting up the new Diocese, on the one side, battling with adjoining Mexican dioceses over boundaries, and on the other, facing immense difficulties in establishing internal stability in a transitory and rootless community. Long before his time, worn out with work, he faced up to that reality in a way rare for bishops in those days, he retired, opening the way for a successor, going into retirement with a priest secretary in a small house outside the city. One day, suffering from a chill, he asked the priest to let the new Archbishop know that he wanted to come into the city for a few days to settle up affairs. The priest, somewhat alarmed by the implied finality said, "Your Grace, you have only got a cold. You will not die of it". The old man looked at him and replied, "I know that I will not die of a cold, Father. I will die of having lived".

I offer the same verdict on the Canon. A death certificate may state that he died of bronchial pneumonia. The real truth is that George Mullen died of having lived.

He was born in Wishaw on 25th July, 1911. He entered Blairs at the age of 15 in 1926, a year better known for its general strike and economic depression. Four years later he moved to Bearsden from whence he was ordained on 29th June 1937, for the Archdiocese of Glasgow. His first appointment was to the city's east end, in the then old but now much smaller parish of the Sacred Heart, Bridgeton. His 5 years there were eventful ones. War broke out in 1939 and Britain was on its knees in 1940. Clydebank was blown to bits in 1941 and the slow signs of a way back were only becoming evident late in 1942, at which point he moved to the Immaculate Conception in Maryhill, joining the armed forces as a chaplain in 1944. He was with the victorious armies of 1945 and the forces of occupation until 1947. When he returned home it was to an Archdiocese on the throes of dividing itself into three parts, like Caesar's Gaul.

Being in St. Mary's Whifflet at the time, he therefore became a priest of the new Diocese of Motherwell in 1948. He remained in Whifflet for 6 years before going to New Stevenston for 5 months. In April of 1954 he became parish priest of St. Bride's in Bothwell. Bothwell, then and now, is an attractive setting, perhaps slightly less so then, with the Bishop just round the corner and up the road. But he liked Bothwell in the four years which he spent there. A major challenge was to emerge for him in 1958 when he was appointed to St. Andrew's in Airdrie, established 8 years earlier and the church less than half of that time. The result was that the parish had a considerable burden of debt attaching to it.

Debt always made the Canon uneasy—perhaps the grim times of the mid 20's when he went to Blairs and the sacrifice which that would have imposed on his parents, being an abiding reminder to him of the greater attractiveness of credit over debit. He knew his Dickens. The perennial plight of Mr. Micawber held no attraction for him. Whatever the case, he began to display a near Midas touch. If everything he touched did not quite turn to gold, it did turn to silver—scrap, rags, paper, anything. In fact, he once was able to say to me that one of the greatest compliments ever paid to him was that it was generally thought by those in the business of rags and scrap that he was in the trade professionally. Before he left St. Andrew's in 1965, a period of less than 7 years, the debt was cleared.

With the death of Mgr. Taylor, Carfin was vacant. Bishop Thomson, in one of his very first appointments, selected Fr. Mullen as the man for Carfin. In so many ways, it was an inspired choice. It came at a time which could have been very difficult for the Grotto. Marian devotion, indeed, many popular forms of piety, were to be adversely, though unintentionally, affected by the Vatican Council, which concluded that very year.

But the Canon's commitment to Our Lady and the Grotto were considerable. I sometimes used to think that, since coming to the Diocese, if he had his rosary beads to hand and a 20 packet of cigarettes in his pocket, then his mind would be quite at ease. He did a fine job of maintaining the Grotto as an important national and diocesan asset and he developed an enormous affection for Carfin over his 20 years as pastor here. But it was to be the Church here which claimed his attention in the earlier times. Clearly, to meet the needs of the future, a new building was required, this building, which he had the joy to see opening in 1973, the same year in which the Holy Ghost Fathers took over the property across the road. Again another debt to face, again the need for the Midas touch to be displayed, but now by someone within touching distance of the old age pension. But resourcefulness was never a problem for him, nor lack of spirit, not then, at a point where his favourite football team had been clearing the decks for the better part of a decade. So, again, in a manner of speaking, he was back in business. The debt dwindled quickly, almost to vanishing point, by 1983. The Grotto had been much developed over the same period, regaining much of the attractiveness of its heyday, a task which has been splendidly continued by Fr. Logue.

The Canon had become a member of the Cathedral Chapter in 1978. He was to remain so until he retired in March of 1985. Quite soon after I came, his eyesight began to deteriorate quite badly. He suffered the loss of his sister Mrs. Farrell, the mother of his nephew and nieces from Motherwell, and soon thereafter, of another sister, Gertie. All this took its toll and it was clear to me that only one solution was viable. I put it to him that he should retire and stay on in residence in Carfin. He had heard what he wanted to hear, not so much that he should retire, but that he would stay in Carfin. Readily he agreed. I thank his former housekeeper, Theresa, and George, his driver and companion over many thousands of miles and trips round these parts over the years. My thanks go no less to Fr. Logue and the present staff in the parish house for their kindness to the Canon for the years spent in retirement here. About 2 years ago his health gave cause for concern. He spent fairly lengthy periods in Law hospital, from which he would then return to Carfin. But it became clear that he required the kind of all-round nursing attention which cannot be provided outwith a specialised facility. So he went to the Hospice in Airdrie. I thank the sisters and staff there for all their goodness to him. In my visits to him there he always seemed content, even though it was not Carfin. Daily he went to Mass, always fully dressed, never in a dressing gown. He puffed away at his favourite brand and went for daily car trips round the country and beyond. The sisters discovered the character which the clergy of the Diocese and the people of Carfin knew him to be, and they felt happy in being given the task of caring for him until the end. That end came suddenly within a few weeks of his 79th birthday.

So we pray for him today, that the Lord will welcome him home and give him the reward for all his labours.

We convey our sympathies to his relatives at home and abroad as we thank them for their support of him when that was needed most.

Eternal rest grant unto him O Lord; and let perpetual light shine upon him. May he rest in peace.

Rev. Donal Burke—12th July, 1990

On 12th July, 1990 the Archdiocese of Glasgow lost one of its most apostolic priests—Father Donal Burke. Born in Dunmanway, Co. Cork, he was one of five children born to Michael and Madge Burke. His mother was teacher in the local school, a pious and devout woman. His father, too, was a hard-working man who shared the devotion of his good wife. Of Donal's own sisters, one became a teacher and died young while the other enjoyed a career in nursing until her death in 1989. The eldest son became an electrician in his local town and died, also in 1989. The other son, Cornelius, entered the priesthood and served the Archdiocese of Glasgow until 1948. With the reorganisation of the Archdiocese in that year, he found himself in the Diocese of Galloway where he served until his death in 1972.

Donal was the youngest of the family, born on 25th April, 1925, and baptised in the local church. His early education was at St. Mary's Convent School from 1928 to 1932, then at St. Patrick's Boys' School from 1932 to 1937. He pursued his secondary education at St. Ronan's Boys' School in Dunmanway from 1937 to 1939 and this was completed at St. Finbar's College, Cork from 1939 to 1942.

St. Kieran's Seminary in Kilkenny opened its doors to Donal in 1942 and after six years of theological studies and spiritual formation he was ordained priest by Bishop Collier in St. Mary's Cathedral, Kilkenny on 6th June, 1948. In July of that year he found himself, with five of his classmates, in Glasgow where his first appointment was as assistant at St. Michael's, Dumbarton where he served until February, 1967. The fruitfulness of his apostolate in that parish is especially remembered with great affection by his famous Boys' Guild, which still lives on as an association with membership especially strong in Canada. His own comment on them was that "he gave them the faith his mother taught to him."

In February 1967 he was appointed assistant to St. Patrick's, Anderston where he remained until December 1973. He loved "St. Pat's" and felt privileged to work under the patronage of Ireland's National Apostle.

In 1981 he became Parish Priest of St. Louise, Arden. There, too, he endeared himself to the people whom he served with great enthusiasm and devotion. His devotion to Our Blessed Lady and the Rosary and his love for the poor made him an obvious choice as Diocesan Chaplain to the St. Vincent de Paul Society. He expended great energy in this rôle and won the affection and love of all the Members of that Society. The highlight of his work as Chaplain was surely the inspirational address he made to the International Conference of the Society in Paris, promoting the cause of Frederick Ozanam. It has surely earned him a niche in the history of the Society on behalf of its Founder.

The building of the Church in St. Louise parish was a dream which he did not see come to fruition, since he was invited to take over the care of one of the biggest parishes in the Archdiocese, St. Robert Bellarmine. In his humble way, this he accepted in January 1981. Here he applied himself to his apostolate with great enthusiasm, while continuing his work as Chaplain to the St. Vincent de Paul Society. Like the Good Master he served, he went about doing good.

By September 1987 he was beginning to realise that his health was preventing him from achieving his own high standards and in his humility he asked to be assigned to a less demanding parish. His wish was granted and he was offered the parish of Our Lady and St. Margaret. He was charmed to have Our lady as one of the Patrons of the Parish and his devotion to Her grew even greater than before. Year by year he visited Her shrine at Lourdes. He also formed a deep devotion to St. Margaret, whom he grew to love very much because of her care for the poor. Now he was more determined than ever to make a greater contribution to his work as Chaplain to the St. Vincent de Paul Society.

But God had other plans for Donal, and he realised in March 1990 that he was unable to serve the parish as he would have liked, so he retired. He was content and happy to share his sufferings with the Good Lord while Father Peter O'Farrell cared for the well-being of the people of Our Lady and St. Margaret's.

He died on 12th July 1990 in St. Margaret's Hospice, Clydebank. His funeral rites were celebrated in St. Robert's Church, led by Bishop Renfrew assisted by Auxiliary Bishop-Elect of Edinburgh, Kevin Rafferty, and accompanied by over 100 priests from the Archdiocese and surrounding Dioceses. He was buried alongside his late brother, Father Cornelius, in Kilwinning Cemetery. Three of his classmates and a cousin, who is with the Oblate Fathers, bore his remains to the graveside where his cousin, Father Cahalan, recited the final prayers.

Father Donal was one of the many Irish missionaries who left home and country to serve in the vineyard of the Lord. May God grant him eternal rest.

Right Rev. Mgr. John B. Hanlon, S.T.B.—20th July, 1990

The death of Monsignor John B. Hanlon at his home in Tayport on Friday, 20th July, 1990, brought to an end a life of service to the Diocese of Dunkeld.

Monsignor Hanlon was born on 27th August, 1930, the youngest son of Charles and Helen Hanlon. His family were parishioners of St. Patrick's, Dundee, and his early education was completed at St. Patrick's Primary School and Lawside Academy. During his time at Lawside Academy, he won the Leng Gold Medal, an early recognition of his singing talent. On leaving Lawside Academy, he worked for a short time in a local bank before beginning his National Service. In 1951, he was sent by Bishop Scanlan, the then Bishop of Dunkeld, to Campion House, Osterley, to take the first step in his journey towards the priesthood. In 1952, he went to St. Sulpice, Paris, to complete his ecclesiastical studies. During his time in Paris he received his minor orders and the Subdiaconate and Diaconate from Cardinal Felin, Archbishop of Paris. He also graduated from the University of Paris in 1957 as a Bachelor of Sacred Theology. He was ordained priest in St. Andrew's Cathedral, Dundee, by Bishop William Andrew Hart on 29th June, 1957, and after a few months at the Cathedral, he was appointed as assistant priest in the new parish of St. Leonard's, where he remained until 1960, when he was transferred to St. Mungo's, Alloa, where he spent four years as assistant to Canon Matthews.

In 1964, he was appointed to St. Mary's, Lochee. During his time at Lochee, he was given the responsibility for the compilation of the Dunkeld Diocesan Directory. In 1966, he was appointed parish priest of St. Anne's, Carnoustie, which at that time also included the present parish of St. Bride, Monifieth.

His appointment in 1972 to St. Teresa's, Dundee, brought him back to his beloved city of Dundee. The following year, 1973, he was appointed by Bishop Hart as the Diocesan Representative on the Dundee Education Committee, and in 1975, he became the Representative on the Tayside Regional Education Committee. 1976 brought further diocesan responsibilities with his appointment as Vicar General of the Diocese and Administrator of St. Andrew's Cathedral. In October of that year, he was also honoured by Pope Paul VI with his appointment as a Prelate of Honour.

Mgr. Hanlon remained in the Cathedral until 1981, when he was appointed for the second time to St. Mary's, Lochee, this time as parish priest in succession to Father Edmund Purcell, where he remained until June 1989, when he retired to Tayport because of ill-health.

Mgr. Hanlon's great knowledge of and interest in the history of Dundee and the Diocese of Dunkeld was reflected in various parish histories which he compiled during his life.

A large number of priests from the diocese and beyond, as well as a large congregation, joined Bishop Logan in St. Patrick's Church, Dundee, to celebrate Mgr. Hanlon's Requiem Mass. The interment took place in the Eastern Cemetery, where he was buried with his parents. May he rest in peace.

Rev. George Crawley—21st August, 1990

Father George Crawley was born on 13th February, 1926, and baptized in St. Aloysius', Springburn. The family then moved to Lambhill where George attended St. Agnes' School. He commenced his secondary education at St. Mungo's Academy before entering Blairs College, Aberdeen.

As a very young sailor during the World War II, he was posted to the Pacific, operating from Trincomalee, Ceylon (now called Sri Lanka). Shortly after the armistice he began his studies for the priesthood in Darleith, Cardross, and two years later moved to Kilmahew Castle. Altogether there were nine ex-servicemen training for the priesthood, making the community a mixture of teenagers (mostly from Blairs College and Secondary Schools in the Archdiocese) and the forementioned "late vocations" candidates.

Like myself, George was one of six children in a family blessed with parents of outstanding faith and sincerity and, like my own parents, Mr. and Mrs. Crawley set the pattern of devotion to their Catholic faith. I had the pleasure of meeting all of his relatives, especially Edward, Harry, Anna, Helen and his twin brother Albert, who assisted me in compiling this short tribute to George.

Between the years 1946 to 1952 we experienced the "ordeal" of striving and studying for the great occasion of ordination, hopefully. The six years seemed to pass very quickly, probably because of the routine of studying and, with belated thanks to the Rector and teaching staff, we were grateful for the routine. We were given the opportunity of relaxation and sport, principally football, hiking and for those of us who dared to try our hands at the game of golf. As it happened, we were allowed to play on the local golf course on certain days of the week. I think the golf course has recovered from our attempts to hit the ball, but we were trained to replace the many divots we removed!

Anyway, our friendship survived all those years.

George was a very happy person. He enjoyed conversation; he enjoyed recalling his experiences and, above all, he was quick to return kindness and the respect he received from others.

The day we awaited with some apprehension was rather special. Normally the ordinations in the Archdiocese were held on June 29th, the Feast of Saints Peter and Paul, but in 1952 a Vocations Exhibition had been arranged for June and in order to assist the Committee supervising the Exhibition, our Ordination Day was brought forward to 12th June in St. Andrew's Cathedral, Glasgow. The Ordaining Prelate was His Grace the Archbishop, Donald A. Campbell.

Father George served in St. Barnabas; St. Robert's Nitshill; St. Helen's; Our Lady of Good Counsel; Our Lady and St. Mark, Alexandria ending where he began in St. Barnabas.

His life on this earth came to its end on 21st August 1990. His Requiem Mass was celebrated by Bishop Renfrew, assisted by thirty of his brother priests.

May his good soul rest in peace.

Very Rev. Daniel B. Canon White—1st September, 1990

“You are a priest for ever” . . . “for faith and fatherland” . . .

These simple words and phrases shaped and formed the life of Dan Barry White in the fifty-four years of his priestly life. He was always the priest—an Irish priest who gave his everything to his work.

He was born in Ballykilogue, Co. Cork, on 23rd September 1911, educated at St. Colman's, Fermoy—what a nursery this school was for church and state. He studied for the priesthood in All Hallows', Dublin, continued and completed his studies in Bearsden, Glasgow. In 1936 on the feast of SS. Peter and Paul, 29th June, with his older brother, William, who predeceased him in 1962, he was ordained priest by Bishop Henry Gray Graham in St. Andrew's Cathedral, Glasgow.

From 1936 till his death in 1990 this good man gave of his best to the people entrusted to his care. He led by example and word. How many baptisms, weddings, sick calls, funerals, words of praise, words of correction and words of sympathy and support passed from his heart through his lips to those in need? “God alone knows” as we say.

The White family from 1901 to the present day have given loyal and generous service to the church in Scotland. Dean Justin White came to work in Scotland in 1901 and what work he did in Renfrewshire for the Catholic community—he was responsible for the present St. Mirin's Cathedral in Paisley—he was an active and responsible member of the Education Authority, protecting and advancing Catholic education in that area. The half back line from Co. Cork—of Justin White, Tony Mullins and Ned Lawton—was outstanding in its day for the church in the Archdiocese of Glasgow. Their work, example and influence were needed in those days and it was given generously as will be evidenced in Paisley, Bridgeton, Garngad and the 'Shaws till this day.

Such was the background for Dan Barry and Bill as they began their work in their adopted Diocese. Dan Barry served as assistant in St. Cuthbert's, Burnbank, 1936-1950 and in the same capacity in St. Columbkille's, Rutherglen, '50-'55. People will ever testify to the sterling work done in these parishes by the then young, zealous, energetic Irish priest. If evidence is required in the history book as to Dan Barry's work in St. Columbkille's it is there for everyone to see in the magnificent centenary brochure produced by him and his committee in 1953. Having served his apprenticeship he was entrusted with his first charge as Parish Priest in St. Patrick's, Strathaven, 1955,—then St. Mary's, Caldecruix; St. Mary's, Larkhall; St. Patrick's, Shotts and finally to St. Teresa's, Newarthill—he was elected to the Cathedral Chapter in 1978. The Canon retired in 1984 and then lived at St. Francis' Nursing Home, Govan, from where he went to live in Nazareth House, Cardonald. Perhaps 'retired' should not be a word to use about Canon White because up to the end he was ever anxious to help other priests at all times in the way of "supplies".

Every place he served—and he really did serve, in his example and preaching—his sermons (perhaps long at times) were always well prepared and informative, personal and practical. Behind, perhaps at times a severe expression, was a heart of gold and a deep sense of humour. This latter 'virtue' could, and did often at times, relieve a tense situation just by a witty remark. He was a great sportsman, particularly on the hurling field, in which game he was 'county class'. Up to the end he was interested in sport and even on 1st September 1990 he asked—are you sure it is 0-3?

That, briefly, is 'statistics only' of Dan Barry White's life. The Canon's death was also in keeping with his priestly life. His holiday began with his annual visit to Our Lady's Shrine at Knock, Co. Mayo. Whilst there he took part in the different exercises and had the Sacrament of Reconciliation and the Sacrament of the Sick. He left there for his home in Cork but on the journey while he was saying his 'office'—i.e. speaking to the Lord—the Lord called him and he died in Kilkeal, Co. Clare on 1st September 1990.

Previous to his burial in the family grave at Macroom a concelebrated Mass was offered in Granagh church. One of the concelebrants was Bishop John Ahern, retired bishop of Cloyne, a contemporary of Dan Barry and Bill. Fr. Wm. White, Glenboig,—a cousin—also concelebrated with several other priests from the Motherwell Diocese and elsewhere. Requiem Masses were also said in St. Patrick's, Shotts; St. Teresa's, Newarthill and the other parishes that the Canon served. To the bereaved relatives and friends we offer sincere sympathy on the loss of such a good priest and a loyal friend.

May he rest in peace.

Very Rev. Joseph Canon Breen—8th September, 1990

Patrick Breen from Carluke and Agnes Gardiner who hailed from Biggar, both born in 1869, were married in St. Ignatius' Church, Wishaw, in 1898. Their son Joseph was the youngest of their eight children, two of whom died in infancy. Joseph was born in Wishaw on 14th March, 1912.

Educated in St. Ignatius' Primary School, Wishaw, and Our Lady's High School, Motherwell, Joseph completed his secondary education at St. Mary's College, Blairs, Aberdeen, from 1927 to 1931. From then until 1938, he studied at St. Peter's College, Bearsden, being ordained priest by Archbishop Donald Mackintosh in St. Andrew's Cathedral, Glasgow, on 29th June, 1938.

One of his first Masses was celebrated in St. Isidore's, Biggar, where his mother had been born. In her time there were no school chaplains or religious education centres. In their tightly-knit community the parents organised Sunday catechism classes on a rota system in their own homes. Joseph was the first priest whose mother was a native of Biggar.

He served as an assistant priest for a short time in St. Patrick's, Coatbridge, and St. Mary's, Greenock—the Glasgow archdiocese at that time included the present dioceses of Motherwell and Paisley. He was then appointed to St. John's, Glasgow, in 1939, where he remained until 1951. St. John's at that time was a huge parish by modern standards. There was a Catholic population of 10,000 and a staff of four priests. Father Breen looked after the children from his parish who had been evacuated for safety reasons to Ballantrae and Colmonell. Born a couple of years before the First World War, he served in this famous Gorbals parish throughout the Second World War. Glasgow, like Clydebank, suffered the horror of the blitz. Some 70 parishioners of St. John's died as a result of enemy action. During his stay in St. John's, Father Joe was chaplain to the Boys' Club.

In 1951, Father Breen became senior assistant to Father Willie McGhee in St. Mark's, Carntyne, where he was to serve till 1960. He is well remembered for his work with the Young Men's Society and for his regular visits to St. Mark's Junior Secondary School. Wherever he was stationed, he related well to people and was particularly devoted to the sick. A kind, friendly, good-humoured man, his fellow priests appreciated his encouragement and enjoyed his company and his ready wit. He had the gift of being able to laugh at himself. I remember an occasion when Father Breen was playing badminton with the staff of the Junior Secondary School. Suddenly he realised he had a convert waiting for instruction. He rushed to the presbytery, picked up his "Hart's Christian Doctrine" and dashed to the call-room. Still trying to recover his composure he asked his convert if he had any questions he wished to ask after last week's session. "No" was the reply. "Any question at all regarding our meetings over the last few months?" Again the reply was in the negative. "Anything at all you would like to ask me?" "Yes", he replied, "when can we get married?"

In 1960 he reached the pinnacle of clerical life. He was appointed to succeed the late Father Jock Wilson as parish priest of St. Gabriel's, Merrylee, where he spent 14 happy years. The present Presbytery in Merrylee Road was acquired by the Archdiocese on the advice of Father Breen.

In 1974 he returned to the Gorbals, this time as parish priest of St. Bonaventure's. In 1983 he was appointed to the Cathedral Chapter of Canons.

He celebrated his Golden Jubilee in the priesthood on Sunday, 3rd July, 1988, in St. Bonaventure's Church. This was a happy occasion, presided over by Archbishop Winning, shared not only by the parishioners of St. Bonaventure's, but also by his sisters and other relatives, his priest friends and parishioners from parishes where he had served.

Shortly afterwards he retired to Dumbreck. He continued to assist Father John Muldoon in St. Leo's until his health began to fail. He remained steadfast in his faith, cheerful and uncomplaining until the Lord called him on 8th September, 1990.

For over 30 years he had been looked after by his devoted house-keeper, Miss Eileen Cahill. The Archdiocese owes much to housekeepers such as Eileen.

Canon Breen is survived by two sisters, both of whom were teachers. Cora taught in Motherwell and Hamilton; Agnes retired as head-teacher of St. Alphonsus' Primary School, Glasgow.

His sister Mary died on 29th May, 1990, in her 90th year. While working in parish in 1923, she attended Mass at the famous Rue du Bac Convent. Soon she decided to offer herself to the Daughters of Charity at the Rue du Bac. She remained in Paris till 1930 when she volunteered to serve in China. For 20 years she lived in Peking. She was interned by the Japanese for six months and was under house arrest for a number of years. During this time she organised a school for children of parents who were also under surveillance. She moved to Japan where she spent 20 years looking after orphans. After returning to Paris for a short time, she worked in Beirut, caring for orphans in that beleaguered city, until ordered home by our government officials for her own safety. She died in the care of her Sisters in Religion at St. Catherine's Convent, Lanark. Canon Joseph was obviously frail and unwell as he concelebrated Mary's funeral Mass at St. Catherine's Convent on 28th May, 1990. Mgr. Matthew Kinsella, former Vicar General of the Diocese of Paisley, and a life-long family friend, was principal Concelebrant and homilist. May she rest in peace!

A few months later, on 8th September, 1990, Joseph himself died. The funeral Mass took place in St. Bonaventure's Church. Bishop Renfrew and many of his fellow priests concelebrated the Mass in the presence of his relatives and friends from far and wide who had come to express their fond farewell. The interment of this loyal and faithful priest took place at St. Peter's Cemetery, Dalbeath. May he rest in peace!

Very Rev. Kenneth Canon MacKenzie—15th September, 1990

Kenneth MacKenzie was born at Tollcross, Glasgow on 8th April, 1904. As both parents had connections with the Highlands and Islands, it was not surprising when, at the age of 15 he decided to study for the priesthood, that he should have opted for the Diocese of Aberdeen. He went to Blairs in 1919, just in time to witness the ordination to the priesthood of his cousin, Valentine MacKenzie, by Bishop Bennett in September of that year. In 1924, he went to the Scots College, Rome, where he spent some of the happiest days of his life. He was ordained priest by Archbishop Palica in the Lateran Basilica on 18th May, 1930. On his return to Scotland, he found that Bishop Bennett had a superabundance of priests, as eight had been ordained for the diocese in the years 1929 and 1930. He was loaned to the Archdiocese of St. Andrews and Edinburgh, and began his pastoral life as a curate in St. Columba's, Edinburgh.

In the spring of 1931, Father Bennett, Tombae, became ill with a throat infection which endangered his life and enforced an absence from the parish of nearly nine months. The first three were covered by that remarkable Jesuit, Father Alexander Gits, an event that is spoken of by the older people of Tombae, even to this day. Tombae was a parish of about 400 people, of whom 90% were practising Catholics. In June, the neighbouring parish of Chapelton, Glenlivet, had a Mission and it was a sight to see the members of both parishes thronging the roads and hill paths on their way to the evening services. It was into this atmosphere of religious fervour that Father MacKenzie was called and was to spend six months. The people took the young priest to their hearts and he was very happy. It was during this time that he developed a love for angling and spent many a happy hour on the banks of the River Livet which flowed almost beneath his bedroom window.

When Father Bennett returned, Father MacKenzie was sent as curate to St. Mary's, Inverness, under Father Patrick Keenan. His first parish on his own was St. John's, Fetternear, to which he went in 1934. Lily, his sister, went with him as housekeeper and here began a long life of selfless devotion and sacrifice which was only to end when they both came to stay in Nazareth House, Aberdeen: his mother went too.

His time in Fetternear was short, only two years, and his next charge was St. Joachim's, Wick. There, during the war years, he and Lily became well known to the many soldiers who over those years were stationed in the town and surrounding area. The chapel house became a regular meeting place for these men. St. Nathalan's, Ballater, became his next parish in 1944, but again his stay was short, and when Father Bennett went to Fochabers in 1949, he found himself once more in Tombae. It was a very different Tombae from the one in which he had been in 1931. The war years had seen an alarming decrease in population, with the parish now only a little over 200 and still declining. It was something with which he never quite came to terms. In Father Kenny's life we can see the changes that have taken place in the Diocese of Aberdeen; the number of priests has gone from superabundance to a severe shortage and, of the parishes in which he was, Tombae, Fetternear and Ballater are no longer separate parishes.

His final parish was to be St. Margaret's, Huntly, where he was to remain 21 years. His love of angling began to give way to bowls and he was a popular figure on the bowling green. He also became well known to many patrons of Cotter's Tours, and the Saturday overnight stay in Huntly featured for many an evening with the Canon. He had always been a good story-teller with his own particular sense of humour and these, mostly elderly, people would listen to him for hours. An example of this was when he was out in Rome for the Canonization of St. John Ogilvie. As the ceremony ended and the Pope was leaving St. Peter's, the Canon fainted, and he too had to be carried out, but to the Santo Spirito Hospital, where he was believed to be in a critical condition. Three days later, at the Papal audience, there he was, like the ancient mariner, regaling an admiring crowd, on the glory that was Rome.

On 4th September, 1962, he was installed as a Canon of the Cathedral Chapter. In the '70s, after several operations, he gradually deteriorated in health and in 1977 he and Lily retired to the vacant chapel house at Portsoy, and it was there that he celebrated his Golden Jubilee in 1980. Even living at Portsoy became too much for them and they both came to live in Nazareth House, Aberdeen. Here his visits to the elderly, and above all his stories, were much appreciated. In April 1990, he celebrated his Diamond Jubilee, but by then he was visibly failing in health, and even his sense of humour seemed to fail him. On Thursday, 14th September, he was taken to Aberdeen Royal Infirmary, where he died in the early hours of Friday morning.

The concelebrated Mass took place in Nazareth House on Tuesday, 18th September. Bishop Conti preached the homily, and at the end Mgr. Copland gave a résumé of his life. Interment took place in the Priests' Mausoleum at St. Ninian's, Tynet. May he rest in peace.

Rev. John V. McQuade, D.C.L.—22nd September, 1990

Father John Vincent McQuade, Chaplain to the Little Sisters of the Poor and St. Joseph's Home, Roystonhill, Glasgow, died on 22nd September, 1990, in the 64th year of his age and the 41st of his priesthood.

At the Funeral Mass in St. Monica's Church, Coatbridge, on 27th September, the following homily was given by Canon Thomas McGurk, parish priest of Christ the King, Holytown.

Every priest at his ordination makes a solemn promise of obedience to his bishop for the whole of his priestly life. This promise is rather like signing a blank cheque in favour of the bishop. One cannot tell what demands it will entail in the years that lie ahead. Most diocesan priests naturally assume that it will involve ministering in various parishes in the diocese until death or retirement. But there is no guarantee that this will be the case. As far as Fr. John McQuade was concerned it certainly wasn't.

Fr. John completed his studies for the priesthood at St. Patrick's College, Carlow, and was ordained on 4th June, 1950, a month before his 23rd birthday, to serve in the diocese of Motherwell. It had become clear during his years at Carlow that he was blessed with an intelligence of high quality, so, immediately after ordination, instead of appointing him to a parish, Bishop Douglas, who was then bishop of Motherwell, asked him to go to the Scots College in Rome to study for a doctorate in Canon Law.

Having gained his doctorate, he returned from Rome in 1953 and was appointed assistant priest at St. John's, Uddingston—a parish for which he always retained a special affection. It was his first experience of parish work and he threw himself into it wholeheartedly, striking up a happy working relationship with his fellow assistants, Fr. now Canon, Peter McCann and Fr. Tom Corless, under the parish priest, Canon McCarthy.

After six happy years there, he was transferred to the Cathedral, in Motherwell, where he served for a further six years, under Mgr. Conroy. Here, too, he formed a happy relationship with the other priests, including my brother, Fr. Hugh, with whom he established a close friendship that was to last until Fr. Hugh's death in 1979.

Fr. John is still fondly remembered by lots of the more senior parishioners in both of these parishes and by all the priests who worked with him. This is one of the special characteristics of Fr. John; he had a happy knack of getting on well with all those he worked with—a factor which says a great deal about the type of person he was.

In 1965 he was moved from the Cathedral, to become parish priest at St. Athanasius', Carluke—an appointment which he enjoyed immensely. Apart from the friendliness and co-operation of the people there, the open countryside reminded him of his beloved Loughgall, in County Armagh, where he had been born and brought up.

After a relatively short stay in Carluke, he came here, to St. Monica's, Coatbridge, where he spent two happy and fruitful years. Only a couple of months ago, at the Silver Jubilee celebrations of Fr. Jim Naughton, who was with him here, Fr. John spoke warmly of their happy time together in St. Monica's. Little did he realise, however, on coming to St. Monica's, that his stay here was to last only two years, and that this was to be the end of normal parochial work for him.

In 1970, the year Fr. McQuade came to Coatbridge, the Scottish Bishops established the Scottish Catholic Marriage Tribunal, to deal with the increasing number of marriage cases throughout the country requiring special attention, Fr. now Archbishop Winning was appointed the first president of this Tribunal and took up a full-time appointment in the new headquarters, in Woodrow Road, Glasgow. However, just a year later, Fr. Winning was appointed an auxiliary bishop to Archbishop Scanlan of Glasgow, and had to relinquish his post at the Marriage Tribunal. Because of his special training in Canon Law, Fr. McQuade was seen by the Scottish Bishops as a natural successor to Bishop Winning at the Marriage Tribunal, and he was appointed President in the Spring of 1972, a mere two years after coming to St. Monica's. This was to change the whole tenor of his life.

It was a demanding task. The Tribunal was still in its infancy and a great deal of planning and discussion had to take place in the various dioceses of Scotland, in order to establish the efficiently working body which we now have in Woodrow Road.

Much of the credit for the present set-up is due to Fr. McQuade. He gave himself generously to the tasks involved, developed good relationships with the representatives of the dioceses throughout Scotland, and was tireless in his efforts to help the couples in trouble.

During his ten years at the Tribunal, the number of cases to be dealt with kept increasing, so that there never was a time when the demands made on him were anything but great. The presence of Archbishop Winning today is a gesture of gratitude on his part for the debt the Church in Scotland owes to the work of Fr. John. He was not a man to complain about the demands made on him, but the demands were severe. Apart from the organisational side, the strain of dealing constantly with people who were under severe emotional stress gradually took its toll. In the early 1980's his health began to deteriorate and he suffered occasional epileptic attacks. It became clear that it would be unfair to expect him to continue in a post that was so demanding.

In 1982 the bishops agreed to relieve him of the pressure and Archbishop Winning, in consultation with Bishop Thomson, kindly offered him the much more genial appointment of the chaplaincy to The Little Sisters of the Poor in Garngad. Fr. John gladly accepted the change.

Despite the difficulties of his health, with the continuing epileptic attacks and the onset of angina, his eight years with The Little Sisters of the Poor were years of real happiness for him. He loved working for the Sisters and the old folk in St. Joseph's Home, and he greatly appreciated the care shown to him by the Sisters and also by Beryl Gribbon who acted as his housekeeper and was so attentive to his needs.

The Sisters valued him as their chaplain and loved him. He was such a lovable type of person. They will miss him at St. Joseph's but we may be sure he won't forget them now.

Everyone who knew Fr. John well was attracted by his personality. He had such a keen sense of humour, which he frequently used to take the heat out of awkward situations. He wasn't blind to people's faults or foibles, but he had the gift of playing them down by seeing the humorous side to them. This was a great advantage in his work at the Tribunal, but also in coping with his own illness.

Throughout his illness, despite the restrictions it imposed on him, such as not being allowed to drive a car, having to give up even the occasional cigarette, having to take frequent medication and not being able to undertake normal parochial work, he never lost his ready and keen sense of humour. So bright did he remain, that even those who knew him well tended to forget the difficulties he had to face each day.

In effect, it was the soundness of his faith and his trust in God that enabled him to accept his crosses so patiently and so uncomplainingly, and to maintain his good spirits right to the end. Even last week, when he was out for lunch with Canon Boyle and myself, he was as bright as ever, although he knew his heart condition indicated the need for major surgery.

His loyalty to the Church and to the faith was beyond question. He welcomed the changes introduced by the Second Vatican Council and adapted to them easily, since he recognised their value. He was intellectually gifted, but he carried his learning lightly and never used it to lord it over anyone.

I have no recollection of him ever making a nasty remark about anyone nor of his being at enmity with any individual.

He appreciated anything that was done for him and I would like today to thank most sincerely, on his behalf, and on behalf of his family and friends,

The Little Sisters of the Poor for their unfailing care and kindness to him, and the Sisters of Mercy of St. Joseph's Home in Bournemouth who were so attentive to his every need when he took ill there last month during his holiday.

To his brother, his sisters and relatives who are with us today, we offer our deepest sympathy in their grief, but also our sincere thanks for their part in supporting him so generously during his forty years of valiant service in the priesthood to the diocese of Motherwell and to the Church in Scotland. They can be justly proud of him.

Personally, I will always be grateful for the friendship we shared over so many years. He was a most pleasant companion and a loyal friend. He valued highly the friendship and the companionship of his fellow priests and we valued his.

May he now enjoy in heaven the unending friendship and companionship of the One in whose priesthood he felt so privileged to share. Eternal rest grant unto him, O Lord, and let perpetual light shine on him. May he rest in peace.

Rev. William Strickland—15th October, 1990

“You were a priest on earth. Now—still a priest—you are forever in the presence of the Great High Priest, Our Lord Himself.”

Father Strickland was born in Paisley on 21st October, 1919. As a boy at school, his great desire was to be a priest. His wish was granted by his loving and devoted parents, who gave him permission to enter Blairs College, Aberdeen, in 1933. After five years, he was sent to the Scots College, Rome, in 1938. I myself was a student in Rome when Father Strickland arrived. He was a brilliant student, most kind, patient and humble. I used to say to him, “You have the wisdom of Solomon and the patience of Job.”

War was declared. The College was closed and we all returned home. Father Strickland was sent with the other students to Blairs College first, and then to St. Peter's College, Bearsden. On 29th June, 1945, he was ordained priest in St. Andrew's Cathedral, Glasgow.

His first appointment, in August 1945, was to Our Holy Redeemer's, Clydebank. I myself was a curate there at that time. He gained the reputation of being a most understanding and sympathetic priest. He knew what the people of Clydebank had suffered during the Blitz. His work as a priest was most appreciated. In March 1947, he was transferred to Our Lady and St. Mark's, Alexandria. That parish had also suffered the results of the war. Here again, he showed those qualities of a dedicated and holy priest. Among the people of that parish, he was a great labourer in the vineyard of the Lord. Care for and attention to his flock were the most loved and happy actions of his priestly life. In February 1960, he was appointed to St. Anne's in Glasgow. During his stay in that parish, he was much honoured, loved and respected. The people recognized in him a really holy and dedicated priest. In March 1966, he was transferred to St. Michael's, Parkhead. Here again, his priestly qualities were appreciated, always approachable and most fatherly in his manner with his people.

In October, 1969, he was appointed Parish Priest of St. Monica's, Milton. This was a newly founded parish. The work ahead was tremendous: build a church and house, tend to the spiritual needs of his people. Father Strickland undertook with great zeal and eagerness the wish of his Archbishop. In 1974, a new House of God was opened and a new family of God had been formed.

In 1976, he retired. Ill health began to show. It was during his illness that the stern steel-like qualities of resignation to God's Holy Will were apparent for all to see—Our Lord said, "If anyone loves me, let him take up his cross and follow me." Father Strickland did that. Our Lord in His agony said, "Father, not my will, but Thine be done." Father Strickland followed his Divine Master's example. Indeed, he had the patience of Job. He died on 15th October, 1990.

The Concelebrated Funeral Mass was offered on Friday, 19th October, with His Grace the Archbishop as principal celebrant, Bishop Renfrew also being present.

We extend our sympathy to his sisters and other relatives. They must have been greatly consoled and comforted at the great assembly of priests and people at their brother's funeral.

"Well done, good and faithful servant, enter into the joy of the Lord."
May he rest in peace.

The Golden "Little Sisters"

Five golden jubilarians in the Little Sisters of the Poor were warmly congratulated by Archbishop Keith Patrick O'Brien when they gathered for a joint Mass of Thanksgiving in St. Joseph's House for the Elderly, Gilmore Place, Edinburgh.

They were Sister Raymond (Edinburgh), Sister Angèle de Ste Elizabeth (Preston), Sister Anne de Ste Elizabeth (Greenock), Sister Catherine de St. Raphael (Glasgow) and Sister Emmmanuel de St. Raphael (Dundee).

Congratulating the Sisters on their cumulative 250 years of dedicated lives as Religious, Archbishop O'Brien, who was accompanied by the Chaplain at St. Joseph's, Canon Hugh Gordon, said the celebration of the golden jubilee of one Sister was a cause of great joy, but the joint celebrations of the golden jubilee of five Little Sisters of the Poor was the source of tremendous joy, happiness and consolation.

To the Sisters he said: "The practice of your vows of religion, poverty, chastity and obedience speak to the world of the present day about the God who called you. It draws attention to Jesus, the Way, the Truth and the Life, because he was your model. Many will be influenced by the image of Jesus that you Sisters presented to them".

Papal Visit to Scandinavia

Bishop Mario Conti was in Norway to an invitation to take part in the Papal visit to Scandinavia. He represented the historic connection of Norway with Scotland which was particularly marked both before and after the Reformation in the northern part of the mainland of Scotland and in the Islands. Prior to the Reformation, what is now part of the Diocese of Aberdeen, the Bishopric of Orkney, was under the ecclesiastical supervision of the Archbishop of Trondheim or Niardos, and this continued at least until the Islands came to Scotland as the dowry of the ill-fated Maid of Norway. After the Reformation period, in the mid-nineteenth century, a portion of the northern district was committed to the charge of a group of Flemish Missionaries who were constituted as the Vicariat of the North Pole, and for a couple of years in the 1860s, Wick was the centre of their missionary journeys to Orkney, to Shetland, to the Faroe Island, to Iceland, Greenland, settlements round Hudson Bay, and Norway. Indeed some of the Catholic parishes in Norway to-day were established during that period. One, the most northerly at Tromsø, was visited by the Holy Father during the course of his historic journey. The dedication of the Church at Wick to St. Joachim was effected during this period and the building of the Church in Lerwick was, in part, the result of a bequest from one of these same Fathers who died as a result of the plague incurred during his visits off-shore to the fishing fleet.

The Bishop was made very welcome in Trondheim by the Apostolic Administrator Georg Müller, a German Sacred Heart Father, to whom the care of the Church in Trondheim is given. On the Sunday during his stay, Bishop Conti celebrated Mass in St. Olav's Church, a small Catholic Church near Trondheim Cathedral which was packed for the occasion.

Paisley and Galloway Charismatic Renewal Conference

Several hundred people took part in this inter-diocesan event held in Johnstone town hall. The theme of the Conference was: "The world must be brought to know that I love the Father and that I am doing exactly what the Father told me" (John 14: 31). The principal speakers were Bishop Maurice Taylor and Father Kevin O'Connell. In addition to the main talks, several workshops were held and Mass was celebrated each day.

Dedication of Chapel of Our Lady, Maid of the Seas

The annual Motherwell Diocesan Pilgrimage took on a very moving and wholly ecumenical form this year in the dedication of the new Grotto Chapel of Our Lady, Maid of the Seas. The Chapel is the former Church Pavilion from the Glasgow Garden Festival, acquired last year for the Grotto. The dedication of the Chapel is in memory of the victims of Lockerbie air disaster, the name of the chapel being the name of the Pan-Am jet which fell on Lockerbie.

Taking part in the service were Bishop Joseph Devine, Father Patrick Keegans, Parish Priest of Lockerbie, Father Brian Logue, Parish Priest of Carfin, joined by Rev. Robin McHaffie and Father John Sheridan, Rev. Campbell Robertson and other committee members from the Glasgow Garden Festival Inter-Church Project, along with priests, ministers and people from the different traditions.

Bishop Devine praised the very great deal of hard work that had gone into the project to make the vision a reality by Mr. Hugh Mulholland and the Motherwell Community Project Agency along with invaluable support from the Scottish Development Agency and the community of St. Francis Xavier, Carfin.

Silver Jubilees in East Kilbride

Two East Kilbride parishes marked the Silver Jubilee of the opening of their Churches in 1989: St. Bride's, East Kilbride on 7th June, 1989, and Our Lady of Lourdes, East Kilbride on 6th October, 1989.

A large gathering of parishioners turned out on 7th June, 1989, to join Bishop Joseph Devine of Motherwell at the Jubilee Mass, concelebrated with Father John McIntyre, Parish Priest, along with present and former priests of the parish. St. Bride's Church has been a notable landmark for East Kilbride for all its 25 years, and is listed as one of the towns prized buildings. The design by Mr. Jack Coia earned him the bronze medal of the Royal Institute of British Architects upon its opening in 1964.

The parish priest of St. Bride's when the Church was opened was the late Canon James Kilpatrick, and a family connection was maintained by the presentation at the end of the Jubilee Mass of the Diocesan Bene Merenti medal to Mr. Bernard Kilpatrick, brother of the late Canon, who has given constant and outstanding service to the parish since its earliest days.

The community of Our Lady of Lourdes, East Kilbride, came together on 6th October, 1989, to remember the Silver Jubilee of the opening of their Church. The present Parish Priest, Father William Dunnachie, was joined by Bishop Devine, and the other 4 Parish priests of the Parish's 31 year history:— founding Parish Priest, Canon Anthony McGurk, Mgr. John Gillen, V.G., Bishop Maurice Taylor, and Father Patrick Brosnan, along with many other priests who had served the parish over the years, in a Mass of Thanksgiving attended by civic and religious leaders from other churches and large number of parishioners.

Golden Jubilee Celebrations in the Diocese of Motherwell

On 9th June, 1989, the parish of St. Columba, Viewpark, celebrated its Golden Jubilee with a Mass concelebrated by Bishop Joseph Devine, Parish Priest Father Edward Glackin, Father James Morris, assistant, and many priests who had served the parish over the years. The Jubilee Mass was the culmination of a series of events within the parish, for young and old, that looked both over the past 50 years and into the years ahead for St. Columba's.

A special moment at the end of Mass came with the presentation of the City Coat of Arms of the City of Derry to the people of St. Columba's parish along with a special message from the Mayor of the City, recalling that it was from Derry that St. Columba left to spread the faith in Scotland. It was a source of joy and pleasure for both the city of Columba and the parish that bears his name to be united in this way.

Two days after the celebration, on 11 June, Mgr. John Provost Gillen, Vicar General of the Diocese of Motherwell, Parish Priest of St. Columbkille's Rutherglen, celebrated the Golden Jubilee of his ordination to the Priesthood in a Mass concelebrated by Bishop Joseph Devine, Bishop Maurice Taylor and Bishop Charles Renfrew and over 100 priests from all of Scotland and from Ireland. At a reception after the Mass, Mgr. Gillen was honoured by the parish of St. Columbkille. Later in the year, accompanied by Bishop Devine, Mgr. Gillen paid his first visit to Rome, and while there, concelebrated Mass with his Holiness Pope John Paul II, whom he later met in a private audience.

Bonnybridge School

An echo of a famous legal decision affecting Catholic schools in Scotland, given in the House of Lords, was heard in the Stirlingshire town when a new St. Joseph's Primary School, costing £647,550, was officially opened by Councillor J. Connolly, Vice-Convener, Central Regional Council, to replace the one that had a place in Scottish education history.

The 1918 Education (Scotland) Act made provision for the transfer of voluntary Catholic schools to the control of Education Authorities. In 1920 Catholic parents in Bonnybridge campaigned for the building of St. Joseph's R.C. Primary School, opened at a cost of £10,000 and financed by the Catholic Church. The construction of the new school tested the intent of the 1918 Act in a famous legal case which eventually went to the House of Lords, where it was agreed that Stirling County Council should accept the school under its control. That happened on 13th March, 1930.

Archbishop Keith O'Brien, in his Prayer of Dedication at the new school, praised those who sought to uphold parental rights regarding the Catholic education of their children and "their courage in the face of great uncertainty and even hostility".

Pro-Nuncio's Visit to Aberdeen

The Apostolic Pro-Nuncio, Archbishop Luigi Barbarito, the Pope's Ambassador at the Court of St. James's, visited the Diocese of Aberdeen. He was welcomed at the Cathedral by Canon John Symon and celebrated Mass. Thereafter he paid, along with Bishop Conti, a courtesy call on the Lord Provost of Aberdeen at the Town House. He was warmly welcomed and had the rare privilege of standing on the civic balcony to watch a fortuitous pipe band passing up Union Street.

On the afternoon of the 24th, the Archbishop attended a Garden Party in the Walled Garden of St. Mary's College at Blairs, where he met representatives from parishes throughout the Diocese. Happily this took place in beautiful sunny weather. Thereafter he gave Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament in the former College Chapel.

On Sunday 25th, the Archbishop went, in the company of Bishop Conti, to Pluscarden Abbey to attend the Annual Diocesan Pilgrimage, in honour of Our Lady. The Pro-Nuncio presided at Mass and preached.

On the following day, he celebrated Mass at the Convent of Mercy at Greyfriars where he admired the beautifully restored medieval Franciscan Friary. Afterwards he met members of the community and announced the award of Bene merenti Medals to Sister Oliver and Sister Augustine both of whom had retired recently, after many years' service, teaching, latterly as Headmistresses at the Catholic Schools in Elgin and Keith. He also gave a Papal blessing to the nonagenarian Sister Philomena, the oldest member of the Elgin community of the Sisters of Mercy.

The Pro-Nuncio was invited to bless the civic garden which had been formed under the direction of Moray District Council, and with public funding, in the former kitchen garden of the Convent grounds.

Thereafter Archbishop Barbarito was guest of honour at a civic luncheon hosted by the Convener of the District Council, Mr. Edward Aldridge, and fellow councillors including Mr. Robert Cherry, Convener of Leisure and Recreation, responsible for the Edwardian Rose Garden, and Councillor Mrs. Roma Hossack, a parishioner of St. Sylvester's. Mr. James Bell, the Chief Executive, was also present. Among the guests were Bishop Conti, Canon McDonald of Elgin, the Abbot of Pluscarden, and a large number of priests of the Diocese whom the Pro-Nuncio had addressed at an earlier Meeting in Greyfriars Convent. Archbishop Barbarito responded to a gracious speech of welcome by the Convener with an address which illustrated his work as the Pope's Ambassador in Britain and Northern Ireland.

However the population of "the Birnie" gradually left, the parish was moved to Auchinleck and the original church has disappeared. Today's silver jubilee was observed with Mass at which Bishop Taylor was principal celebrant. Bishop Mario Conti preached at Dornoch Cathedral. He was invited to preach in the course of a series of special services to mark the 750th Anniversary of the Cathedral Church at Dornoch built by Bishop St. Gilbert of Moray.

The Bishop was introduced by the Minister, the Rev. James Simpson. In the course of his sermon, Bishop Conti remarked "This 750th Anniversary is an apt time for sharing each other's understanding of the past. We cannot afford to have two histories in Scotland. We have to own each other's traditions as parts of a single history of our nation and, removing, as far as we can, all distortions of the truth, recognise the riches of which we are joint heirs. What gave our country its laws and institutions, what shaped its educational and social care systems, what provided the sense of values and the spiritual motivation of our people, was the Christian faith and the Church, despite all its human imperfections." The Bishop went on to speak about our recognising the signs of the times and suggested "the unity of Christians is what the times need, clear vision and a sure hope, such as only the Churches together can provide."

The Anniversary Service for those who lost their lives in the Piper Alpha disaster, was held in St. Nicholas' Church, the parish Kirk of Aberdeen. Bishop Conti was the preacher.

Before a crowded congregation, Bishop Conti spoke to the bereaved, "You have been in anguish long enough, regretting lost or broken relationships, opportunities missed, chances which are no more. The time has come to leave such thoughts and feelings behind." The Bishop then went on to present the congregation with the vision of Christian hope. "This is the hope which I, as a Minister of the Gospel, offer to you. It is all I have to offer, but it is more than everything else, it can bring you peace!" A number of Catholics who had been members of the support team to the Oil Chaplain, took a leading part in the events to commemorate the disaster. Bishop Retires

Bishop James Monaghan, Auxiliary Bishop in the Archdiocese of St. Andrews and Edinburgh, celebrated his 75th birthday on this date—the age of retiral. Through the Apostolic Pro-Nuncio, he received an intimation that his resignation had been accepted in Rome.

The Bathgate-born Bishop has had a life of distinguished service within the Church—as Parish Priest for many years at Holy Cross, Edinburgh, Diocesan Secretary, Vicar General, and, since 1970, Auxiliary Bishop, first to Cardinal Gordon Gray, and then to Archbishop Keith Patrick O'Brien.

On the national level, he has rendered outstanding service with the Communications Commission of the Bishops' Conference of Scotland, as president of The Pontifical Societies, now embraced in Missio-Scotland, and the Justice and Peace Commission.

A man with strongly developed pastoral feelings, and a gifted administrator, Bishop Monaghan won the love and admiration of his fellow bishops, priests, religious and lay people, not only in Scotland, but wherever his duties took him, be it to Ireland, Rome, Lourdes, Nigeria or South Africa.

At the request of Archbishop O'Brien, he is carrying on as Parish Priest at Holy Cross into his golden jubilee year of 1990.

Cathedral's 175th Anniversary

The historic 175th Anniversary of St. Mary's Metropolitan Cathedral, dedicated to Our Lady of the Assumption, in which Pope John Paul II addressed priests and religious during his visit to Scotland in 1982, was celebrated in impressive fashion.

Cardinal Gordon Gray and the Apostolic Pro-Nuncio, Archbishop Luigi Barbarito, presided at the solemn Mass of Thanksgiving, with Archbishop Keith Patrick O'Brien of St. Andrews and Edinburgh and Bishop Mario Conti of Aberdeen chief concelebrants. It was a wonderfully joyful occasion in the renovated Cathedral, prayerfully uplifting, rich in music, ritual and spectacle. Civic representatives were in the 2,000 congregation, with several hundreds more standing in the aisles.

The Cardinal, who wore the Cappa Magna bequeathed to him by the late Cardinal William Theodore Heard, gave a homily of many personal memories, and of historical interest in the development of Catholicism in Scotland. He referred to Bishop George Hay, who purchased the site, and Bishop James Gillis, who established the original St. Mary's Chapel, "which has since parented the 150 parishes and religious houses which now bejewel the Archdiocese, having had 17 Administrators and 140 priests. For each one, the words of Psalm 69 rang true—"The zeal of God's house consumes me"".

The Cardinal also paid tribute to the "hundreds of thousands of other names recorded only in the Golden Annals of Heaven—priests, lay men and women whose prayers and holiness have made this building a true House of Prayer . . . the host of uncanonised saints whose very presence in this building has impregnated these walls with a wonderful atmosphere of spiritual quiet and Divine Peace".

The Apostolic Pro-Nuncio read a message from Pope John Paul II in which he said: St. Mary's Cathedral "stands as eloquent testimony of the continued vitality of the Catholic Church in Scotland. As the successor to the medieval Cathedral in St. Andrews, it evoked the ancient roots of Scottish Christianity. As the Metropolitan Cathedral of the ecclesiastical province of St. Andrews and Edinburgh, it has witnessed the steady growth with which the Church has been blessed in these two centuries".

A unique ceremony took place, after the Communion, at the 175th Anniversary Mass in St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh—the granting of Armorial Bearings to the Archdiocese of St. Andrews and Edinburgh.

Design features of the Arms are the St. Andrew's Cross, Edinburgh Castle and the Crosses of the Pallium. Mr. J. C. G. George, Kintyre Pursuivant, a resplendent figure in his red uniform, on behalf of the Lord Lyon, read the proclamation to the congregation.

In his thanks for the historic grant of Armorial Bearings—the first for any diocese in Britain since the Reformation—Archbishop Keith Patrick O'Brien said: "This Archdiocese of St. Andrews and Edinburgh is an ancient one, with the last of the Celtic Bishops dying in 1093. The independence of the Scottish Church from the Metropolitan claims of the Archbishops of York was established in 1192 by Pope Celestine III and St. Andrews was erected as a Metropolitan See by Pope Sixtus IV in 1492. It was Pope Leo XIII who restored our Hierarchy in 1878 with our Metropolitan See being entitled St. Andrews and Edinburgh. Our Arms, as Kintyre has said, will serve to bind the great family of clergy and laity of our now noble Archdiocese more closely together".

Two signs of new life in Poland were the growing faith of the Polish people and the election of a Pole, Karol Wojtyla as Pope John Paul II. The faith of the people in Christ and Christ's Church, he said, had never diminished.

An important development in the life of the Schoenstatt Family in Scotland took place when Archbishop O'Brien solemnly blessed the new Shrine at Campsie Glen, near Lennoxton.

The chapel is the first phase of the building programme, involving the rebuilding of Ballencleroch House, formerly known as the Campsie Glen Hotel. It will become the home of the Schoenstatt Sisters in Scotland, who are currently based in Langside, Glasgow.

The new shrine is an exact copy in design of the original shrine in Schoenstatt, Germany.

Monday, 18th to Monday, 25th September, 1989Civic Visit to Regensburg

Bishop Conti was invited by the Lord Provost of Aberdeen, Councillor Robert A. Robertson, to join him, a number of City Councillors and the Town Clerk, Jamus Smith, for a visit to Aberdeen's twin City of Regensburg, the former Ratisbon. The delegation was warmly received in Regensburg. Among those present at the formal welcome was the Bishop of Regensburg. At the exchange of gifts, Bishop Conti presented him with a copy in bronze resin of the statue of Our Lady of Aberdeen.

During the course of the week, the members of the civic party, including the Lord Provost, visited the former Scots Abbey now a Seminary. There they had pointed out to them the tombs of former Abbots, at the time of the Reformation refugees from Scotland, including Ninian Winzet, sometime the confessor of Mary Queen of Scots.

The Bishop concelebrated a Pontifical Mass with the Bishop of Poitiers, in the great Cathedral, on the Sunday during the visit, at which the Aberdeen Civic Delegation were given a place of honour with the Oberbürgermeister of Regensburg, Friedrich Vienacher, who has more than once visited Aberdeen, where he was received at St. Mary's Cathedral by the Bishop.

Thursday, 21st September, 1989Rosewell Rejoices

In his homily at the centenary Mass of Thanksgiving in the church of St. Matthew, Apostle and Evangelist, at Rosewell, Midlothian, the Parish Priest, Father Kenneth Batchelor, stressed the importance of ecumenism in the present age.

To his pleasure and surprise, a local indication of this development came at the end of the service when the Rev. George McCabe, Minister of Rosewell Kirk, presented him and the parishioners, with a message of good will and congratulations, along with a lectionary for use in the church.

Cardinal Gray presided at the Mass, with Archbishop O'Brien the principal celebrant. St. Mary's Cathedral Choir led the music. Tribute was paid to the first Parish Priest, Father Dominic Woods for building such a beautiful church and complex of buildings.

Another academic event took place today when the local Catholic primary school celebrated its fiftieth anniversary. The rooms and corridors of the school were full of mementos of the past and a big crowd of present and former pupils

Golden Jubilee of Our Lady Star of the Sea, Tayport

A Thanksgiving Mass was celebrated in the church of Our Lady Star of the Sea to mark its 50th Anniversary. The principal celebrant of the Mass was Bishop Vincent Logan, who was joined by Father Hugh Campbell, Parish Priest, and a number of the diocesan clergy, many of whom had previously served in the parish.

The Church of Our Lady Star of the Sea, designed by Reginald Fairlie, was opened by Bishop John Toner on Sunday, 24th September, 1939. The history of the parish however reaches back to the 19th Century when it was first served from Cupar. In 1883 however a permanent Oratory was established in a private house, and in 1886 with the established of the independent parish of St. Fillan's, Newport, the needs of the Catholics of Tayport were taken care of by the resident priest in Newport. On 7th May, 1933, a Hall in Castle Street, Tayport, was officially opened by Bishop Toner, and served the needs of the Catholic community until the present church was opened in 1939.

Musselburgh Centenary

The primary celebration of the centenary of Our Lady of Loretto and St. Michael's, Musselburgh, the Solemn Mass of Thanksgiving, concelebrated by Archbishop Keith O'Brien, Bishop James Monaghan and many priests, was a tremendous occasion—with a happy finale.

In the hall for the cutting of the birthday cake, the Archbishop produced the silver trowel used by his predecessor, Archbishop James Augustine Smith, when the foundations of the new church were being laid on 10th December, 1903. After it had been used on the birthday cake, His Grace presented the trowel to the parish, which delighted the Musselburgh priests, Father Michael McCullagh and Father Jock Dalrymple, and the parishioners.

It was evident that the founder of the parish, Father Patrick McGettigan (later Monsignor and Administrator of St. Mary's Cathedral), is still fondly remembered both for the beauty of the church, and for the sacred music tradition he established.

In the congregation, there were a number of Catholics, particularly from the parish of Father James Foley, who was one of the scholars who contributed from the Catholic side. Bishop Conti in his sermon said "Our ecumenical journey truly progresses toward that unity for which Christ prayed when at the level of faith we come to a shared holding and understanding of the word of God which the scriptures contain and which the Lord first gave to his Apostles. May this day's worship focused on the Word harbinger that unity for which he prayed". † M.C.

Friday, 6th October, 1989Double Celebration

St. Margaret Mary's parish in Granton, Edinburgh, composed largely of people from Leith, emerged in the grim early days of World War 2. Perhaps because of the anxious atmosphere of the times, a strong community spirit was rapidly developed by the Parish Priest, Father Anthony Gallagher, and parishioners. It is still strongly in evidence today under Father Michael Cassidy, Parish Priest for the past thirteen years.

This aspect was commented upon at a double celebration—the Solemn Dedication of the Church, and the golden jubilee of the parish, with Archbishop Keith Patrick O'Brien officiating, and Bishop James Monaghan, a former curate, recalling, in his homily, many nostalgic memories from the early years of the parish. The parish was founded in 1836, and the opening of its church followed 3 years later in 1839. The 150th Anniversary of the parish was an occasion for a major renewal and renovation of the interior of the Church, and this work was magnificently completed in 1986. Bishop John Mone of Paisley was formally presented with the Paisley Diocesan Arms in St. Mirin's Cathedral, Paisley by Mr. John G. George, Kintyre Pursuivant of Arms, Court of the Lord Lyon, Edinburgh. It was the first such arms to be presented in Paisley. Penal laws still exist forbidding Catholic dioceses to be corporate bodies and to have arms. Only recently was it discovered that such laws apply only to "England and Ireland" and not to Scotland. On August 15, 1989 the Archdiocese of St. Andrews and Edinburgh was the first diocese in Scotland to be presented formally with an arms. Paisley diocese is the second in Scotland, the first in the Western Province, to have such an arms.

It was the first time that the Lord Lyon was formally represented in St. Mirin's Cathedral. Mr. George who is the first known Catholic to be employed at the Lord Lyon's Court is also a descendant of Cardinal Paul Cullen, Archbishop of Dublin, whom Queen Victoria wanted prosecuted for daring to call himself Archbishop of Dublin and Primate of Ireland.

The new Paisley diocesan arms depict St. Mirin, patron of Paisley, on a St. Andrew's Cross with blue and white squares of the House of Stewart who had their beginnings in Paisley and gave seven Kings with the name 'James'. Also on the shield are two shells of St. James the Great, the Apostle, to whom the Stewarts had great devotion. On the base of the arms is the coat of arms of Pius XII—the dove of peace—who created the diocese of Paisley in 1947. The motto is from the Apostolic Constitution of Pius XII in creating Paisley diocese: For the Good of Souls. The shield is mounted by a mitre, a bishop's cross and the symbol of jurisdiction, a crosier.

Catechumens

On subsequent days at St. Mary's Cathedral, Aberdeen, St. Thomas' Keith, and St. Mary's, Inverness, Bishop Mario Conti inscribed 60 catechumens in the programme of the Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults. The number of parishes preparing candidates has increased over the last year and the Diocesan Pastoral Plan takes as its model the process whereby candidates are welcomed, formed and received into full Communion through the Sacraments of the Church, the so called "Journey of Faith".

Services to Education

Described by Archbishop Keith O'Brien as "an invaluable ambassador for the Church—playing a key rôle in strengthening Catholic education in our schools and promoting a better appreciation and understanding of it in the non-denominational sector", Miss Teresa Gourlay was presented with the Papal Cross Pro Ecclesia et Pontifice in the Religious Education Offices, Edinburgh.

A native of Dundee and graduate of St. Andrews University, Miss Gourlay, while teaching in Dundee, also taught Sunday School in parts of the Diocese of Dunkeld which did not have Catholic schools. She later became Assistant Principal at Craiglockhart Training College, Edinburgh, and held a similar office at St. Andrew's College of Education, Bearsden, when Craiglockhart and Notre Dame College of Education merged. She served on the Catholic Education Commission and represented the Church on the Board of Governors of Dunfermline College and the General Teaching Council.

After retirement she accepted the post of Assistant to the Vicar-Episcopal for Education and later became the representative of the Church on Lothian Region Education Committee.

Cardinal Gordon Gray also paid tribute to Miss Gourlay's long years of dedicated service to Catholic education.

Rite of Election in Galloway

Today, the First Sunday in Lent, the Rite of Election was celebrated in Good Shepherd Cathedral, Ayr. Bishop Taylor received forty catechumens from fifteen different parishes and formally "elected" them for the Sacraments of Initiation in their parishes at the Easter Vigil. The occasion was a very joyful one and the Cathedral was almost filled with sponsors, godparents, catechists, families and other wellwishers. It was a very moving moment when, after the liturgy of the word and the rite of election, the elect left the Cathedral to go to the hall with their catechists in order to continue their reflection on the Word of God which they had heard. Those who remained in the Cathedral for the celebration of the Eucharist rejoined the others in the hall at the end of Mass.

Ordination of Lawrence Carroll S.C.J.

The ordination to the priesthood of Lawrence Carroll S.C.J. took place today in St. John Ogilvie's Church, Irvine. Father Carroll's family are active parishioners of St. John Ogilvie's, which is a parish committed to the care of the Sacred Heart Fathers (S.C.J.). It was a happy coincidence that the ordination should have taken place on the feast of the patron of the parish. Bishop Taylor ordained Father Carroll and, among the large crowd, were many priests of the Sacred Heart Congregation and of the diocese of Galloway.

Archbishop Romero Anniversary

Bishop Taylor, who is vice-president of the Catholic Institute for International Relations, and Mr. Duncan MacLaren, executive director of S.C.I.A.F., were present in San Salvador Cathedral today for the solemn Mass on the tenth anniversary of the assassination of Archbishop Oscar Romero. While in El Salvador, they spent some time in the war zone with the priests of St. Andrews and Edinburgh who are working there. They also met the Papal Nuncio and his secretary, Father Peter Magee (a priest of Galloway diocese). In addition they were able to spend some time and renew friendships in Guatemala and Nicaragua.

Special Mass to Mark Setting-Up of School Boards

Members of newly established school boards representing Catholic schools from all parts of the Archdiocese of Glasgow were present today at St. Francis' Church, Cumberland Street, Glasgow, to pray for guidance for their tasks.

Archbishop Winning said that the introduction of school boards should be seen as a new opportunity to strengthen Catholic education and added:

"It is not only the officially co-opted members who represent the Church. Every Catholic serving on a school board is asked to do just that".

Galloway Priests' Silver Jubilees

Two Galloway priests, Father John Kinsler and Father Matthew McManus had, on successive evenings, parish celebrations of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their ordinations. Father McManus is parish priest at Kilwinning and Father Kinsler at Gretna, a tiny parish but a place whose fame means that he is frequently called upon to officiate at international weddings. The double Galloway celebrations were part of a quintet of silver jubilees. Hence among the guests at Gretna and Kilwinning, were their three St. Andrews and Edinburgh contemporaries, one of whom is Archbishop O'Brien.

Re-dedication of St. Margaret's, Huntly

St. Margaret's, Huntly, having been completely re-built at a cost of nearly £300,000, 75% of which was contributed by public funds, was re-dedicated by Bishop Mario Conti assisted by Provost Lewis McWilliam, the parish priest, and a goodly number of the Diocesan Clergy, religious and laity. St. Margaret's is listed as an historic building of architectural importance, Grade 'A'. It is remarkable for its Spanish style bell tower, the first to be provided for a Catholic Church after the Reformation and is notable also for its rich internal decoration including six paintings of Spanish provenance gifted by the Gordons of Wardhouse, who were generous benefactors to the Church.

At the subsequent Dinner, there was praise for Provost McWilliam who, in his mid-eighties, is still able to provide pastoral care of an extended parish that includes also Lumsden.

150th Anniversary of the Little Sisters of the Poor

Bishop John Mone of Paisley was the principal celebrant of the Mass of Thanksgiving in St. Mary's Church, Greenock, to mark the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Little Sisters of the Poor by Bl., Jeanne Jugan in Brittany in 1840. They made their Greenock foundation in 1884.

The homily was given by Bishop Emeritus Stephen McGill, who covered the development of the congregation in France and throughout the world. He expressed his thanks to the good sisters for the many acts of kindness to the aged poor of those 150 years and the great work they continue to do in Paisley diocese at Greenock.

Provost Tony McGlone of Inverclyde formally welcomed the Little Sisters to a civic reception in Greenock Town Hall after the Mass.

Galloway Assembly of Priests

With very few exceptions, all the priests of Galloway diocese took part in the first Diocesan Assembly of Priests. It was held in St. Peter's Pastoral Centre, Glasgow. The Assembly was a time for honesty in sharing and for support in friendship, as we discussed priesthood ("How has being a priest changed and what do I feel about it?"), different styles of leadership, relationships in the parish and in the diocese, the need to change and grow (not forgetting the need for sensitivity and understanding), ongoing formation, clergy appointments, our involvement in the Decade of Evangelisation and the Five Objectives of "A Challenge for the '90s".

The atmosphere was open and friendly, nettles were grasped in an atmosphere of dialogue that was good and constructive. The experiment will undoubtedly be of great benefit to all who took part and to the diocese at large.

Conservative Assembly at Aberdeen Conference Centre

Prime Minister, Margaret Thatcher, members of her Cabinet and Conservative M.P's., and constituency party supporters, gathered in Aberdeen for the first time in many years for their annual Conference. Without precedent, Bishop Conti was invited to give a short homily at the commencement of the first session.

Illustrating what Christian service is with reference to Our Lord's own words to the sons of Zebedee when their mother sought preferment for them, the Bishop went on to comment: "We build however on foundations of law and order established in the past. Otherwise that necessary stability and sense of continuity of government will be lacking with disastrous results. We can identify the Judeo-Christian influence in the moulding of that tradition (of law and order). Justice must be tempered with mercy; equity with compassion. There is a virtue in strong and consistent leadership, but it must never be deaf to entreaty, not blind to the unforeseen."

St. Brendan's, Saltcoats, Silver Jubilee

The handsome and spacious church of St. Brendan was opened in 1965 and today was the official celebration of its twenty-fifth anniversary. Fittingly, the Mass, celebrated by Bishop Taylor, Father Edward McGhee (the present parish priest) and priests of the deanery, included the Sacrament of Confirmation. The celebration was thereby a genuine parish occasion. The two former parish priests, Canon Patrick Gunning and Father Frank Kiernan, both of whom died in the last two or three years, were specially remembered at the Mass.

The complex of church, house and hall are a landmark in the area. Inside the church the striking features are the enormous and distinctive crucifix, the beautiful stained glass at the back of the church, and the sanctuary richly refurbished and updated six years ago.

Confirmation for Those with Special Needs

Diocesan Masses for disabled people, those with special needs and their families and friends take place once or twice a year in Galloway. Today, in St. John's, Stevenston, there was a large congregation from many parts of the diocese. The highlight of the afternoon was the confirmation of five people with special needs. The Mass as usual had been well prepared and was a truly joyful celebration of God's love for us all. In his homily, the bishop stressed that support from others, and especially from fellow-parishioners, is very much a felt want among parents and families when there is in the house a person with special needs.

Presentation of Motherwell Diocesan Arms

The formal presentation of the newly granted Coat of Arms for the Diocese of Motherwell was made in the Cathedral on Sunday 27th May, 1990. The presentation of the Letters Patent granting the Arms was made to Bishop Devine by Mr. John C. G. George, F.S.A. (Scot), F.H.S., Kintyre Pursuivant. The diocese was greatly assisted in the negotiations with the Lyon Court by Mr. Peter Drummond Murray, Slains Pursuivant.

The new Arms depict an Azure fountain, as in those of the city of Motherwell, surrounded by three fleur-de-lys, traditional heraldry of Our Lady, on a blue background. Thus the presence of Our Lady in the Diocese and the town which bears her name, is preserved in the new Arms of the Diocese.

Founded 95 years ago, this is the only Catholic charity supporting leprosy sufferers in the care of missionaries. Recent statistics show there are still 11 million victims in Africa, Asia, Oceania and Latin America.

Even after cure the patients may still be severely disabled.

The Guild depends entirely on voluntary subscriptions.

PLEASE HELP US by sending your donation to:

SURVIVE-MIVA

Thanks Parish Priests and Parishioners for their continuing support in 1990. With your help vehicles of all descriptions have been supplied so that missionaries can reach the needy, the sick and the dying in some of the most remote areas of the Developing World. We have 22 volunteer speakers in the Dioceses of Scotland, who make appeals in churches. More speakers are required. Contact address below.

St. Peter's Pastoral Centre

St. Peter's is the Pastoral and Retreat Centre for the Archdiocese of Glasgow. It is situated in extensive grounds on the south side of the city, on one of the main bus routes, and just off the main Kilmarnock Road.

The Centre has accommodation for fifty residents, in single rooms; and in addition can offer facilities for:

- Group Meetings;
- Prayer and Meditation groups;
- Evenings of Recollection;
- Weekend Retreats;
- Quiet days for individuals;
- Renewal Courses or Conferences;

A priest is available, if necessary.

Cooked meals can be provided and facilities are available for groups to bring their own packed lunches.

Full conference facilities are on hand.

For details of charges etc., phone us at 041-633 0484, or write to:
